Coaching Staff

Rob Barr
Head Coach

Rob Barr is in his flrst season as the head men's and women's tennis coach at Hamilton College. Barr was the interim head men's tennis coach at Middlebury College in 2010-11.

Barr guided the Middlebury men to a dual match record of 18-4 last season, including 6-1 in the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC). The Panthers were semiflnalists in the 2011 NESCAC championship, and went on to win two matches in the NCAA Division III championship before they fell to Emory University in the quarterflnals.

Barr coached the 2011 NESCAC men's tennis player of the year and three all-conference selections. Two of his players earned All-America honors in 2011.

Barr was an assistant coach at Middlebury in 2010 when the men captured the NCAA championship. He coached several All-Americans, including the ITA championship doubles duo of Andrew Thomson and Andrew Lee.

Barr has extensive experience at the Division I level, as he coached at four different institutions before he joined Middlebury. Barr served as the men's assistant at Rice University and the University of New Orleans, and was the head coach at Southeastern Louisiana University and the University of Louisiana-Monroe.

Barr has coached a number of professional tennis players, including Thailand Davis Cup members Danai Udomchoke, Sonchat and Sonchai Ratiwatana. He has coached players at Wimbledon, the U.S. Open and Australian Open, as well as tour events around the world.

Barr earned his bachelor's degree and played collegiate tennis at Southern Arkansas University. He led the team to a top 10 Division II ranking in 1984. He continues to play competitively at the sectional and national level.

Bob Kaufman
Assistant Coach

Bob Kaufman is in his flrst year as an assistant coach for the Hamilton College tennis programs.

Kaufman was born and raised in Zurich, Switzerland. He held the No. 1 ranking in each of Switzerland's national junior age categories. As an 18-year old, he competed as the youngest member of the country's Davis Cup team. Kaufman later played professionally in the U.S. and competed against some of the game's greatest players.

Kaufman has coached some of the nation's top junior players, including Gretchen Rush, the 1982 world junior champion. Barbara Potter was another top junior that enjoyed great success on the women's pro tour under Kaufman's tutelage. He has worked with several professional women's players, and guided Rush to a top-20 worldwide ranking. In 2006 and 2007, Kaufman worked extensively with top national players on the island of Tahiti.

About the NESCAC

Founded in 1971, the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC) is a group of eleven highly selective liberal arts colleges and universities that share a similar philosophy for intercollegiate athletics. The Conference was created out of a concern for the direction of intercollegiate athletic programs, and remains committed to keeping a proper perspective on the role of sport in higher education.

The formation of NESCAC originated with an agreement among Amherst College, Bowdoin College, Wesleyan University and Williams College first drafted in 1955. Along with these four institutions, Bates College, Colby College, Hamilton College, Middlebury College, Trinity College and Tufts University are sustaining charter members. Connecticut College joined in 1982, bringing the Conference's membership to its current total of 11 institutions.

NESCAC members believe intercollegiate athletic programs should operate in harmony with the educational mission of each institution. The Conference is committed to establishing common boundaries to keep athletics strong but in proportion to the overall academic mission of the member institutions. In pursuit of this mission, the Presidents of each NESCAC institution control intercollegiate athletic policy. Conference tenets are usually more restrictive than those of the NCAA Division III with regard to season length, number of contests and post-season competition.

NESCAC institutions also believe athletic teams should be representative of the entire student body. Thus, admissions and financial policies are consistent with the NCAA Division III policies that prohibit athletic scholarships and award financial aid solely on the basis of need.

In 1999, the NESCAC formally became a playing conference and now sponsors 26 conference championship sports (13 for men and 13 for women). Member schools offer extensive and broad based intercollegiate as well as club and intramural opportunities for both men and women. With member institutions sponsoring an average of nearly 30 varsity programs, NESCAC provides more than 7,500 opportunities for participation in intercollegiate competition at the Division III level. Teams and individuals have achieved great success on both a regional and national level. During the 2010-11 academic year, 49 teams participated in NCAA team championships. NESCAC student-athletes claimed 24 individual national championships and NESCAC teams won seven national team championships.The NESCAC has produced six NCAA Division III men's tennis team champions, two singles champions and two of the last three doubles champions. Four NESCAC programs made the NCAA championship last year, and three advanced to the quarterfinals.
