History of the College

Hamilton College had its beginnings in a plan of education drawn up by Samuel Kirkland, missionary to the Oneida Indians, almost 200 years ago. The heart of the plan was a school for the children of the Oneidas and of the white settlers, who were then streaming into central New York from New England in search of new lands and opportunities in the wake of the American Revolution.

In 1793 the missionary presented his proposal to President George Washington in Philadelphia, who "expressed approbation," and to Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton, who consented to be a trustee of the new school, to which he also lent his name. The Hamilton-Oneida Academy was chartered soon thereafter. On July 1, 1794, in colorful ceremonies attended by a delegation of Oneida Indians, the cornerstone was laid by Baron von Steuben, inspector general of the Continental Army and "drillmaster" of Washington's troops during the War for Independence.

The Academy remained in existence for nearly 20 years. It faltered, almost failed, and never came to serve Samuel Kirkland's original purpose, which was to help the Oneidas adapt to a life in settled communities. In fact, few Oneidas came to attend the school, and its students were primarily the children of local white settlers. Yet the Academy remained the missionary's one enduring accomplishment when, a few years after his death, it was transformed into Hamilton College.

The new institution of higher learning was chartered in 1812. The third college to be established in New York State, it is today among the oldest in the nation. Its history has been both long and eventful. After surviving dire difficulties in its early years, the College began to flourish in the period prior to the Civil War. Throughout the nineteenth century, however, it remained steadfast in its adherence to a traditional classical curriculum. Its students (all male), drawn almost entirely from the small towns and rural areas of upstate New York, were expected to enter well prepared in Greek and Latin. They continued to receive generous instruction in those languages, as well as in philosophy, religion, history and mathematics, throughout their stay on the Hill. In that respect, Hamilton was not unusual among colleges of the time. However, there was a greater emphasis on "rhetoric and elocution" than at other schools, and public speaking became, and to some extent remains, a Hamilton tradition.

College life in the nineteenth century was rigorous. Students studied by lamp and kept warm by fires fueled with wood that they themselves had gathered. Each morning, they met in Philip Hooker's unique three-story chapel to hear a lesson, usually from the president. Although the requirement of chapel attendance has long since disappeared, this most beautiful of the College's buildings continues to dominate the central quadrangle. The social activities of undergraduates, left mostly to their own ingenuity and direction, led to the early growth of literary societies which sponsored programs of declamation and debate. Social fraternities were first formed on campus during the 1830s, and several continue to exist today. Athletic activities of the informal variety were the rule until the end of the century, when organized intercollegiate sports began to appear.

As the College entered its second century in 1912, Hamilton was preparing itself for the modern era. An ambitious building program under President Melancthon Woolsey Stryker (1892-1917) had given the College facilities that were the envy of peer institutions, and the curriculum had been substantially revised to accommodate modern languages and the sciences.

However, it was under President Stryker's successor, Frederick Carlos Ferry (1917-1938), that Hamilton achieved solid academic status among America's leading liberal arts institutions. Actively supported by Elihu Root, the distinguished statesman and Nobel prize laureate who was chairman of the board of trustees, President Ferry nurtured Hamilton as a place of quality teaching and learning. The work of modernizing the curriculum was continued, and a comprehensive and innovative athletic program giving encouragement to amateur enthusiasm and widespread participation was introduced.

In the aftermath of World War II, the pace of change accelerated. The student body was expanded and, thanks to a large and ever-growing pool of applicants, its quality was enhanced as well. The faculty also grew in size and stature, and the social sciences became a more vital part of the curriculum through incorporation of course offerings in anthropology, economics and government.

Perhaps the most revolutionary change of all occurred when Hamilton established a sister institution, Kirkland College, in 1968. Even though Hamilton remained a men's school while Kirkland enrolled women only, students cross-registered for courses and shared certain facilities, such as the new Burke Library. A coeducational atmosphere was thus created on the Hill. In addition, Kirkland offered numerous areas of study that were not then available at Hamilton. When the two colleges were combined in 1978, Hamilton became fully coeducational and its curriculum received enrichment from Kirkland's, particularly in the performing and studio arts and in such fields as comparative literature and sociology.

In recent years the curriculum has been further expanded to incorporate interdisciplinary studies such as Africana, American, Asian, Latin American and Women's Studies, as well as computer science and a program in public policy. Also, the physical plant has been continuously renovated and expanded, providing students with access to exceptionally modern facilities and equipment for both academic and extracurricular pursuits. Among recent developments are extensive renovations of facilities for the sciences, new language laboratories, an audio-visual center, a writing center, the Emerson Gallery for the exhibition of works of fine art and the expansion of the Robert E. Jones Computer Center. The latest major projects to be dedicated, the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts and the William M. Bristol, Jr. Swimming Pool, were constructed in 1988. Construction on the Walter Beinecke, Jr. Student Activities Village was completed in the summer of 1993.

In 1992 the College that evolved from Samuel Kirkland's plan of education celebrated the 180th anniversary of its charter. Far from the modest frontier school for white and Oneida Indian children that the missionary envisioned, it has become an institution of higher education that draws its students from all areas of our country and even beyond its borders. Although Hamilton remains small by present-day standards and currently has a student body of only 1,650, it provides resources and facilities for a quality education that compare favorably with those offered by undergraduate institutions substantially larger in size. While faithfully maintaining the tradition of liberal learning in a comfortably intimate environment, Hamilton has responded to changing needs and circumstances in preparing its students for a world unimagined by Samuel Kirkland in the days of our nation's infancy.

College Purposes and Goals

Education in all its forms is the central mission of Hamilton College. At Hamilton it is understood that the pivotal commitment of the faculty, administration and staff to the intellectual and personal development of students is the College's most important and enduring tradition.

Hamilton is a coeducational, residential liberal arts community whose members value and seek intellectual and cultural diversity. The College encourages respect for political, religious, ethnic, racial, physical, generational, sexual and affectional, and intellectual differences because such respect promotes free and open inquiry, independent thought and mutual understanding.

Teaching and learning link the classroom to other aspects of student life and contribute to an educational environment that supports civility, respect and meaningful student-faculty interaction. The faculty is composed of men and women who are dedicated to the promotion of academic achievement, human decency and personal growth. Hamilton students talk about "working with" rather than "taking courses from" their professors. Undergraduates spend much time with their teachers identifying problems, clarifying questions, experimenting with solutions and frequently doing collaborative research. Although opportunities for social and recreational activities abound, Hamilton is, above all, an academic community in which challenging intellectual work is the main focus.

The fundamental purpose of a Hamilton education is to enable young men and women of unusual gifts to realize their fullest capacities, for their own benefit and that of the world in which they will live. The College's motto, "Know Thyself," summarizes the primary goal of a liberal arts education. At Hamilton we believe that the proper mixture of good students, dedicated faculty and a well-designed curriculum offers the best hope for a lifetime of continuing learning, intellectual exploration and personal fulfillment. Hamilton's curriculum reflects an appropriate respect for breadth and depth in the study of the liberal arts. The College expects its students to develop the ability to read, observe and listen with critical perception, and to think, write and speak with clarity, understanding and precision.

More specifically, a Hamilton education has as its essential goals the development of the following abilities:

1. Fundamental Skills. The College expects its students to attain a satisfactory level of achievement in written, oral and quantitative work.

Writing skills. Students are encouraged to take writing-intensive courses. The Writing Program requires that every student pass at least three such courses, each taken in a different semester. For further details on the requirement, see "Standards for Written Work" under "Academic Regulations." This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.

Oral skills. A high proportion of courses at Hamilton help students develop their skills in oral communication, through class discussion and/or formal presentations.

Quantitative skills. Each student must demonstrate basic quantitative literacy by means of one or more of the following:

- a) passing the Quantitative Skills Exam, which each first-year student is required to take during Orientation;
- b) passing a course having a significant quantitative/mathematical component (During Orientation, the advisors of first-year students will be informed of their advisees' scores on the Quantitative Skills Examination. Appropriate academic departments will inform advisors of the set of courses offered during that term that will satisfy the Quantitative Skills Requirement.)

- c) completing a non-credit-bearing tutorial through the Quantitative Literacy Center.

This requirement should be completed by the end of the first year.

2. Breadth of Coursework. Each student must earn a minimum of two course credits in each of the four academic divisions listed below. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.
 - a) Arts (Art, College 300, Creative Writing, Dance, Music and Theatre). Course choices in this division must include at least one full-credit course.
 - b) Historical Studies and Social Sciences (Africana Studies, American Studies, Anthropology, Economics, Government, History, Public Policy, Russian Studies, Sociology and Women's Studies). Course credits in this division must be earned in at least two different departments or programs.
 - c) Humanities and Languages (Classics, Comparative Literature, Critical Languages, East Asian Languages and Literature, English, German and Russian Languages and Literature, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, Philosophy, Religious Studies, Romance Languages and Literature, and Rhetoric and Communication). Course credits in this division must be earned in at least two different departments or programs. Furthermore, the faculty urges all students to develop proficiency in at least one foreign language.
 - d) Sciences and Mathematics (Archaeology, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geology, Mathematics, Physics and Psychology). Course credits in this division must be earned in at least two different departments or programs.
3. Cultural Diversity. The purpose of this goal is to help students become better aware of the diversity of human cultures and of assumptions about social relations, power and authority, and world view connected with their own sociocultural heritage. Progress toward this goal must be made by one or more of the following:
 - a) studying at the college level in a foreign country;
 - b) completing a course in a foreign language department that focuses on a representation of society in its own language;
 - c) completing a course centrally concerned with social relations, power and authority from diverse sociocultural perspectives;
 - d) any course offered under Africana Studies, Asian Studies, Latin American Studies, Russian Studies or Women's Studies, including cross-listed courses.

A course chosen to count toward this goal may also count toward Goal 2. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year. The following courses fulfill this goal:

Under option b)

French 200, 250, 280, 295, 325, 550

German 240, 420

Greek 210, 350, 390

Latin 210, 340, 350, 390

Russian 220, 300, 320, 330

Spanish 251, 270, 271, 281, 320, 373

Under option c)

Anthropology 114,125,224, 301,330, 360,361

Art 266

Classical Studies 100, 150,240,250, 340

College 100, 130

English 365

Government 112,214,358

History 111,275,282

Music 154

4. Ethical Issues. To ensure that students think about ethical choices, about ways of approaching them and about ways the range of choices may be shaped by society and culture, each student must complete at least one course that addresses such matters. Courses that may be appropriate to this goal are offered by many departments and programs. A course chosen to count toward this goal may also count toward Goal 2. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.

5. Concentration. Each student must meet the requirements for a concentration.

Students make progress toward meeting these goals through a series of curricular requirements and through educational choices made in the context of a strong faculty advising program. A faculty advisor assigned to each student provides information, advice and dialogue about choice of courses as the student strives to meet the five goals. For many faculty members and students, this relationship will be as important as any they form. As the primary intellectual guide, the faculty determines the fundamental structure and the basic requirements of the curriculum in light of the liberal arts tradition and its appropriate adaptation to the contemporary world.

In sum, Hamilton's mission is to provide an educational experience that emphasizes academic excellence and the development of students as human beings. This experience centers on ready access to an exceptional faculty and can be shaped to meet each individual student's interests and aspirations. A Hamilton education will prepare you to make choices and to accept the responsibilities of citizenship in a democratic world of intellect and diversity. It will be the foundation on which you build a lifetime of personal and professional achievement and satisfaction.

Academic Programs and Services

The College Year

The College's calendar consists of two 14-week semesters. Students will normally elect four full-credit courses each semester to meet the minimum graduation requirement of 32 credits.

Students elect courses from among the offerings of 24 departments and 14 interdisciplinary programs. For qualified upperclass students, the College's Term in Washington and programs in China, France and Spain provide rich off-campus educational experiences.

Academic Advising

The Hamilton College curriculum affords students a wide range of courses and disciplines within the liberal arts. The College relies heavily on a system of academic advising designed to assist students as they establish their academic goals and in the selection of their courses. Each advisor is a member of the faculty with a term of service beyond one year. Although students ultimately decide which courses to take, their advisors help them determine the level and sequence of courses appropriate to their needs and guide them in planning a balanced four-year program.

Each first-year student is assigned a faculty advisor who provides guidance during the first and second years. The advisor will help the student plan the fall course schedule during Orientation. At that time, each student also takes a variety of placement and proficiency tests. The results of these tests enable the student and advisor to discuss and agree upon appropriate courses and to initiate development of a balanced academic program.

Preregistration for each semester takes place near the end of the preceding semester. At such times of academic advising, students are encouraged not only to plan for the coming semester but also to look ahead to their entire course of study, with special attention to the educational goals of the College.

In the second semester of the second year, students elect their concentration, after which time advising becomes the responsibility of a faculty member in the student's field of study. Student and advisor continue to work on the student's plans to satisfy the goals of the College, to fulfill the requirements of the concentration and to prepare for the senior program of the concentration. Certain members of the faculty offer counsel to students preparing for particular professions and careers.

Hamilton's advising system is distinctive among colleges and universities in its reliance upon the faculty to do all academic advising. The advisor is more than a casual faculty contact: advisor and advisee are expected to meet frequently and discuss the advisee's academic needs and problems. The performance and course selections of each student are reviewed carefully by the student's advisor, who may also consult with other advisors about his or her advisees' curricula and ways of strengthening them. Students may seek additional advice about their academic programs from the deans in charge of academic advising.

Students with learning disabilities may request special arrangements for academic activities. Students who request special arrangements must provide to the associate dean of students (academic) a professional diagnosis of the disability. In consultation with the student and with appropriately qualified psychologists in the Counseling Center, if necessary, the associate dean will determine what accommodations (such as extended times to complete examinations) are reasonable. Students who are allowed special arrangements must inform their instructors well in advance of the time the arrangements will be needed.

Academic Support Services

The Library—The Burke Library contains 545,000 volumes, and the collection is constantly expanding with new acquisitions in response to ever-changing academic interests and curricular needs. The main collection is particularly strong in the areas of history, the social sciences and the humanities. A science collection is maintained in a separate science library in the Science Building. In addition to books, the Burke Library regularly receives approximately 1,800 periodicals, together with an increasing amount of materials in microform. Additional materials for research purposes are available through interlibrary loan and document delivery from various online systems. A library network with the online catalog, CD-ROMS, FirstSearch, LEXIS-NEXIS, and many other Internet resources is available. There is a separate Media Library, which houses videos, slides and films, and a Music Library with music compact discs and tapes.

Among the library's special collections are the Rare Book Collection, the Ezra Pound Collection, the Beinecke Lesser Antilles Collection and the Alumni Collection of books written by and about graduates of the College. In addition, an area of the first floor of the library contains easy chairs and a collection of books selected for leisure-time reading. Seminar rooms for small classes are also located in the library.

Information Technology Services—Information Technology Services (ITS) provides a variety of support services for faculty, staff and student users of computers, the telephone system and the campus data network. The campus data network provides more than 2,800 high-speed ethernet connections to the Internet, including one for each student living in the residence halls.

There are approximately 950 college computers located in offices, classrooms, departmental laboratories, and public computing clusters.

ITS offices are located on the lower level of the Burke Library.

The Language Center—The Language Center, located on the third floor of the Christian A. Johnson Building, supports all levels of language acquisition. It provides access to advanced multimedia computing facilities, as well as to traditional audio and video equipment. The networked computers provide access to World Wide Web resources such as international newspapers, magazines and radio programs. In addition, the computers offer word processing capabilities in many languages as well as high-end interactive software.

The Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center—Located in the Kirner-Johnson Building, the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center assists faculty members and students in examining public issues. The center maintains a cluster of six computers and a small library of newspapers, journals and references. The center also brings prominent speakers to campus to address public issues and arranges video conferences between off-campus speakers and student groups. Through the Alumni Fellows Program, alumni are paired with students and faculty members to share knowledge. Hamilton students in all concentrations are selected for the Levitt Scholars Program and present their research work to high school classes. The center also provides support for faculty and student research on public affairs. In particular, the Oneida County Human Services Resource Center coordinates student projects with public and private agencies who have specific research needs. The services of the center are available to everyone in the College community.

Nesbitt-Johnston Writing Center—Designed to support writing in courses throughout the curriculum, the Writing Center offers individual writing conferences with peer tutors for students who wish to discuss any writing, at any stage of its development, whether or not it is part of a course. Writing conferences are sometimes incorporated into the requirements of writing-intensive courses, but many students also request conferences on their own. In addition, the Writing Center, located in the Kirner-Johnson Building, offers faculty consultation, word processing facilities and a resource library on writing in different disciplines.

Quantitative Literacy Center—Located in 223-224 Christian A. Johnson Hall, the Quantitative Literacy Center was established to offer drop-in peer tutoring in courses that have a mathematics/quantitative component. The center is staffed by students majoring in Biology, Chemistry, Economics, Geology, Mathematics, Physics and Psychology. Students may drop in to review mathematics topics as needed, or to use the resources of the computer and video library. Other programs offered by the center include the non-credit-bearing tutorial for students who do not pass the quantitative literacy exam, a review for the mathematics portion of the Graduate Record Exam and workshops designed to accompany specific courses.

Peer Tutoring Program—The Peer Tutoring Program, located in 223 Christian A. Johnson Hall, offers one-on-one peer tutoring and academic skills assistance. Students may be referred to the program by faculty members or may seek assistance on their own by meeting with the coordinator of peer tutoring and completing a tutor request card.

Concentration

Among the requirements for graduation is the successful completion of a concentration (major) offered by several departments and programs of instruction.

The number of courses comprising a concentration normally ranges from eight to 10, depending upon the department or program. Specific descriptions of each concentration appear in the entries under “Courses of Instruction.” Every student is required to complete a senior program as defined by his or her concentration. For more information, see the sections titled “Concentration” (under “Academic Regulations”) and “Senior Program” below.

The specific disciplines and programs in which a student may concentrate are Africana Studies, American Studies, Anthropology (Cultural Anthropology or Archaeology), Art (History of Art or Studio Art), East Asian Studies, Biochemistry/Molecular Biology, Biology, Chemistry, Classics (Classical Languages or Classical Studies), Communication Studies, Comparative Literature, Computer Science, Dance, Economics, English (Literature or Creative Writing), Foreign Languages, French, Geoarchaeology, Geology, German, Government, History, Mathematics, Music, Neuroscience, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Public Policy, Religious Studies, Russian Studies, Sociology, Spanish, Theatre, Women’s Studies and World Politics.

Minors

The specific disciplines and programs in which a student may minor are Africana Studies, Anthropology, Art (History of Art or Studio Art), Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Classics (Classical Languages or Classical Studies), Communication Studies, Comparative Literature, Computer Science, Dance, Economics, English (Literature or Creative Writing), Environmental Studies, French, Geology, German, Government, History, Latin American Studies, Mathematics, Medieval and Renaissance Studies, Music, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Public Policy, Religious Studies, Russian Studies, Sociology, Spanish, Theatre and Women’s Studies. Specific descriptions of each minor appear in the entries under “Courses of Instruction.”

Senior Program

All students are required to complete the Senior Program in their concentrations. Each department and program of concentration has designed a senior program that serves as an integrating and culminating experience for the concentration by requiring students to use the methodology and knowledge gained in their first three years of study. Building on their courses and showing their increasing ability to work independently in terms of both motivation and subject matter, seniors are required to produce a significant synthesis of knowledge by means of one of the following: a research project leading to a written, aural or visual creation; a seminar for concentrators, including a major presentation and research paper by each student; or comprehensive examinations ideally involving both written and oral components. This requirement allows seniors to demonstrate at an appropriate level their mastery of content and the methods of the discipline and their continuing development of the essential arts of educated men and women.

Senior Fellowship Program

Each spring, the dean of the faculty designates up to seven academically outstanding members of the junior class as Senior Fellows. Students in the junior year may become candidates by submitting a proposal for a senior year of independent study. The proposal usually grows out of previous academic study and is framed in consultation with two faculty advisors of the student's choice. Senior Fellows are exempt from taking a normal course load in the conventional curriculum, and they need not complete concentration requirements; they may take such courses as are appropriate to their fellowship projects and their educational goals. A written thesis is required at the close of the fellowship year, along with a public lecture to the College community. Evaluation is made by the advisors and an examination committee.

Hamilton College Junior Year in France, Academic Year in Spain, and the Associated Colleges in China Program

The Associated Colleges in China Program and the Hamilton College programs in France and Spain are distinguished for their thorough preparation and total immersion of students in the language, history and culture of those countries.

The Associated Colleges in China Program is both sponsored and administered by Hamilton College in collaboration with Kenyon, Oberlin and Williams colleges and Lawrence University. It offers students the opportunity to pursue the intensive study of Chinese in Beijing, China. The Capital University of Business and Economics in Beijing is the host institution. Open to academically successful students who have completed at least one year of study in Chinese, the program has a summer, a fall and a spring session. Interested students should consult with a member of the faculty in East Asian Languages and Literature.

Enrollment in the Junior Year in France Program is open to students whose preparation in French is sufficient to enable them to profit from courses taught in French in the humanities, fine arts and social sciences. To be admitted, students must demonstrate a strong academic record and an adequate knowledge of French. The program, directed in France by a member of the Department of Romance Languages, begins with a three-week orientation program in Biarritz in September. The balance of the academic year is spent in Paris.

In collaboration with the faculties of Williams and Swarthmore colleges, Hamilton also sponsors a program in Madrid, the Academic Year in Spain. The program is open to sophomores, juniors and seniors who wish to pursue studies in Spanish language, literature and civilization. To be admitted, students must demonstrate a strong academic record and an adequate knowledge of Spanish. Hamilton is the primary organizer and sponsor of the program, while directorship rotates among faculty members of the three collaborating colleges. Students may be admitted for one term, but they are encouraged to spend one full academic year in Spain. Each term begins with a 10-day orientation program in the coastal villages of Comillas (fall) and Nerja (spring). Each term, an academically structured internship may be taken in lieu of one of the regular program courses.

Students who intend to apply to either of the programs in Spain or France should pursue study in the relevant language and consult with a member of the Department of Romance Languages. For further information, see "Romance Languages and Literature" under "Courses of Instruction." Applications are available through the Programs Abroad Office.

Hamilton College Term in Washington Program

Each year Hamilton offers a one-semester program in Washington, D.C., for qualified juniors and seniors. The program is directed by a resident member of the Government Department. It consists of internships in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government that are integrated with coursework involving research and writing. The term is designed for students who have demonstrated ability to work on their own initiative, and who have particular interest in the problems of government and public affairs. The program is not restricted to those concentrating in Government, and it is open to selected students from other colleges.

A Hamilton student who participates in the program will be appointed to the Dean's List for that semester if that student earns a grade point average of 90 or higher in the three conventionally graded courses in the program and completes the required internship with work evaluated as "excellent" by the director of the program.

Cooperative Programs

Hamilton has established cooperative arrangements with several other institutions to expand the educational opportunities open to students. Several instances are described below. Students enrolled in cooperative programs receive a Hamilton degree only upon demonstrating to the department in which they concentrate that they have fulfilled concentration requirements and have striven to satisfy the goals of the College. If the concentration requirements have not been met by the end of the junior year, they may, with the approval of the department, be completed at the cooperative institution.

American Council of Teachers of Russian Undergraduate Program—

Hamilton has been designated as a host institution for students from the Russian Federation and other nations of the former Soviet Union. Each academic year, one or more Russian students will have the opportunity to study at Hamilton. In the past the College has hosted students from Kazan, Voronezh, St. Petersburg, Moscow, Alma-Aty, Erevan and numerous other cities in the New Independent States (NIS). The program is funded by the United States Information Agency and the governments of the NIS.

Assurance of Admission: Master of Arts in Teaching—As a result of an agreement with Union College, well qualified Hamilton students are afforded the opportunity of gaining assurance of admission to Union College's Master of Arts in Teaching Program. The M.A.T. degree will normally require two summers and one academic year in residence at Union College, and carries with it secondary school teaching certification. Students interested in pursuing this option should contact Susan Mason, director of the Program in Teacher Education, preferably no later than the fall semester of their junior year.

Cooperative Engineering Program—Liberal arts-engineering (3-2) plans are in effect with Columbia University, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and Washington University of St. Louis, whereby the student spends three years at Hamilton and then two years at the cooperating engineering school. At the end of this period, the student earns an A.B. from Hamilton and a B.S. from the engineering school. Admission to these programs in chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering (as well as many others) is based on the positive recommendation of the Department of Physics. Various 4-2 plans lead to different degree options. For details, consult with the engineering advisor, Professor J.W. Ring, in the Department of Physics.

Cooperative Law Program—The Hamilton cooperative law program permits highly qualified students to enter the Columbia University School of Law after completion of their junior year. The program in Accelerated Interdisciplinary Legal Education (AILE) permits these students to earn both the Hamilton baccalaureate degree and the Columbia juris doctor degree after three years of study at each institution. Interested students should consult with Professor Robert Simon in the Department of Philosophy.

Early Assurance Program in Medicine—This cooperative effort by a small group of Northeastern liberal arts colleges and medical schools provides an opportunity for selected students, at the end of their sophomore year, to gain assurance of a place in medical school upon graduation from Hamilton. It is intended for students who are confident of their career choice and who have completed two of the four science courses required for admission to medical school. In addition, applicants must propose, for the third and fourth years of college, a plan of study that would not be possible if they were to follow the usual pathway in which the timing of additional science courses and admission test and interview requirements limit the options for exploring broader liberal arts educational opportunities. Although this program may reduce the academic pressures that premedical students often experience, its major purpose is to provide greater choices for personal development. More detailed information can be obtained from Professors Robin Kinnel or Karen Brewer in the Department of Chemistry.

New England Center for Children Program—Hamilton students who are interested in obtaining experience in applied psychology and education of children with special needs may spend the fall or spring semester at the New England Center for Children. This facility, located near Boston, offers courses in applied behavior analysis and provides students with practical experience working with children with autism. Interested students should consult with the chair of the Department of Psychology.

Study at Neighboring Institutions

With appropriate approval (see “Transfer of Credit” under “Academic Regulations”), a Hamilton student may take coursework toward the baccalaureate degree at neighboring institutions during the fall and spring semesters. In recent years students have enrolled in courses at Colgate University and Utica College. Usually one course is taken at a neighboring institution while the rest of the work is done at Hamilton.

Study Away from Hamilton

Each year approximately 160 Hamilton students study abroad, either with the College’s programs in China, France and Spain or with other approved programs. Hamilton has special relationships with a number of these programs, such as those listed below. Students who think they may wish to study abroad, usually during the junior year, should consider early in their college careers and in consultation with their advisors, how such study will fit into their academic planning. They should also be developing the self-reliant habits of study and a level of academic achievement that will qualify them for study abroad and enable them to perform successfully in unfamiliar conditions. Students who plan to study in a non-English-speaking country are advised to develop their proficiency in the language of that country.

Students who intend to earn transferred credit for study abroad must meet certain academic requirements, which are specified under “Study in a Foreign Country” (see pp. 24-25). It is also possible to study for a semester or more at other colleges and universities in the United States. Interested students should consult the procedures outlined in the sections on “Transfer of Credit” and “Leaves of Absence” under “Academic Regulations” and should confer with the associate dean of students well in advance of the semester or semesters during which they hope to study at any off-campus institution, either in the United States or abroad.

Classical Studies in Greece and Rome—Hamilton is an institutional member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, Italy (the Centro), through the Empire State Consortium, and of the American School for Classical Studies in Athens, Greece.

The Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome is open to students who have been trained in Latin or Greek. The program lasts for one semester and is offered during the fall and the spring. The center provides an opportunity to study Greek and Latin literature, ancient history and archaeology, and ancient art in Rome itself. The Duke University Foreign Academic Programs administers the center, and the faculty is chosen from among college and university teachers in the United States and Canada. The language of instruction is English.

The American School of Classical Studies in Athens operates summer programs that are open to undergraduates, graduate students, and high school and college teachers. There are two six-week summer sessions that focus on the topography and antiquities of Greece. Scholarships are available. Students interested in the programs in Greece or Rome should contact Professor Carl Rubino in the Department of Classics.

The Swedish Program at Stockholm University—Hamilton is one of 17 American colleges and universities sponsoring a program that enables students to enroll directly in Stockholm University and take courses in English with Swedish and other international students. Course offerings are diverse. Living arrangements are with host families or in the university dormitory. Participation is either for one semester or for the full academic year. For additional information, contact the associate dean of students.

Institute of Antarctic and Southern Ocean Studies—The Geology Department encourages students to study abroad and to consider enrolling at the University of Tasmania (Australia) where a co-operative agreement with the Institute of Antarctic and Southern Ocean Studies and Hamilton College has been established. For additional information, contact Professor Eugene Domack in the Geology Department.

SEA Education Association—Hamilton is an affiliated institution of the SEA semester program out of Woods Hole, Massachusetts. The shore component includes courses in oceanography, nautical science and maritime studies. The sea component includes six weeks aboard ship learning new skills and conducting research. A student may receive a maximum of four Hamilton units by transferred credit for participation in the SEA program. One unit will be awarded in each of the departments of Biology, Geology, History and Physics. Each award is conditional on the student's earning a grade of C or higher in the work pertaining to that department. Each department will determine whether the single transferred unit allocated will count toward a concentration or a minor in that department. For further information, contact the associate dean of students (academic).

MBL Semester in Environmental Science—Hamilton is an affiliated institution with the Semester in Environmental Science of the Marine Biological Laboratory Ecosystem Center in Wood's Hole. Participants engage in a 14-week program of rigorous field and laboratory work, lectures and independent research in environmental and ecosystem science. For additional information, contact the chair of the Environmental Studies Program.

Academic Regulations

Baccalaureate Requirements

To qualify for the baccalaureate degree, a student must meet the degree requirements established by the faculty for the class in which he or she has matriculated.

Course Units—The number of full-credit courses (or the equivalent) required for graduation is 32. They must be completed with passing grades; a grade of C- or higher must be achieved in at least one-half of the courses taken at Hamilton. No more than 15 course credits in a single department earned after entering the College, including transferred credits, may be counted toward the courses required for graduation. Each unit of credit is equivalent to four semester hours.

Residence—A student must complete at least one-half of the courses required for graduation while in residence at Hamilton and be in residence for the final semester of study. Residence means enrollment in programs conducted by the College, on or off campus.

Time for Completion of the Degree—The normal pattern for earning the baccalaureate degree is four consecutive years of study. The requirements must be completed within seven calendar years from the date of matriculation.

Goals and Distribution Requirements—A student must meet the five goals of the College which include certain distribution requirements. For additional information, see “College Purposes and Goals.”

Concentration—A student must complete the requirements for a regular concentration, a double concentration or an interdisciplinary concentration with a cumulative average of at least 72 in all courses taken at Hamilton that are approved for the concentration. Seniors must take at least one course each semester in their concentrations unless granted an exemption by the departmental or program chair. All students must complete the Senior Program in their concentrations.

Each student elects a concentration in the second semester of the sophomore year. For each student the requirements for the concentration elected are those specified in the edition of the College Catalogue published for that student's sophomore year.

Regular Concentration—Students declare their concentrations in the spring of their second year, before preregistration for fall semester courses. By the end of the second year, a student must have completed at least two courses in the department or program of concentration, and must have received a cumulative average of 72 or higher for all work taken in that department or program. The concentration is listed on the official transcript. A student may change from one concentration to another only with the approval of the departments or programs involved and the Committee on Academic Standing.

Double Concentration—While students normally declare a single concentration, it is possible for a student to complete and gain recognition for concentrations in two departments or programs, provided that approval to elect a double concentration is granted by the departmental or program chairs involved. A student may not count a course as part of the concentration requirements in more than one department or program. When approved, both concentrations are listed on the official transcript. Those who have been granted permission for a double concentration may drop one of them at any time by informing the appropriate departmental chair and the registrar.

Interdisciplinary Concentration—A student may design and declare an interdisciplinary concentration involving two or more departments. After consulting with and gaining approval from the appropriate departmental chairs, the student must submit the proposed interdisciplinary concentration in writing for approval by the Committee on Academic Standing, which will evaluate the proposal according to standards similar to those for a regular concentration. The student must have a cumulative average of at least 72 in all courses approved for the concentration. The student must specify a Senior Program that meets the approval of the committee.

Regular Concentration with Option of a Minor—A student with a concentration in a single department or program may declare a minor in any other department or program that offers a minor, or in an interdisciplinary minor program previously approved by the Committee on Academic Policy. Students declaring a minor must consult with and gain the written approval of the appropriate departmental or program chair. Declaration of a minor in the same department or program as the student's concentration requires approval of the Committee on Academic Standing. To enter a minor, a student must have completed at least one course in the discipline and must have earned a cumulative average of at least 72 in all courses counting toward the minor. This average must be maintained if the minor is to be listed along with the concentration on the official transcript. A minor consists of five courses as approved by the department, program or committee under which the work is undertaken. A student may not count a course as part of both the concentration and the minor. A student may not declare a minor after the add period of the second semester of the senior year.

Senior Program—All students must complete a Senior Program in their concentrations. For additional information, see "Academic Programs and Services."

Standards for Written Work—The College requires satisfactory standards of correctness in all written work. Students are encouraged to take writing-intensive courses, which are offered by most departments and programs of the College. Writing-intensive courses include any so designated by the Committee on Academic Policy. The description of each course indicates whether it is writing-intensive. For a list of all such courses, see "Writing Program" under "Courses of Instruction."

The Writing Program requires that every student pass at least three writing-intensive courses, each taken in a different semester. At least one of the courses must be taken in the first year, and at least one of them must be outside the student's area of concentration. Writing-intensive courses in Mathematics or courses in which assignments are written in a language other than English may total no more than one of the three required courses. This requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year. Students should earn all three of the required writing-intensive credits by completing courses designated by the Committee on Academic Policy as writing-intensive. In exceptional circumstances, the Committee on Academic Standing will allow a student to earn no more than one writing-intensive credit by completing a suitably constructed independent study.

Any member of the faculty may inform the director of the Writing Center that a student has not met the required standards in the written work of a course, even if the student receives a passing grade in that course. The student must then meet with the director or his or her designee to determine what remedial work the student should undertake.

Moreover, any member of the faculty may require that a student receive remedial instruction in writing from the director of the Writing Center, or his or her designee, as a condition for completing that instructor's course.

English as a Second Language—Hamilton offers courses in English as a Second Language for its matriculated students. The College offers a fall semester course in writing for students whose first or native language is not Standard English. Any student seeking further experience and training in the use of Standard English may elect to take the course. Work in the course is graded, and regular academic credit toward graduation is given for it. In addition, the course satisfies the College-wide requirement of one writing-intensive course during the first year. Further, student tutors with training in English as a Second Language will be available to assist students with work in all of their courses including the regular English as a Second Language course, throughout the academic year. (See also “English as a Second Language” under “Courses of Instruction.”)

Standards for Oral Work—The College requires minimum standards of effectiveness in all prepared oral presentations. Any member of the faculty may inform the associate dean of students (academic) that a student has not met the College’s standards for oral presentation in a course, even if the student receives a passing grade in the course. A student who accumulates two or more such warnings must take remedial work in a tutorial program offered by the Department of Rhetoric and Communication or meet the requirement by such other means as the department may approve. Such a student may not be graduated from the College until the Committee on Academic Standing has determined that the student meets the College’s standards for effectiveness in speaking.

Standards for Quantitative Work—All students must demonstrate basic quantitative literacy by passing a quantitative skills examination given during Orientation, or by passing designated courses, or by completing a non-credit tutorial. See “Fundamental Skills” under “College Purposes and Goals.”

Physical Education Requirement—Every student must participate in the program of instruction offered by the Physical Education Department. Each student is required to pass tests in swimming and physical fitness, and to demonstrate proficiency in three of the following sports or to meet an equivalent standard, subject to departmental approval. A complete specification of the requirement is stated in the “Physical Education” section under “Courses of Instruction.” Instruction is available in advanced conditioning, advanced fitness, aerobics, badminton, bicycling, fitness, golf, jogging, lifeguard training, platform tennis, racquetball, skating, squash, tennis, volleyball and water safety instruction. Once students have passed the test or tests for the activity, they are excused from further attendance in that sport. In most instances the requirements are met in the first year; all students must complete the physical education requirement no later than the end of the sophomore year.

Transfer students should register for a physical education course upon matriculation and consult with the departmental chair about completion of the requirement. Prior instruction may be applicable to Hamilton requirements.

Conferral of Degrees—All qualified students receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts, which is conferred once a year at the graduation ceremony. The degrees are conferred only upon students who have completed all the baccalaureate requirements described above, who have no outstanding bills at the College and who are present to receive their diplomas (unless they have requested and received authorization from the Committee on Academic Standing for conferral in absentia). Only students who have completed all the requirements for the degree may participate in the graduation ceremony.

Honor Code

Matriculation at Hamilton is contingent upon a student’s written acceptance of the Honor Code regulations. The code covers all course work and course examinations at Hamilton College during a student’s college career. Complaints alleging violations of the Honor Code shall be submitted in writing by instructors or students to the chair of the Honor Court or to the associate dean of students (academic).

Independent Study

After the first semester of the first year, a student may engage in independent study during the school year in place of a regular course. The student’s independent study proposal must receive the approval of the faculty supervisor, the appropriate departmental chair, the student’s faculty advisor and the Committee on Academic Standing. Normally, arrangements are completed in the semester preceding that of the independent study; late petitions may be denied. Independent study requires discipline and responsibility, and therefore the faculty takes into account the maturity of the student and the level of his or her knowledge and academic background when it considers proposals for independent study. A student normally will not engage in more than one independent study in any one semester, and may not engage in more than two independent studies in any one academic year.

Independent study may take many forms, but normally it consists of the study of material unavailable in the formal College curriculum, of laboratory or field research, or of the creation of some body of work in the creative arts, such as poetry, fiction, musical composition or visual arts.

In exceptional circumstances an off-campus independent study may require evaluation by the off-campus supervisor rather than by the Hamilton faculty supervisor. In such cases the Committee on Academic Standing requires that the study be graded on a credit/no credit basis. Hamilton credit for such studies will be awarded only after a Hamilton faculty member has evaluated and approved the completed project.

Internships

The College recognizes that an internship or an apprenticeship experience can be a valuable supplement to a student's academic program. Students beyond the first year (eight courses) who are in good standing are eligible to engage in such internships and apprenticeships. Although academic credit is not awarded for such activities, a student may obtain from the project supervisor a letter of evaluation. The Office of the Dean of Students will place the letter in the student's permanent file. Under the direction of a regular member of the faculty, and with the approval of the Committee on Academic Standing, students pursuing off-campus internships and apprenticeships approved by the College may use their off-campus experience as the basis for an independent study conducted during a regular semester once the student returns to the College. Such an independent study will be governed by the same policies that apply to all independent studies.

Independent Coverage of Coursework

Under certain circumstances, a student may cover a course independently and receive credit on the basis of demonstrated proficiency. The course covered in this manner must be one that is normally offered in a regular semester. Such study is ordinarily undertaken during the summer recess and permits the student to move rapidly into advanced courses for which there are prerequisites, or to make up a course failed during a preceding semester.

A student wishing to cover a course independently must obtain the approval of a faculty supervisor, the appropriate departmental chair, the faculty advisor and the Committee on Academic Standing. The fee for independent coverage is $500, except when it is undertaken during a semester in which the student is enrolled full-time; in that case, the independent coverage counts as one of the 37 courses available to the student through the payment of regular tuition.

Course Election

Both Hamilton's commitment to excellence and its need to operate within its resources have implications for course enrollment policy. Except for independent studies and courses with limited enrollments, a student shall be free to elect, during the calendar periods for registration, any course for which the prerequisites have been met. However, a senior who desires to elect a 100-level course must first obtain the permission of the chair of the department that offers the course.

Full-time students normally elect courses equal to four credits during both the fall and spring semesters. During each of these semesters, students may carry no more than five and no fewer than three, full-credit courses. Any exception must be approved by the Committee on Academic Standing (see also "Overelection Fee," under "Tuition and Fees").

Part-time study at Hamilton is available only to special students and to those participating in the Hamilton Horizons Program (see "Admission").

Course Changes for Fall and Spring Semesters

A student may change (add or drop) courses during the first four calendar days of the fall and spring semesters after consultation with the advisor. An add/drop form must be completed and returned to the Registrar's Office within the four-day period.

After the first four calendar days of either semester, a student who is taking four or more courses may drop a course up to one week after midterm, after consulting with the advisor and the instructor of the course. The dropped course counts as one of the 37 courses that a student can elect without extra charge (see "Overelection Fee").

After the drop deadline, a student may drop a course without the penalty of failure only if approval to do so is granted by the Committee on Academic Standing. Only extraordinary circumstances warrant the committee's approval of such a request.

Grades

A student's academic performance is graded by the instructor at the close of the semester with one of 14 grades. Each of these grades is used to determine a student's average and class standing, according to the table below. The lowest passing mark is D-.

Good	=	B+ (88)	B (85)	B- (82)
Satisfactory	=	C+ (78)	C (75)	C- (72)
Poor	=	D+ (68)	D (65)	D- (62)
Failure	=	F (55)
Serious Failure	=	FF (40)

The foregoing numerical equivalents of the letter grades are established to enable the registrar to construct students' grade point averages and class ranks, which are necessarily numerical. An instructor assigns a letter grade to indicate his or her qualitative (not numerical) assessment of a student's work.

Thus, for example, an instructor would assign "C+," "C" or "C-" to indicate assessments of "satisfactory," and the instructor may use any information he or she considers appropriate, including, but not limited to, numerical information to decide whether a student's work is "satisfactory." The registrar's conversion of the instructor's letter grade into an element of a student's grade point average is a separate matter.

After the end of the semester, reports of final grades are sent by the registrar to the student, the advisor and the parents or guardians of students who are claimed as dependents for income tax purposes. The registrar may not send grade reports to anyone else without a written release from the student.

Evaluation of performance in a course is represented by a single grade which combines grades for work in the course and for the final examination in a ratio determined by the instructor. When a student elects to take a course on a credit/no credit basis, standing in the course is represented by the notation of Cr, NC, F or FF (see "Credit/No Credit Option"). When an independent study or an appropriately designated course is carried for two semesters, the grade reported at the end of the first semester is tentative. The grade assigned by the instructor at the end of the second semester becomes the final mark for both semesters.

Failure in a Course—Students who fail a course may repeat that course; if the failed course is repeated, however, both grades will be included both on the permanent transcript and in the cumulative average. A failed course may not be counted toward the course credits required for graduation, but it is counted toward the 37 courses that a student may elect without extra charge.

After the drop period, and following a warning to the student, an instructor may request the Committee on Academic Standing to remove from the course a student who is willfully and consistently neglectful of assigned work or other course obligations. If the committee concurs, a grade of F will be entered on the student's permanent transcript.

Grades of Incomplete and Grade Changes—Any grade of incomplete reported by an instructor must first be approved by the Committee on Academic Standing. Such approval is given rarely and only in circumstances beyond a student's control, such as a medical or familial emergency. Approval permits the student to complete the required work for the course by a deadline set by that instructor and the chairperson of the Committee on Academic Standing. Normally this deadline will be no later than six weeks from the end of the semester for which the grade of incomplete was assigned. If all remaining work is not submitted by the deadline specified when the incomplete is granted, the grade will automatically be changed to F.

An instructor may not change a grade, other than the removal of an incomplete within the deadline, without the approval of the chair of the Committee on Academic Standing.

Credit/No Credit Option—To encourage greater breadth in course election, the faculty has adopted a rule that allows a student to elect four courses over the four-year period on a credit/no credit option. No more than one such option may be exercised in any given semester. Graduate and professional schools generally look with disfavor on the use of this option in coursework considered crucial to the graduate field.

The credit/no credit option is subject to the following rules:

- 1) No first-year student is permitted to use the credit/no credit option in the first semester.
- 2) Unless the instructor asks, he or she will not be informed which students are taking a course on the credit/no credit option.
- 3) The student must inform the registrar of his or her intention to use the credit/no credit option no later than the first four calendar days of the fall and spring semesters.
- 4) No junior or senior may exercise the credit/no credit option in the department of concentration or minor.
- 5) To qualify for a credit (Cr), a student must earn a C⁻ or better. The grade will not enter into the computation of the overall average.
- 6) If a student earns a grade of D⁺, D or D⁻, then the transcript will show the designation NC. The grade will not enter into the computation of the overall average.
- 7) If a student earns a failing grade, then the transcript will show an F or FF, and the grade will enter into the computation of the overall average.

In certain courses designated by the faculty, students may be evaluated "satisfactory" or "unsatisfactory." The Catalogue description of the course will include the notation "Evaluated Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory," which will apply to all students registered for the course. The recorded evaluation (S or U) will under no circumstances be convertible to a conventional grade.

Under this option, full-credit courses that are evaluated satisfactory/unsatisfactory may be counted, but may not be required, for the concentration or minor, and they may not be elected by students in their first semester at Hamilton. The combined number of full-credit satisfactory/unsatisfactory and credit/no credit courses that a student may elect is limited to four.

Academic Average

Based on grades submitted by instructors, a numerical academic average is determined for each student for each semester and cumulatively for all work taken at Hamilton. A student is assigned a specific ranking in the class, which appears on the permanent record. This information is available to the student and to those parties authorized by the student to receive it. Grades in courses accepted for transferred credit are excluded from the student's average.

Grades earned in courses taken by independent coverage are included in the cumulative average. Grades for the Hamilton Junior Year in France Program, the Academic Year in Spain Program, the Associated Colleges in China Program and the Hamilton Term in Washington are included in the cumulative average.

Class Attendance

Every student is expected to attend class regularly. A student who must be absent because of medical or family emergency should notify the Office of the Dean of Students and his or her instructors. Absence for any reason does not remove the student's responsibility for learning the material covered during the absence, for turning in assignments, for obtaining materials distributed in class and for knowledge of the next assignment. Instructors may drop students from a limited-enrollment course if they are absent from the first class meeting.

When an instructor believes that lack of attendance is proving injurious to a student's academic performance, the instructor may warn the student or ask the Committee on Academic Standing to do so. The committee may drop from the course a student who fails to heed such a notice. If the committee drops the student from the course, a grade of F will be recorded.

Excuse of Illness—Students who are indisposed by illness that might inhibit their academic work should contact their instructors directly and before assignments are due. The instructors will determine whatever alternative arrangements, if any, will be available to the student. Except for confinement to bed upon the order of the College physician or nurse, the Health Center will not excuse a student from academic obligations.

Examinations—Hour examinations normally shall not be given during the last two weeks of the semester. In-class final examinations shall not be given before the beginning of the final examination period; out-of-class final examinations shall not be due prior to the beginning of the final examination period.

The final examination period consists of six days, with two scheduled examination sessions per day. If a student is scheduled to take more than one examination in a single session, the student should ask an instructor to reschedule his or her final examination. If the rescheduling presents a problem for the student or the instructor, the student should consult with the Office of the Dean of Students. Other reasons for rescheduling will be evaluated by the instructor, who must approve the time change.

Academic Standing

The faculty assumes that every student admitted to Hamilton will be able to qualify for graduation. However, the opportunity to continue at Hamilton is a privilege that a student must earn by academic achievement. A student separated from the College for academic deficiency (see below) is not in good academic standing. A student on academic probation (see below) is not in good academic standing but remains eligible for financial aid.

Hamilton College reserves the right, at any time, to suspend for any period or to separate from the College any student whose academic performance or personal conduct on or off the College campus is, in the sole judgment of the College, unsatisfactory or detrimental to the best interests of the College. Neither the College, nor any of its trustees, officers, faculty or administrative staff shall be subject to any liability whatsoever on account of such suspension or separation. A student who is separated or suspended from the College or who withdraws is required to leave campus within 48 hours, unless permission to remain longer is granted by the dean of students.

Academic Warnings—Instructors may at any time during the term submit written reports for all students whose standing in a course is unsatisfactory (borderline or failing). Students and their advisors receive copies of these warnings. A student who receives two or more such warnings in the same semester must consult with the associate dean of students (academic).

Class Status—The Registrar’s Office determines class status by the number of courses a student has completed satisfactorily.

Academic Probation—The Committee on Academic Standing will place on academic probation for the succeeding semester of attendance a student whose substandard achievement is reflected in the semester’s final grades in any of the following ways:

- 1) failure in a full-credit course in each of two consecutive semesters;
- 2) receiving grades below C- in courses totaling two or more units;
- 3) failure to maintain a cumulative average of 72 or higher in those grades earned since accumulating 16 credits (including AP, transfer and HEOP credits);
- 4) failure in any course (whether for full or partial credit) by a student on probation.

A student who is on academic probation is ineligible for study abroad. The Committee on Academic Standing may also prevent or limit participation by students on academic probation in prize competitions, intercollegiate athletics and other extracurricular activities, including the holding of offices in chartered undergraduate organizations.

If a senior’s academic record during the final semester at Hamilton would have resulted in probation, the senior’s degree may be withheld for one year upon the recommendation of the Committee on Academic Standing.

Suspension from the College for Academic Deficiency—The Committee on Academic Standing will normally suspend from the College for a period of one year a student who has:

- 1) failed two or more full-credit courses during a semester; or
- 2) accumulated failures in a total of five courses; or
- 3) incurred a third academic probation.

A student suspended for academic deficiency will be notified in writing of the committee’s decision, the reasons for the suspension, the length of the suspension and the conditions under which he or she will be considered by the committee for readmission to the College.

A student readmitted from a suspension for academic deficiency will be placed on academic probation for the semester immediately following readmission.

Expulsion from the College for Academic Deficiency—The Committee on Academic Standing will normally expel from the College:

- 1) any student who is readmitted from an academic suspension and whose record subsequent to readmission makes him or her subject to academic probation or to another suspension;
- 2) a senior who has failed to maintain a cumulative average of 72 in all courses taken at Hamilton as part of the concentration.

Expulsion is permanent dismissal from the College. A student who is expelled may not be readmitted and will have no further opportunity to qualify for a degree from Hamilton College.

Permanent Record—A student who is suspended or expelled from the College as a consequence of an action taken by the Committee on Academic Standing (academic failure), the Judicial Board (social infractions) or the Honor Court (academic dishonesty) will have recorded on his or her permanent transcript a note explaining the reason or reasons for the suspension or expulsion as follows: “suspended (or expelled) from the College on (date) _____ for the reason of _____.”

Transfer of Credit to Hamilton for Study Away

With faculty approval, qualified students may spend one to three semesters of study in an approved program overseas or at another American institution, or may receive credit for part-time study while on personal leave or during summers. The College tries to be responsive to the needs of students seeking diverse educational settings or courses not offered at Hamilton. At the same time, transferred credit can have a significant effect on the meaning and value of the Hamilton degree and thus must represent work that meets Hamilton’s standards. The College considers the opportunity to earn transferred credit a privilege, rather than a right, and evaluates carefully the merits of all transferred credit petitions.

Every student intending to study away from Hamilton should prepare in advance by taking the appropriate foundation courses. Consultation with the appropriate departmental chairs and the associate dean of students early in the sophomore year is strongly advised.

The conditions for transferred credit are as follows:

- 1) Students planning study away from Hamilton must register their intentions with the Dean's Office by February 18 for the following fall semester or by October 22 for the spring semester. They must complete the transferred credit petition and receive the approval of their advisor and the appropriate departmental chairs before they begin the course of study away from Hamilton. Students who change their programs after leaving campus may seek approval of substitute courses upon their return, but should discuss substitutions in their programs with the associate dean of students (academic) by mail or telephone.
- 2) Courses must be taken at an accredited institution and must be considered by the faculty at Hamilton to be in the liberal arts. Students are encouraged to study at four-year institutions. Students who have earned 14 or more Hamilton units (including units earned by all forms of transferred credit) may present for transferred credit only courses taken at a four-year institution.
- 3) Each course must be approved by the chair of the Hamilton department or program that would offer the course at the College. To obtain approval, students must provide a copy of the catalogue description of each course. If a course is not clearly within the purview of a Hamilton department or program, the Committee on Academic Standing will determine its acceptability. The appropriate chair should indicate if a course will apply toward a student's concentration or minor.
- 4) Correspondence courses are not acceptable for transferred credit. Courses in which a substantial portion of the enrollment consists of high school students are not acceptable for transferred credit, even if they are college-level courses taught by a university-approved instructor or visiting professor.
- 5) Grades must be the equivalent of C or higher.
- 6) Students who carry out independent studies at another college or university in the United States must submit a separate form indicating that a Hamilton faculty member has evaluated and approved the completed project.
- 7) Transferred credits may account for no more than one-half of the total graduation credits. No more than two course credits will be granted for study during a summer.
- 8) Seniors must take their final semester at Hamilton College. Matriculated students may spend no more than three semesters studying away from Hamilton.
- 9) Independent studies conducted in programs of study abroad are not acceptable for transferred credit.
- 10) The quantity of transferred credit that a student may earn toward a Hamilton degree for work done at another school is determined by a proportionality between the 32 Hamilton units required for a Hamilton degree and the number of units required at the other school to earn a degree. For example, if a school requires 120 semester-hours for a degree, a course worth three semester-hours at that school is .025 of the total work required for a degree at that school. By proportionality, that three semester-hour course would generate .8 of a Hamilton unit, because $(.025)(32) = .8$. The registrar will use this rule to evaluate the totality of a student's transferred credit for a given semester or summer, and then round the aggregate transferred credit to the next .25 of a Hamilton unit.
- 11) The Committee on Academic Standing grants final approval of all transferred credit petitions. Any requests for exceptions to the above conditions must be submitted to the committee.

Transferred credit, including summer school and advanced placement credit, is counted toward the courses required for a degree. Such credit is entered on the transcript with the grade assigned by the awarding institution; the grade, however, is not included in the student's average and, therefore, does not affect class rank, which is determined solely on the basis of grades awarded for courses taken in Hamilton programs.

Once transferred credit has been entered on a student's transcript, that credit may not be removed from the transcript without the approval of the Committee on Academic Standing.

Foreign students who enter Hamilton as first-year students and desire transferred credit for work done at a foreign college or university should consult with the associate dean of students (academic) during their first year.

Study in a Foreign Country

- 1) Students planning to study in a foreign country must follow and complete the procedures specified above for off-campus study and transferred credit. (These provisions do not apply to the Hamilton programs in France, Spain, Washington, D.C., or the Associated Colleges Program in China. See the appropriate departments for the relevant information.)
- 2) All students planning to study away must discuss their plans with the associate dean of students in charge of off-campus study well before February 18 for the fall semester, or October 22 for the spring semester. Only students in good academic and good social standing at the College may receive an approved leave of absence for foreign study.
- 3) As in the case of other off-campus programs, final approval of foreign study programs and transfer of foreign study credit is granted by the Committee on Academic Standing.

Upon returning to Hamilton, the student must have an official transcript sent to the Office of the Registrar documenting completion of the approved program. No credit will be approved for courses taken credit/no credit. Students must receive letter grades or equivalents from off-campus programs.

Beginning with the Class of 2000, to earn credit toward a Hamilton degree for study abroad, a student must:

- 1) earn a grade point average of 82 or higher calculated over the two consecutive semesters at Hamilton immediately preceding that student's last semester at Hamilton before leaving for the study abroad.
- 2) receive no final grades of F or FF in the semester immediately preceding the proposed period of study abroad.

Students applying to the Hamilton College programs in France or Spain or the Associated Colleges in China Program may, with the support of the appropriate program director and the concentration advisor, apply to the Committee on Academic Standing for a waiver of the 82 average rule.

Beginning with the Class of 2002, to earn credit toward a Hamilton degree by work transferred from study abroad in a country whose language is not English, a student must meet both of the following requirements:

- 1) prior to studying abroad, pass a course (or otherwise demonstrate proficiency) in the language of that country at:
 - a. the fourth-semester level for French, German, Russian, Spanish, Latin and Greek;
 - b. the second-semester level for Italian, Chinese and Japanese;
 - c. the second-semester level, if the Critical Language Program at Hamilton offers instruction in that language regularly.
- 2) while studying abroad, undertake for credit work that is either conducted in the language of that country or that increases the student's proficiency in that language. The student must earn a grade of C or higher, and the work must be worth at least one-fifth of the total work presented for transferred credit from that study abroad.

The Committee on Academic Standing may, upon the recommendation of an academic department at Hamilton, modify these requirements for specific students or programs of study abroad.

Evaluation of Credit for Transfer Students

Transcripts of college work to date will be reviewed by the registrar, in consultation with the Committee on Academic Standing, to determine the courses that will be accepted for transfer. (See the preceding section for the criteria used.) Transfer students must complete at least half of their undergraduate program at Hamilton to receive a Hamilton College degree.

When the transcript has been evaluated, the registrar will send the transfer student a statement of accepted courses and an estimate of the Hamilton credit equivalency, and upon matriculation will enter the courses and grades on the student's Hamilton record. The registrar will assign a class year based on the number of credits accepted for transfer. A transfer student is governed by the academic regulations that pertain to the class in which he or she has been placed.

All transfer students must take the quantitative skills proficiency examination. They must consult with the Physical Education Department regarding completion of the physical education requirement. If awarded junior standing, a transfer student must declare a concentration upon matriculation. Courses taken elsewhere may be counted toward the concentration if approved by the appropriate department.

Acceleration

Acceleration permits students to graduate one full year ahead of the normal date of graduation. Students wishing to accelerate must apply to the Committee on Academic Standing for permission to do so no later than the end of the first semester of the sophomore year. The committee will consider both the advisability of acceleration and the means of achieving it. Approval will be granted only to those students whose academic ability and personal maturity are judged adequate.

Leaves of Absence

A student may request an academic or personal leave of absence from the associate dean of students (academic). A student may request a medical or psychological leave from the dean of students. Students should consult with their academic advisor and the appropriate dean prior to requesting leave. Leaves of absence may be granted for a specified period of time, normally one or two semesters. Students on leave are expected to return to Hamilton at the conclusion of the approved leave.

While on leave, students will be informed of preregistration at the appropriate time in the semester preceding their return, and are responsible for meeting the same deadlines as currently enrolled students. Arrangements for housing must be completed before students leave campus. In order to do this, students must complete a proxy form and register it with the Office of Residential Life. Students who fail to preregister or who leave Hamilton without formally being granted a leave of absence will be withdrawn and must reapply to the dean of students. A request for a change in a student's leave, or cancellation, must be made to the appropriate dean. Should the dean approve the request to cancel a leave, the student must pay the continuation fee and then may exercise his or her own on-campus options, to the extent that the College schedule allows.

All requests for a leave of absence must be received by February 18 for the following fall semester, or by October 22 for the following spring semester. Students with an approved leave do not pay the continuation fee, preregister or participate in the housing or meal plan lotteries. The continuation fee is refundable until May 1; after that date it is forfeited.

Students may occasionally need to arrange a leave of absence after the spring or fall deadlines for reasons beyond their control. These students should apply to the dean of students, who may allow financial and other regulations to be waived. When a leave is granted, the dean of students may also specify special conditions for the student's readmission to Hamilton.

Academic Leave of Absence—Students intending to pursue an academic program at another institution, either at an American college or in a foreign study program, must request an academic leave from the associate dean of students (academic). Requests must be made in writing.

Personal Leave of Absence—Students may request a leave for personal or financial reasons from the associate dean of students (academic). Requests must be made in writing.

Medical or Psychological Leave of Absence—Students who have a professionally diagnosed medical or psychological condition that interferes with their academic or social life at Hamilton may request a medical or psychological leave of absence from the dean of students. For such a leave to be considered, the student must authorize the director of Student Health Services and/or the director of Counseling and Psychological Services, as appropriate, to provide confirmation of the presence and severity of the condition to the dean of students.

Students whose behavior is either disruptive or presents a danger to themselves or to others may be referred to the Health Center or to the Counseling Center for evaluation and diagnosis if the dean of students suspects that a medical or psychological condition may underlie the behavior. If the consultation confirms the presence of such a condition, the dean of students may decide to place such students on involuntary medical or psychological leave of absence. Students who refuse to cooperate with such evaluative procedures will be subject to involuntary leave until such evaluations are completed. Students who face involuntary leave have the right to request a member of the faculty or administration to act as an advisor or advocate.

Students who have been on medical or psychological leave of absence must apply to the dean of students to return. Normally this request should be made 30 days in advance of the proposed date of return. Requests will be granted only after the director of Student Health Services and/or the director of Counseling and Psychological Services informs the dean of students that he or she is satisfied that the student is ready to return; this will normally require the student to supply documentation from appropriate professionals confirming that the condition leading to the leave has been resolved.

Suspension, Withdrawal and Readmission

Academic Suspension—A student suspended for academic deficiency will be notified in writing of the decision of the Committee on Academic Standing, the reasons for suspension, the length of the suspension and the conditions under which he or she will be considered by the committee for readmission to the College.

A student readmitted from a suspension for academic deficiency will be placed on academic probation for the semester immediately following readmission.

Disciplinary Suspension—Students may be suspended from the College for disciplinary reasons. Readmission to the College after the semester of suspension is not automatic, but requires application to the dean of students. A student readmitted from suspension for disciplinary reasons will normally be placed on disciplinary probation for the semester immediately following readmission. Readmission will normally be denied if the conditions specified at the time of suspension have not been met. Hamilton reserves the right to defer readmission if space is not available.

Withdrawal—Students who leave Hamilton while a semester is in progress or at the end of the semester, and who do not wish to return at a future date, are required to withdraw formally from the College. A student who wishes to withdraw from the College must meet with the associate dean of students (academic) and follow the proper exit procedures.

Readmission—Former students or students who have completed withdrawal procedures may apply to the dean of admission for readmission to the College. Applications for readmission are to be submitted at least one month prior to the beginning of the semester in which the student wishes to return.

Continuation at Hamilton

Continuation Fee—A continuation fee of $400, deductible from the fall tuition bill, is required of all students who intend to continue at Hamilton. This fee is due by March 1 of each year. It may be refunded up to May 1; after that date it is forfeited.

Preregistration—Preregistration is held in November for the following spring semester and in April for the following fall semester. In order to preregister for the fall semester, students must have paid the continuation fee. Students who have not preregistered may be withdrawn from the College.

Housing Lottery—In order to continue in college housing, returning students select their rooms for the next academic year through participation in the housing lottery process at the end of the spring semester. In order to be eligible for the process, students must have paid the continuation fee, have their accounts clear and have preregistered for classes for the fall semester. The housing lottery information booklet, published in the middle of the spring semester, contains additional requirements pertaining to the process and student eligibility.

Students wishing to live off campus must participate in a separate process which is normally offered only to rising seniors. Any permission to live off campus is granted on a yearly basis only. Students are advised to not sign a lease until they have been granted permission to move off campus by the College during the spring.

Meal Plan Placement—Each student must participate on a meal plan while classes are in session. All first-year and sophomore students must participate on the 21-meal plan. Most junior and senior students will participate on the 14- or 21-meal plan, depending on where they live. Certain housing locations permit students to take fewer meals in the dining halls. However, all students (including off-campus residents), at a minimum, must participate in the five-lunch plan, known as the Common Meal Plan. Students with medical restrictions need to consult with the director of residential life. (For more information on Meal Plan Placement, see the Residential Life site on the Hamilton Home Page at

<http://www.hamilton.edu/html/studentlife/reslife/mealplan/mealplan.htm>

Student Records

College regulations defining access to student records under the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“Buckley Law”) are described in the “Appendix.”

Honors

The College recognizes academic achievement with a variety of honors. Specific awards, fellowships, scholarships and prizes are described in the "Appendix" of the College Catalogue.

Commencement Honors

Those students who complete the entire College course with a standing in the first five percent of the graduating class will earn general honors and receive the baccalaureate degree summa cum laude; those in the next ten percent, magna cum laude; and those in the next ten percent, cum laude.

The two students who attain the first and second highest standings for the College course shall be given, respectively, valedictory and salutatory honors. To be eligible for valedictory or salutatory honor, a student must have earned at least 23 units of credit at Hamilton College.

Departmental Honors

Honors in the concentration are awarded by vote of the faculty in the area of concentration to those seniors who have completed courses that satisfy the concentration with an average of not less than 88 and who have also met with distinction the additional criteria established for honors in the concentration. Individual departments and programs may require a higher average. These criteria are listed in the departmental entries which appear in the section on "Courses of Instruction." Matters of character constitute legitimate considerations for a department to deny an award of honors in the concentration.

Dean's List

The College also recognizes academic achievement at the conclusion of each semester. At those times, the dean of the faculty makes public the names of those students who have carried throughout the semester a course load of four or more graded credits and who have completed that course load with an average of 90 or above. (A special criterion for the Dean's List applies to the Term in Washington Program; see "Academic Programs and Services.")

Phi Beta Kappa

The Hamilton College chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, known as the Epsilon Chapter of New York, was established in 1870. Students are elected to membership primarily for academic distinction in the liberal arts and sciences. In the fall, the chapter may choose not more than ten seniors having especially distinguished records during their first three years. Other seniors are elected in the spring and at Commencement time. Transfer students may be elected on the basis of two years' grades in Hamilton courses. However, no more than one-eighth of the graduating class shall be elected altogether. In examining the academic records of candidates for election, the chapter takes into consideration their fulfillment of the academic purposes and goals of the College.

Sigma Xi

The Hamilton College chapter of Sigma Xi, the national honor society for scientists, was installed in 1965. The goals of Sigma Xi are to advance scientific research, to encourage companionship and cooperation among scientists in all disciplines and to assist the wider understanding of science. Students who show marked aptitude for research and who are continuing in research at the graduate level are elected to associate membership. Students not continuing on to graduate school are awarded certificates of recognition. Nominations are based on the student's performance in an independent study or a senior research project.

Lambda Pi Eta

The Hamilton College chapter of Lambda Pi Eta, known as Epsilon Kappa, was established in 1996. Membership in Lambda Pi Eta is based on academic excellence in and commitment to communication studies. The purpose of the society is to recognize, foster and encourage outstanding scholastic achievement in communication studies.

Omicron Delta Epsilon

The Hamilton College chapter of Omicron Delta Epsilon, the international honor society in economics, was established in 1990. The society recognizes scholastic attainment in economics, encourages the establishment of closer ties between students and faculty in economics and emphasizes the professional aspects of economics as a career in the academic world, business, government and international organizations.

Phi Alpha Theta

Alpha Epsilon Upsilon, the Hamilton College chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, was installed in 1991. This international honor society recognizes academic excellence and promotes the study of history through the encouragement of research, good teaching, publication and the exchange of learning and thought among historians.

Phi Sigma Iota

Iota Nu, the Hamilton College chapter of Phi Sigma Iota, was installed in 1977. This national honor society encourages scholarship and recognizes achievement in foreign and classical languages and literatures.

Pi Sigma Alpha

Known as Tau Kappa, the Hamilton College chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha was established in 1993. This national political science honor society recognizes academic achievement in various fields of political science and encourages intellectual discourse on public affairs and international relations among students and faculty.

Psi Chi

The Hamilton College chapter of Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology, was established in 1977. The purpose of the society is to advance the science of psychology and to encourage, stimulate and maintain members' scholarship in all fields, particularly psychology.

Fellowships, Prizes and Prize Scholarships

In addition to the honors listed in this section, the College awards fellowships, prizes and prize scholarships in recognition of academic and other kinds of achievement.

Fellowships are awarded to graduating seniors to permit them to continue their education.

Most prizes are given for academic achievement in a particular discipline, either in general coursework or in an essay or other exercise. A few prizes recognize personal character or service to the College community.

Prize scholarships are competitive and are awarded to students in recognition of outstanding achievement. A number of endowed scholarship funds, established by alumni and friends of the College, support them.

Postgraduate Planning

Just as Hamilton provides academic advisors to its students during their undergraduate years, so it endeavors to assist them in their plans for postgraduate study and employment. The staff of the Career Center regularly advises students on postgraduate planning. Many individual faculty members are available for consultation concerning study or careers in their particular fields of interest.

In recent years, approximately 20 percent of those graduating have entered graduate or professional schools directly after college. An additional 30 percent enter graduate programs within five years after receiving their college degrees. Since most Hamilton students undertake postgraduate study, proper education for such work is an important aim of the curriculum. About 70 percent of recent seniors elected to take jobs immediately after graduation. As they begin to plan for their postgraduate years, all undergraduates are encouraged to use the resources and counsel available at Hamilton.

Career Center

The Career Center offers a number of workshops, individual appointments and other services to assist students in exploring career options, preparing for job searches and planning for graduate and professional schools. Students are strongly urged to visit the center in their first or second year at Hamilton. The office maintains an extensive library of reference books concerning graduate study in the United States and abroad, as well as information on internships, volunteer programs and summer employment. Also, the center acts as a clearinghouse for students who wish to establish a permanent file of credentials.

In addition to arranging career seminars and campus visits by employers and representatives of graduate and professional schools, the Career Center coordinates a program of assistance, with the participation of alumni, who are an integral part of the career advising process. Each year a number of alumni return to campus to discuss career options with students in a variety of formal and informal settings, and students often visit alumni at their places of employment during school vacations.

Graduate Study in Arts and Sciences

Students contemplating graduate study should consult as early as possible with the chair of the department in which they plan to concentrate. Knowledge of requirements for the primary field of interest and of appropriate related courses is essential to planning a solid program. For example, students considering a career in chemistry need to know the courses that will enable them to qualify for a certificate issued by the American Chemical Society, as well as the courses most helpful toward graduate work in chemistry. A student considering geology as a concentration should be aware that the other natural sciences are useful both to the potential concentrator and to the future geologist. A solid grounding in mathematics, including analytical geometry and elementary calculus, is particularly important to the scientist, the economist and very frequently to the social scientist.

Any student planning on graduate work should be aware that many programs require a reading knowledge of at least one foreign language for the master's degree and often two for the doctorate. A student should consider whether French, German, Greek, Latin, Russian, Spanish or a non-Western language will be helpful.

A student contemplating graduate work should consult the catalogues of major universities for the requirements. (A wide selection may be found on microfiche at the Burke Library.) The knowledge so gained will permit useful planning in consultation with the appropriate departmental chair.

Health Professions

All accredited medical and dental schools require one year of English, one year of biology, two years of chemistry (including organic) and one year of physics. Additional recommendations and requirements are extremely varied. Those for schools of veterinary medicine are generally more rigid, while those for nursing and the allied health professions are often more flexible. Students interested in any of these careers should consult with the health professions advisor early in their academic career as they plan a course of study to meet requirements for admission to the schools of their choice. (See "Early Assurance Program in Medicine" under "Academic Programs and Services.")

Law

Many Hamilton students enter law school immediately upon graduation or within a few years thereafter. While law schools do not prescribe any particular courses or program of study as part of a formal pre-law curriculum, they seek graduates who demonstrate analytical reasoning powers, skill in oral and written forms of expression, and the ability to comprehend and organize large amounts of factual data. Students interested in entering law school are advised and assisted by the Pre-Law Committee composed of faculty members and the director of the Career Center.

Education

Hamilton is proud of the number and quality of its graduates who have pursued careers in the field of education. Students interested in teaching, school administration, student services and other careers in education should consult with the staff of the Career Center, the Office of the Dean of Students, the director of the Program in Teacher Education and/or their advisor.

Business and Government Service

For many careers and professions, no prescribed program is necessary. The best preparation for business or government service is probably well-developed skills in reading, speaking and writing; a wide choice of courses, including economics and/or mathematics; and a concentration in the area which the student finds most interesting. Students who intend to enter a graduate school of management or business administration are strongly advised to take mathematics at least through calculus.

Engineering

Students interested in engineering as a career may pursue this interest at Hamilton in a number of ways. Among others, the cooperative program (see "Cooperative Engineering Programs" under "Academic Programs and Services") leads to the B.S. or M.S. degree in engineering in either a 3-2 or 4-2 plan. Other arrangements may also be made. In order to keep this career option open, it is necessary to take courses in physics, mathematics and chemistry. The usual pattern is at least one course in science and one in mathematics for each of the first five or six semesters.

Admission

As a liberal arts institution, Hamilton encourages applications from young men and women of diverse talents and intellectual promise. Prospective students are selected not only on the basis of their performance in high school and their ability to profit from Hamilton's various programs, but also on the basis of their capacity to enrich college life in some fashion—be it scholastic or extracurricular.

The Admission Committee reviews each application individually and reaches a decision by consensus. Since the number of qualified candidates far exceeds the number of openings available each year, admission to Hamilton is highly competitive.

Requirements for Admission

Because Hamilton's academic program is rigorous, applicants for admission must demonstrate highly developed learning skills. The candidate should, therefore, complete a formal secondary school program, including such preparatory subjects as English, mathematics, foreign language, science and social studies. Although the distribution of these subjects may vary, a minimum of four years of English, three years of mathematics, three years of science and three years of one foreign language is desirable. Nonetheless, since the prime criterion for admission remains the candidate's ability and desire to perform at intellectually demanding levels, Hamilton will consider applications from highly recommended individuals whose preparation does not conform to these guidelines.

The deadline for submitting applications through regular decision is January 15. An application consists of the following pieces of information: the application form itself, a secondary school report, a mid-year school report and a teacher reference form. In addition, applicants must write an essay and submit a graded sample of expository prose. Candidates must also submit results from either the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT-I) of the College Entrance Examination Board or the ACT Assessment of the American College Testing Program. Applicants are encouraged (but not required) to take the SAT-II tests of the College Entrance Examination Board and to submit the results of any three of these tests (the Writing SAT-II is preferred.) All testing must be completed by January 31 of the calendar year in which the applicant wishes to enroll.

Because the Admission Committee wants to know as much as possible about each applicant, a personal interview on campus is strongly recommended. Interviews may be scheduled from spring of the junior year through February 15 of the senior year. The candidate should write or telephone the Admission Office (800-843-2655) to request a specific date for an appointment. Because interview slots are limited and are often booked weeks in advance, students are urged to arrange an appointment well ahead of their intended visit. The Admission Office schedules interviews Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. The office is also open on most Saturday mornings from July through December (but candidates are encouraged to visit the campus on a weekday if possible). For those unable to visit the College or schedule an interview during their visit, an off-campus interview with an alumna or alumnus of the College may be arranged. An off-campus interview should be requested as early as possible during the senior year. Alumni interviews cannot be scheduled after January 10. The phone number is 800-791-9283.

A campus visit should involve more than just an interview. Applicants are also encouraged to take a tour of the campus, visit classes, talk with faculty members and students, and eat in one of the dining halls. Overnight accommodations are available (Thursdays through Sundays when school is in session) with student hosts or in the Bristol Campus Center. In either case, the Admission Office recommends that students make reservations ahead of time and will be glad to assist them with any arrangements.

Hamilton is a member of the National Association of College Admission Counselors and adheres to its Statement of Principles of Good Practice in the admission process. Applicants are expected to be aware of their rights and responsibilities as delineated in the Statement of Students' Rights and Responsibilities as promulgated by NACAC. Copies of either or both of those statements may be obtained by writing or calling the Admission Office.

Early Decision

The Early Decision program is designed for students who have investigated their college options thoroughly and have decided that Hamilton is their "first choice." Hamilton College values the commitment and enthusiasm demonstrated by students who choose this program. Our statistics show that Early Decision candidates have received a slight advantage in the admission and financial aid process. The program enables students to clearly indicate that Hamilton is their first choice, and allows admitted students to conclude their college search early in the senior year.

A student may apply for Early Decision under the following plans:

Plan I: November 15—Deadline for application
December 15—Notification of decision

Plan II: January 10—Deadline for application
February 10—Notification of decision

Extended ED: Candidates who decide on Hamilton as a first choice after January 10 may complete an early decision commitment card and will be considered on a rolling-admission basis until February 28. Notification will be in two weeks of the receipt of the completed application.

Students applying to the College under any of the Early Decision plans will be required to sign a statement that they will withdraw all other college applications and will file no additional applications if they are accepted by Hamilton. A guidance counselor must also acknowledge the commitment by signing this statement.

Applicants who are not admitted under this program are ordinarily deferred. Their applications will be reconsidered during the regular admission process. Notification of a final decision will be mailed to deferred candidates by April 1.

To apply for aid, students should complete and file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the College Scholarship Service (CSS) PROFILE application prior to February 1 of the year they will enter college. If the PROFILE and FAFSA are filed after February 1, photocopies of the forms should be sent simultaneously to Hamilton's Financial Aid Office. This will ensure that the request receives full consideration for assistance. Be aware that filing the PROFILE is a two-step process. The registration form must be filed before CSS will send the actual application. Students will need to file the registration form in mid-January in order to file the application by February 1.

Early and Deferred Admission

Candidates able to satisfy high school graduation requirements by the end of their junior year and who wish to matriculate at Hamilton the following fall will receive the same consideration as any other applicant. Excellent students who have exhausted their high school course offerings before the senior year but who will not satisfy graduation requirements may also be considered for early admission. Early admission candidates are strongly advised to have a personal interview on campus.

Candidates who have been accepted for admission and are fully committed to Hamilton, yet who prefer to postpone entrance for one year, may request deferred admission. A place will be reserved for them upon acceptance of their deferral by the admission committee and receipt of the required registration deposit of $200. Candidates requesting deferred admission should understand that they are expected to attend Hamilton and may not apply to other colleges during their year off.

Admission with Advanced Placement

Entering students who score satisfactorily on the Advanced Placement Tests or the International Baccalaureate Exams may be awarded (with the approval of the appropriate department and the Committee on Academic Standing) advanced placement and/or credit. In addition, credit may be granted for coursework taken on other college campuses with regular college faculty.

Beginning with the Class of 2004, with the approvals of the appropriate academic departments and the Committee on Academic Standing, entering students who score satisfactorily on the International Baccalaureate Examinations may be awarded either advanced placement in courses or credit for courses.

With the same approvals, a student who scores satisfactorily on an Advanced Placement Test may be awarded advanced placement in that department's curriculum. The department may, but need not, award the student credit for a lower-level course upon that student's completing, with a grade satisfactory to the department, the course in which he or she was placed.

A student may not receive credit toward a degree solely on the basis of a score on an Advanced Placement Test.

Common Application

Hamilton, together with many other colleges, accepts the Common Application Form available in many secondary schools. Students who submit the Common Application are at no disadvantage in the selection process, but Hamilton does require supplementary information from those who submit the common application. Like all other applicants, they are asked to supply a sample of their expository writing and are strongly encouraged to visit the campus for a personal interview.

Higher Education Opportunity Program and Scholars Program

Hamilton participates in the New York State-sponsored Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP), designed to provide a wide range of services to qualified applicants who, because of educational and economic circumstances, would otherwise be unable to attend college. These services include a summer session in preparation for matriculation at the College, counseling and tutoring. A general college studies course is offered to HEOP students each summer. Designed to introduce students to the liberal arts, the course covers such fields as English, Speech, Psychology, Philosophy, Science, Mathematics and Anthropology, and provides students with the expertise to develop a program of study, in consultation with an advisor, which will meet their perceived educational needs.

Hamilton College financial aid funds are available to students admitted under HEOP. Hamilton also conducts a parallel program to HEOP, the Scholars Program, for students who do not meet all the HEOP requirements, whether they be economic, academic or geographic. For further information, applicants should contact the director, Higher Education Opportunity Program, Hamilton College.

International Students

Applications from superior students from other countries are encouraged. International students should submit the results of the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) in addition to the materials mentioned above if their language of instruction has not been English. A limited amount of financial aid is available to international students demonstrating need.

Home-Schooled Students

Students who have met their local and/or state regulations for schooling at home may apply for admission to Hamilton. We strongly recommend these home-schooled students to have an on-campus interview to discuss their academic preparation for college-level work. The SAT-I or the ACT are required; SAT-II is optional but encouraged.

Transfer from Other Colleges

The College is interested in any well-qualified, highly motivated student who wishes to transfer to Hamilton from another institution. Because of the College's graduation and residency requirements, no student can transfer more than two years' work from another institution. (See also "Evaluation of Credit for Transfer Students" under "Academic Regulations.")

Transfer candidates must submit official records of all college work accompanied by two letters of recommendation, one of which must be from the dean of students at the institution most recently attended. The deadline for fall transfer applications is May 1; admission decisions are mailed by mid-May. The deadline for spring transfer applications is November 15; admission decisions are mailed by January 1. Financial aid for transfer students is available but limited.

Hamilton Horizons Program

Convinced that education is a continuing process, Hamilton invites qualified men and women who have been away from formal collegiate education for two years or more to return via the Hamilton Horizons Program. Interested candidates are asked to meet with the director of the program.

The Hamilton Horizons Program provides older students with the same educational opportunities offered to regular undergraduates. The program offers no distinct courses for adults, no evening or weekend courses and no adjunct faculty. Instead, students in this program are incorporated into the mainstream of the College's academic life.

To earn a degree at Hamilton, students in the Hamilton Horizons Program must satisfy all the requirements stated in the College Catalogue, except the requirement in physical education, the requirements governing minimum and maximum course loads, the requirements governing residence on campus and the requirement that the degree be completed within seven years following matriculation.

Applicants are initially accepted as part-time students in the program, which of itself offers no degree. After two semesters, each student has the option of applying to the College as a candidate for the baccalaureate degree. Hamilton Horizons students may take courses for credit or audit them without formal matriculation. The deadline for fall Horizons applications is April 1; the deadline for spring Horizons applications is November 1.

Tuition and Fees

A college education of the kind offered at Hamilton is necessarily expensive—so expensive that tuition represents slightly more than 60 percent of the actual cost of a student's education. For the remainder, the College relies upon its endowment and the various gifts and grants made by alumni, friends and foundations. Even though the individual expense is thus substantially reduced, nearly 65 percent of all students at Hamilton still need some form of financial aid. If deemed eligible, they can benefit from scholarship funds, employment opportunities and loans established to defray further the high cost of education. For detailed information, refer to the "Financial Aid" section of this Catalogue.

Charges for a year at Hamilton, including tuition and fees, room and board, total $31,200. Beyond this, a student will need an additional $500 to cover the cost of books and supplies, plus approximately $950 for other expenses. The actual amount required will depend in part upon the distance between home and the College.

College Fees

Application Fee—A non-refundable fee of $50 must accompany each application for admission.

Registration Deposit—A non-refundable deposit of $400 is required from each candidate offered admission. This sum, due by May 1, will be applied toward the first bill of the academic year.

Guarantee Deposit—An initial guarantee deposit of $100 is required from each regularly enrolled student upon entering the College. This deposit will be held to ensure final payment of minor bills. Any balance will be returned after the student leaves the College.

Tuition and Other Charges for 1999-2000—

Tuition and Fees	per year	$25,000
Room (in College residence halls)	per year	3,200
Board (in College dining halls)	per year	3,000

The charge for tuition and fees listed above does not apply to the occasional special student permitted by the faculty to carry fewer than the three courses required for a full-time program. Partial tuition for such students is determined solely by course load, at a rate of $2,400 per course.

Overelection Fee—Four years' tuition entitles the student to 37 courses—several more than are required for graduation—taken at any time during the undergraduate program. Students who enroll in more than the allotted 37 courses (exclusive of Music 121-122, 131-132, 141-142, 221-222, 231-232, 281, 331-332 and 431-432) pay an overelection fee of $2,400 per additional course.

Room and Board—The College asks that all students live in a College residence hall; exceptions to this policy may be granted by the Office of the Dean of Students. College rooms are furnished with a bed and mattress, desk, chair and dresser for each occupant. Any student who is allowed to move from his or her residence hall to off-campus housing before the second week in the semester has ended will receive a rebate. Because of residence hall financing commitments, however, students who move after that time will not be so entitled.

A limited number of students are permitted each year to participate in the Keehn Cooperative Meal Plan or in other specialized meal plans. All students, however, will participate in the Common Meal Plan as a minimum. All first- and second-year students will participate in the 21-meal plan; all juniors and seniors can choose to participate in either the 14- or 21-meal plan; and certain housing accommodations will provide for participation in the Common Meal Plan only (lunches, Monday-

Friday). Those permitted to provide their own board will be assessed a service charge of $250 per year for this privilege to cover the College's cost of maintaining cooking facilities in the residence halls.

Continuation Fee—A continuation fee of $400, deductible from the fall tuition bill, is required of all students who intend to return to Hamilton for the coming academic year. This fee will be billed to the student's account on January 15, to be paid on or before March 1. Students may not preregister or participate in the housing lottery until the fee is paid. It is nonrefundable after May 1.

Student Activities Fee—At the request of the Student Assembly, a student activities fee of $50 per student per semester is charged to support student-sponsored programming.

Medical Services—Professional care and treatments provided by the College Health Center are free. A fee may be incurred for medications and diagnostic tests.

Group Accident Insurance—Accident insurance is extended without separate charge to all regularly enrolled students for the academic year. However, this is excess insurance over any other collectible insurance covering the student as a dependent. This includes, but is not limited to, Blue Cross-Blue Shield or the parents' group insurance program.

Coverage under both the basic and the major medical plans is available for losses caused by accident only, both on and off campus, but the accident must occur during the academic year. There is no coverage during the summer break. Treatment must commence within 180 days of the accident, and all bills for charges accumulated during a given treatment must be presented within two years of the incident.

Accident insurance is also provided for intercollegiate sports. In the event of an intercollegiate sports injury, this coverage is primary. Club sports are not covered under this plan and fall under the group accident insurance plan.

Health Insurance—Hamilton College requires that all students have some form of health insurance coverage. For students who are not covered under a parent's policy, or students who would like additional coverage, Hamilton offers a limited benefits health insurance plan. Coverage under this policy is voluntary. However, if proof of other comparable health insurance coverage has not been provided to the Health Center, students will be automatically enrolled in and billed for this plan. An outline of the plan and premium information may be obtained from the director of administrative services at 315-859-4999.

Other than the provisions of the Medical Service and Group Accident and Health Insurance programs described above, the College assumes no responsibility for medical or health services to its students.

Independent Coverage Fee—A fee of $600 is charged for an approved independent coverage of a course. (See "Independent Coverage of Coursework" under "Academic Regulations.")

Music Fees—Private vocal and instrumental instruction is available during the fall and spring semesters. The student may choose between two alternatives: 11 weekly half-hour lessons for $192.50, or 11 weekly hour lessons for $385. A student receiving a college scholarship as part of his or her financial aid package is eligible for assistance in meeting the cost of private music instruction. Generally one-half the cost will be covered by an increase in the scholarship, with the remainder covered either by the student and his or her family or through a supplemental loan. Eligible students must contact the Office of Financial Aid.

Off-Campus Programs Abroad Fee—Students may study for a semester or more through approved foreign study programs at other colleges and universities. A fee of $900 is charged for each semester a student is abroad. This fee is in addition to the tuition charged by the off-campus program.

Charges for Damage—The College attempts to minimize property damage by prorating among the student body the cost of any such damage for which the responsible party cannot be identified. The cost of individual residence hall damage for which no responsible party can be found is prorated among the residents of each building. A bill for this prorated charge is sent to each student at the end of each semester.

Payment of Bills—One-half the annual charges is billed in July and the other half in December. Both are mailed to the student's home address for payment in August and January, respectively. If payment is not received by the due date, a late payment fee of $100 is assessed. An additional late fee of $200 will be assessed if the amount due for the semester is not paid by October 1 for the fall semester and March 1 for the spring semester. During the academic year, all other bills are also mailed to the student's home address and are due by the last day of the month.

Numerous lending organizations and banks offer plans for financing tuition and fees. Such plans allow for payment periods of up to 120 months. The Office of Financial Aid has a list of such organizations.

Any student whose bill is not paid as provided herein may be prevented from registering or preregistering and excluded from classes. In addition, any student whose bill is unpaid may be denied access to residence and/or dining halls. No student whose College bills are unpaid may receive a degree or honorable dismissal, have grades recorded or obtain a transcript.

All students are held personally responsible for any unpaid balance on the tuition account, regardless of any allowances, awards or financial aid. It is also the student's obligation to pay attorneys' fees or other charges necessary to facilitate the collection of amounts not paid.

All refunds to a student withdrawing from the College are based on the date on which the student, parent or guardian notified the dean of students of withdrawal. The College policy on the refund of payments to students who withdraw voluntarily or due to illness, or who are dismissed during any semester, is stated below. No other refunds are possible.

Tuition and fees are refunded as follows:

- 1) Withdrawal or dismissal during the first two weeks of the semester: 80%.
- 2) Withdrawal or dismissal during the first four weeks of the semester: 40%.
- 3) Withdrawal or dismissal during the first six weeks of the semester: 20%.
- 4) After six weeks: no refund.

Room charges will not be refunded if a student withdraws after the start of classes. Board charges will be refunded on a pro rata basis.

Students who think that any fee or refund has been incorrectly computed may appeal to the controller.

Financial Aid

For students unable to finance their education at Hamilton independently, the College furnishes grants, part-time employment and long-term loans. Such financial assistance adds breadth to the student body and attracts individuals of diverse interests and backgrounds.

Hamilton is a member of the College Scholarship Service (CSS) of the College Entrance Examination Board. To assist the College in determining an applicant's need for financial aid, CSS provides a form called PROFILE. Candidates for financial aid should file both the PROFILE and Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to receive full consideration for aid. If additional forms are required, applicants will be so notified.

Students seeking admission to the College for the fall term are encouraged to file the PROFILE, using estimated data, in the fall or early winter of their senior year in high school. The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), which cannot be submitted until after January 1, should be filed no later than February 1. Be aware that it is necessary to register for the PROFILE service either by phone (1-800-778-6888) or via the Internet (www.collegeboard.org). A Registration Guide may be obtained from guidance offices or most financial aid offices. It is important that the process be completed as soon as possible, and no later than February 1, because late filers will be at a disadvantage in consideration for institutional funds.

Filing the PROFILE and FAFSA in a timely manner will insure a candidate's full consideration for any Hamilton College scholarship or federal awards administered by the College. It is often helpful if photocopies of the PROFILE and FAFSA are submitted to the Financial Aid Office as they are filed. On occasion, processing delays do occur that may jeopardize the timely receipt of applicant information. If the College does not receive a record of your filing by March 1, candidates may not receive full consideration for College-funded assistance.

The PROFILE and FAFSA forms may be obtained from local high schools, colleges or universities. For further information, candidates should write to the Office of Financial Aid, Hamilton College, Clinton, NY 13323.

An application for financial aid cannot be considered until the candidate has also applied for admission to the College. The decision to admit an applicant is normally made without regard to the need for financial aid. Consequently, admission in no way guarantees the granting of such aid. Aid normally is awarded for an academic year and credited to College bills, but it may be adjusted at any time if circumstances warrant. Awards are reevaluated each year; therefore, in the spring of each year, students who wish to be considered for the renewal of an award must again file application materials with the Office of Financial Aid.

The amount of financial aid for which a candidate is eligible is established through consideration of income, assets, family size, the number of family members in college and other circumstances that may affect a family's ability to contribute toward education costs.

Types of Aid

A Hamilton student with financial need may benefit from one or several types of assistance: Hamilton College scholarships, loans or jobs; New York State and federal scholarships, grants and loans; and various non-college awards made directly to the individual by private organizations.

Over the years, the College has developed a strong and far-reaching program of scholarship aid. Hamilton College scholarships are supported by endowed funds established through the generosity of alumni and friends, by annual grants and by the College's operating budget.

Merit Scholarship Programs—The William M. Bristol, Jr. '17 Scholarship Program provides scholarships up to $10,000 per year (renewable for four years) to students who have demonstrated the ability to think, write and speak critically, analytically and creatively. The College looks for students with a strong commitment to citizenship and public service. Each year, eight to ten of Hamilton's most outstanding applicants are presented with this merit award, regardless of their financial need.

The Hans H. Schambach '43 Scholarship recognizes approximately ten of the strongest applicants from each entering class by meeting their full financial need, without loans, for four years. Schambach Scholars are chosen for their outstanding personal and academic promise, as well as their potential to make a significant contribution to the life of the College.

National Merit Scholars finalists who list Hamilton as their first choice will receive $2,000 from the College in each of their four years.

To be eligible for any of these scholarships, students must apply and be accepted to Hamilton, be in the top ten percent of their high school classes and score between 1350-1600 on the SAT. Demonstrated leadership and community involvement is also considered. No special applications are required for the Bristol and National Merit Awards; nominations from guidance counselors are welcomed.

General Scholarships—Any Hamilton undergraduate is eligible to apply for a general scholarship. These scholarships are awarded on the basis of personal promise as well as on the degree of financial need.

Grants of this sort are supported by the income from more than 100 endowed scholarship funds, from annual grants and by the general funds of the College.

Awards range in amount from $100 to total expenses and are awarded on the basis of need. (See the "Appendix" for a partial list of "General Scholarships.")

Special Scholarships—To be eligible for these scholarships, a student must have already demonstrated financial need and must meet certain requirements or restrictions set by the donor or the College. For example, Hamilton maintains scholarships for residents of certain geographic areas, for foreign students and for students with special talents in various fields.

Many scholarships are available to matriculating students; others are restricted on the basis of a student's class year. (For details, see "Appendix.")

Prize Scholarships—Prize scholarships are awarded to students who have completed at least one year at Hamilton and demonstrated some achievement while enrolled at the College (e.g., excellence in coursework or campus citizenship).

Because the recipients of prize scholarships must usually be eligible for financial aid, most prize scholars will already be recipients of undesignated scholarships from the College. In bestowing a prize scholarship, Hamilton seeks to honor the recipient by substituting a named or designated scholarship for an undesignated scholarship.

College Loans—The Barrett-Schweitzer Loan Fund was established in 1992 in honor of Edwin B. Barrett, Professor Emeritus of English and Drama, and Albert Schweitzer, the eminent humanitarian. It provides loans not exceeding $2,000 at interest rates of 4 percent per annum to students who have demonstrated academic excellence and are in need of additional financial support.

The Frank Burgess Memorial Fund was established in 1969 under the will of Frank Burgess. Income from the fund is loaned to deserving students in need of financial assistance. According to the terms of the will, before loans are granted, students must agree to begin repayment within two years after graduation or on entering their "life work," and to complete repayment within five years after graduation or on entering their "life work," with interest at 5 percent per annum to begin at graduation or on entering their "life work."

The Joseph Drown Loan Fund was established in 1983 in memory of Joseph Drown, a friend of the College. Loans are available to deserving students at an interest rate 2 percent below the Federal Stafford Loan Program rate. No interest is incurred during in-school periods, and repayment does not begin until after graduation. Candidates from the western part of the United States receive priority consideration.

The Marshall L. Marquardt Loan Fund was established in 1980 under the will of Mary Sloane Marquardt in memory of her husband, Class of 1933. Loans are available to deserving senior-year students, and are repayable at an interest rate of 3 percent within three years after graduation. The interest accrues from the time the student leaves the College.

The Theodore M. Pomeroy Loan Fund was established in 1916 to assist worthy students. Loans granted to seniors are repayable within three years of graduation (interest at 3 percent computed from the time the student leaves college), and by other students before returning to college the following fall with interest at 3 percent charged from the time the loan is made.

The Gregory H. Rosenblum Loan Fund was established in 1989 by Miriam Friedman, daughter of Mr. Rosenblum, Class of 1892, and her family in appreciation for the financial aid he received at the College. Students who demonstrate need in emergency situations may borrow up to $250 in interest-free short-term loans in any one academic year, with repayment to be made within one year of the date that the loan is secured.

The Henry B. Sanson Loan Fund was established in 1978 by Mr. Sanson, Class of 1940. Loans are available to students who demonstrate need. Preference is given to students from Connecticut, or those from other New England states if none from Connecticut qualify. Interest at 5 percent is charged on the loans, which are repayable within ten years of graduation.

The Elmer C. Sherman Loan Fund was established under the will of Ida M. Sherman in memory of her husband, Class of 1882. Loans are available to juniors and seniors who demonstrate need and have maintained high scholastic rank during their previous years at Hamilton. No interest is charged, and the entire loan must be repaid within three years after graduation.

Student Employment—The Federal Work-Study Program and Hamilton's Work-Scholarship Program provide student employment as part of the financial aid package. Other employment possibilities, chiefly odd jobs, exist on campus and in the local community.

Federal and State Scholarships and Grants—A detailed listing of the federal and state financial aid programs available to Hamilton students can be found in the "Appendix."

Campus Buildings and Facilities

In all, Hamilton owns more than 1,300 acres of woodlands, open fields and glens overlooking the Oriskany and Mohawk Valleys of Central New York. Included within the grounds are numerous hiking and cross-country ski trails and many unusual varieties of trees and plants. The Root Glen, gift of Mrs. Edward W. Root in 1971, is remembered by all who have strolled its shale paths.

The Afro-Latin Cultural Center

Founded in 1969, the Afro-Latin Cultural Center provides a place of sodality for Black and Latin students. Open to and used by the entire community, the center sponsors discussions, lectures, art shows and similar educational, cultural and social events.

The Anderson-Connell Alumni Center

Originally an inn called Lee's Tavern and the home of the Root family, the Alumni Center is one of the oldest buildings on the Hill. Renovated in 1986, it is named in honor of Joseph F. Anderson, Class of 1944, and in memory of Clancy D. Connell, Class of 1912. It houses the offices of Communications and Development.

The Athletic Center

With the construction of the Margaret Bundy Scott Field House in 1978, the Athletic Center was completed, providing Hamilton with some of the finest and most modern indoor sports facilities of any small college in the nation. The Field House is connected with the Russell Sage Hockey Rink, one of the first indoor structures of its kind to be built on a college campus and renovated in 1993, and the Alumni Gymnasium, dedicated in 1940 and renovated in 1978. In addition, the William M. Bristol, Jr. Swimming Pool, dedicated in 1988, serves the instructional and competitive swimming and diving programs of the College (see "Athletic Programs and Facilities").

The Azel Backus House

The only building still extant from the Hamilton-Oneida Academy, it was constructed as a boarding house for the academy's students. In 1812 it became the home of Azel Backus, the first president of the College. Since 1958 the house has contained faculty and staff apartments and has also served as a meeting place for various campus and alumni groups. In 1984 it was renovated to include faculty dining rooms.

The Beinecke Student Activities Village

The Student Activities Village, constructed in 1993 and named for Walter Beinecke, Jr., former chairman of the board of trustees of Kirkland College and a life trustee of Hamilton, links the north and south sides of the campus via Martin's Way, named in honor of J. Martin Caravano, Hamilton's 16th president. The village contains the Mail Center, the Howard Diner and the Fillius Events Barn, as well as lounges, where students and faculty members meet informally outside of the classroom and office.

Benedict Hall

The gift of Henry Harper Benedict, Class of 1869 and one of the pioneers in the manufacturing and marketing of the typewriter, Benedict Hall, which was erected in 1897, houses faculty offices and classrooms.

The Bristol Campus Center

Constructed in 1965, the William McLaren Bristol Campus Center is named for the co-founder of Bristol-Myers Co., a member of the Class of 1882. Facilities include the WHCL studios, student media offices, the College Store, a laundromat, lounges, meeting rooms, offices for student organizations and 12 guest rooms.

Buttrick Hall

Originally built in 1812 as the student dining hall, Buttrick Hall is as old as the College itself. In 1834 it became the home of Horatio Buttrick, then superintendent of the Buildings and Grounds Department as well as registrar. Through Oren Root's marriage to a daughter of Horatio Buttrick, the building became the birthplace of Elihu Root, U.S. secretary of state and recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize. It has served as Hamilton's administrative headquarters since 1926.

The Career Center

Located in a former private residence that was specifically redesigned and renovated for its new purpose in 1986, the Maurice Horowitch Career Center has two recruiting rooms and three reading rooms containing reference materials. It also comprises offices for three professional staff members who provide assistance to students in developing their post-graduate plans.

The Chapel

Designed by architect Philip Hooker and completed in 1827, the Chapel is thought to be the only remaining example of an early three-story church in America. Restored in 1949 as a World War II memorial, it is the most notable landmark on the Hill and the center of the religious life of the College. It is frequently used for public lectures, concerts and assemblies.

Couper Hall

Constructed in 1889 and rededicated in 1992 in honor and memory of Edgar W. Couper, Class of 1920 and former chancellor of the University of the State of New York, Couper Hall was originally the College YMCA building. It contains classrooms and offices of the Classics Department as well as the Women's Studies program.

Dining Halls

Hamilton has two dining halls: Soper Commons, the gift of Alexander Soper, Class of 1867, and his brothers Arthur and James; and McEwen Dining Hall.

The Health Center

The Thomas Brown Rudd Health Center, named for the College's 13th president, was completed in 1959, and an addition was constructed in 1972. The building houses the Student Health Services and contains fully equipped examination and treatment rooms. The center is staffed by a director/nurse practitioner, two other nurse practitioners, a registered nurse and a medical secretary. For health problems that require additional resources, referral to local physicians and consultants is employed.

The Health Center also houses the College's Counseling and Psychological Services, staffed by two counseling psychologists and a counselor. Upon request, referrals can be made to mental health specialists away from campus.

Christian A. Johnson Hall

The former College library (1914-1972) was renovated and rededicated as Christian A. Johnson Hall in 1982. It houses the Emerson Gallery (comprising formal art exhibition and workshop areas), the language and speech laboratory and the College's media library. It also contains classrooms and faculty offices for the Critical Languages and the East Asian Languages programs, the departments of Computer Science, German and Russian Languages, Mathematics and Romance Languages, as well as the Quantitative Literacy Center.

Kirkland Cottage

The oldest building on campus, Kirkland Cottage was first constructed in 1792 as the home of Samuel Kirkland, the founder of Hamilton College. In 1925 it was moved from the foot of College Hill to its present site and later restored. The cottage is used by the senior honorary society, Pentagon, for its meetings, and for the matriculation of the first-year class.

Kirner-Johnson Buildings

These connecting buildings are used extensively for academic, administrative and extracurricular purposes. The Kirner Building, named in honor of Juvanta H. and Walter R. Kirner, houses the offices of the dean of the faculty, the dean of students, the registrar, the Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP), multicultural affairs, the compliance officer for the Americans with Disabilities Act, the departments of Anthropology, History and Sociology, the program in Africana Studies and the Nesbitt-Johnston Writing Center. In addition to several classrooms, it also contains two auditoriums. Within the adjacent Johnson Building, named for Virgil E. Johnson, are the departments of Economics and Government and the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center.

The Library

Construction of the Daniel Burke Library was completed in 1972. Named for a member of the Class of 1893 who was for many years chairman of the board of trustees, this modern facility provides Hamilton with one of the finest small college libraries in the nation. The Computer Center is housed in the basement of the library (see "Information Technology Services" under "Academic Programs and Services").

List Art Center

The Vera G. and Albert A. List Art Center, a multipurpose building for the visual and performing arts, has studios and workshops for ceramics, graphics, sculpture, metals, painting and photography; a rehearsal hall, teaching studios, an electronic studio and practice rooms for music; a dance studio; exhibition areas; projection and recording facilities; classrooms; and offices for the departments of Art, and Theatre and Dance.

The Little Pub

Located adjacent to the Beinecke Student Activities Village, The Little Pub opened its doors in the spring of 1996. The restored horse stable/carriage barn contains a game room, bar, dance floor, fireplace room and other spaces for informal social gatherings.

McEwen Hall

Named for Robert Ward McEwen, 14th president of Hamilton College, McEwen Hall houses dining facilities, the Café Opus coffeehouse, a cinema lab, classrooms, music practice rooms and offices for faculty members.

Minor Theater

Originally Hamilton's first library (1872-1914), and later the College infirmary, it was converted to a theatre in 1962 through the generosity of Clark H. Minor, Class of 1902 and a former chairman of the board of trustees. It is now used for student productions and College-sponsored work in drama.

The Observatory

Made possible through a gift from Elihu Root III, Class of 1936, the Observatory houses an 11 1/4" Maksutov telescope. Several smaller telescopes are also in use. In 1977, a building was constructed next to the observatory to provide work space for students enrolled in astronomy courses. This structure is heated by solar energy and is designed to permit experiments in this field. The observatory is off College Hill Road on Peters Lane, a quarter-mile from the campus.

Residence Halls

Hamilton believes the opportunities for educational and personal growth are best served when all students are in residence together. Toward that end, 95 percent of our students live in the 22 residence halls on campus, and first-year students are housed in clusters in several of those halls. As students grow and develop at the College, they have an opportunity to live more independently in small houses and apartments.

Resident advisors live in each hall, with an average ratio of one resident advisor for every 30 students. Working closely with the Office of Residential Life, resident advisors are responsible for advising students in their areas, developing educational and social programs, and handling limit-setting and administrative responsibilities within their buildings.

The College tries to provide its students with as many different housing options as possible. For example, even though all residence halls are coeducational, some floors are single-sex while others are coed. Dunham, Kirkland and North contain rooms ranging from singles to quads, and Carnegie and South, contain doubles, triples, and quads. All offer lounges, recreation areas, and kitchenettes. Babbitt and Milbank residence halls comprise six-person suites with kitchens and lounges. Keehn, Major, McIntosh, Minor and Root contain singles and doubles, kitchenettes and large lounges. The Bundy residence quadrangle consists of large singles and doubles. Keehn offers a cooperative living arrangement, and one floor in Major is designated as the "quiet hall," where students abide by a 23-hour-a-day quiet policy. In addition, Root is designated as the "substance free" hall, and North, Minor and sections of Dunham and Bundy West as the "smoke-free" residences.

Other housing options for primarily juniors and seniors include the Griffin Road and Farmhouse apartments, Wallace Johnson House, the recently renovated Saunders House, Rogers Estate, Ferguson House, the DKE House and 3950 Campus Road.

Root Hall

Given in 1897 by Elihu Root, Class of 1864, in memory of his father, Oren, professor of mathematics, the building was originally the Hall of Science. It now houses classrooms and faculty offices for the departments of Comparative Literature, English, and Rhetoric and Communication.

The Elihu Root House

Constructed in 1817 for Theodore Strong, Hamilton's first professor of mathematics, the structure has served as the home of presidents as well as faculty members of the College. The house was extensively remodeled after it was purchased by Elihu Root as a summer home in 1893, and was occupied after 1937 by his daughter, Edith Root Grant, and her husband, Ulysses S. Grant III, grandson of the president. A National Historic Landmark, it was acquired by the College in 1979 and now houses the Admission and Financial Aid offices.

Saunders Hall of Chemistry

Rebuilt and enlarged in 1930, the Hall of Chemistry was again renovated in 1978 and renamed in honor of Arthur Percy Saunders, longtime professor of chemistry and former dean of the College. It houses an auditorium, classrooms, offices and several laboratories, including the Bristol-Myers Laboratory.

The Schambach Center

Completed in 1988, the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts houses the Music Department, its classrooms, studios, practice rooms and library. The center also contains the 700-seat Carol Woodhouse Wellin Performance Hall, an appropriate setting for the talents of student artists as well as internationally recognized artists in music and dance who regularly visit Hamilton.

The Science Building

The Science Building, built in 1925, expanded in 1965 with the addition of the Dana Wing, and frequently renovated in recent years, contains the offices and laboratories of the Biology, Geology, Physics and Psychology departments, as well as two auditoriums. It also houses the Oren Root Mineralogy Collection, assembled circa 1850 by Mr. Root and now consisting of many specimens of fossils, rocks and minerals.

Student Life

The Division of Student Life is primarily concerned with the quality of learning for students outside of the formal classroom setting. The services within the division support and augment the educational purposes and goals outlined in the College Catalogue. Hamilton recognizes that students develop intellectually and socially while participating as active members of a residential community. The College therefore has a responsibility to integrate the goals of a liberal arts education into its residential programs. Students are challenged to understand values and lifestyles different from their own, to relate meaningfully with one another, to develop the capacity to appreciate cultural and aesthetic differences and to accept responsibility for the consequences of their actions.

Student Services

The Division of Student Life is concerned with the total development of the student. Emphasis within the various student services is placed on both challenging and supporting students' growth and development as they strive to achieve their potential. The following service areas are included within the division:

Academic Support—A member of the faculty serves a three-year term as associate dean of students for academic affairs. This associate dean, who chairs the faculty's Committee on Academic Standing, monitors the academic progress of students toward meeting degree requirements, administers academic regulations, supports academic advising and assists the Honor Court. This associate dean is available to consult with students, faculty members or parents who need assistance or support with matters pertaining to the academic progress of a student. A second associate dean of students is responsible for advising students as they make preparations to study abroad or at other U.S. institutions or programs. This associate dean also advises international students, serves as an administrative hearing officer and assists the dean of students.

Campus Safety—The Department of Campus Safety strives to provide a reasonably secure and safe environment for all who work and study at the College and to protect College property. Campus safety is dependent upon the cooperation and active participation of all members of the community in reducing crime and creating a safe environment. All campus safety personnel are trained in fire and crime prevention, basic first aid and CPR, College policy enforcement and how to respond to a variety of requests for assistance typically associated with the college environment. In addition, the director serves as a liaison with both local and state law enforcement and fire protection agencies. Campus safety provides information to members of the community on a variety of personal safety concerns through educational programs and publications.

Career Center—Career decision-making represents one of the most important developmental tasks for most students at Hamilton. The decision to begin graduate or professional study or to enter the work world involves a complex challenge to the student's intellectual, emotional and social growth. Career Center programming and services are designed to assist students in identifying their own achievements, values, skills and interests; to help them to understand and appreciate the diversity of the world of work; to aid in acquiring the skills necessary to enter that work world; and to manage their careers over their entire life spans.

Chaplaincy—The chaplaincy addresses "the culture of the heart," drawing students and other members of the community into the conversation around life's great questions: "Where did we come from? Why are we here? Where are we going?" At the center of the chaplaincy is the Chapel Board, composed of the three Hamilton chaplains (Protestant, Catholic and Jewish) and representatives from religious communities on campus. Currently Chapel Board is made up of the following groups: Christian Fellowship, Community Church (Protestant), Gospel Choir, Hillel (Jewish), Islamic Association, Newman Community (Catholic), Orthodox Christian Group, Sitting Group (Zen Buddhist and other meditative traditions) and representatives of other faith traditions on campus. Chapel Board helps the chaplaincy move toward three goals: 1) promote awareness of religious life on campus, 2) provide support and encouragement to religious groups and traditions who make up Chapel Board and 3) offer opportunities for multifaith experiences.

The chaplaincy exists to encourage all forms of religious life and community which find expression at Hamilton College, including worship services, religious music, observance of holy days, experiences of prayer and spirituality and discussion or speaker events on religious or ethical topics. Chaplains are available for counseling with all members of the Hamilton community.

The chaplaincy also supports volunteering for community service. This happens within various religious communities but also in a concentrated way through HAVOC (Hamilton Action Volunteer Outreach Coalition). This student-run organization, advised by the chaplaincy, offers about 20 weekly service projects, including Habitat for Humanity, Best Buddies, Big Brother/Big Sister, Literacy Volunteers of America, working with the elderly, AIDS Community Resources, the Rescue Mission soup kitchen and half a dozen tutoring opportunities. HAVOC also offers service trips over spring break and monthly campus-wide projects to raise funds and awareness for social justice/community service issues.

Counseling and Psychological Services—Students experience developmental and psychological growth as well as difficult situations during their college years. Confidential discussions with counselors can be helpful in the process of making decisions, solving or managing problems, adjusting to a new environment or learning more deeply about oneself. Counseling sessions are intended to result in a more thorough understanding of issues and problems and a clear conceptualization of future actions. The professional staff of three consists of psychologists and counselors who specialize in concerns of college students. All services are strictly confidential and free of charge to Hamilton students. The office is located on the second floor of the Thomas Brown Rudd Health Center accessed via the north entrance. Appointments are available during the week between 9 a.m.-5 p.m. If the need is urgent, arrangements will be made after hours.

Health Services—The personnel and programs of the Thomas Brown Rudd Health Center are dedicated to encouraging and maintaining the well-being and safety of students. The delivery of direct patient care values respect for the individual. Assessment and treatment of illness, consultation, referral and emergency care are provided. Healthy choices and behaviors are promoted through education on issues and lifestyles specific to the college-age population.

The clinic is open weekdays 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., when the College is in session. After-hours emergency care is provided through contacts with local urgent care and emergency departments. A trained student Emergency Medical Team is on call to respond to accidents, acute on-site illnesses and injuries.

The service is free. Charges may be incurred for laboratory tests, x-rays and medications.

Kirkland Project—The Kirkland Project for the Study of Gender, Society and Culture seeks to build a diverse community respectful of our differences by raising questions and issues of gender, diversity and social justice. The project provides college-wide opportunities for dynamic intellectual discussion, interaction and exchange of ideas about gender, race, class and sexuality.

Recent events have included performances by students (Shange's "for colored girls who have considered suicide"), lectures by novelist Anna Quindlen and Dr. Susan Love, as well as a community performance of "Undesirable Elements" by renowned performance artist Ping Chong. Plans for the future include a series on “Educating for Democracy” with guest speakers Peter Schrag and Sarah Lawrence-Lightfoot. In addition to lectures and Brown Bag lunches, the Kirkland Project offers a first-year seminar (“Coming of Age in America”), a student associates program (teaching, research and service), as well as an artist/scholar in residence program.

Multicultural Life—The assistant dean of students provides leadership for the development of educational, cultural and social programs that enhance intercultural understanding and foster a campus climate that celebrates and respects the uniqueness of all its members. The term “multicultural” is meant to include not only students from diverse racial, cultural and ethnic backgrounds, but also students of different genders, sexual orientations and socioeconomic classes. The dean serves as an advocate for students from diverse racial, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and sexual orientations, and works cooperatively with admissions, faculty members, administrators and students to build and strengthen support networks and to increase and retain representation of historically under-represented groups.

The assistant dean of students advises the Asian Cultural Society, Black and Latin Student Union, International Students Association, Islamic Association, La Vanguardia, Middle East Union, Native American Studies and Students’ Association, Rainbow Alliance and the Womyn’s Community Center. Through leadership development and workshops, these organizations work to provide the campus with outstanding educational, awareness, cultural and social events throughout the academic year.

Residential Life—The Office of Residential Life strives to promote and maintain a residential community conducive to intellectual and personal growth, where students can sleep, study and share ideas with peers whose culture, lifestyle and opinions may be different from their own.

The professional staff in residential life includes the director, assistant director and two live-in area coordinators who are responsible for the management of the 22 residential facilities and the supervision of the paraprofessional staff members who live and work within them.

The paraprofessional staff includes a total of 54 resident advisors and one residential manager. The resident advisors are upperclass students who are trained as counselors, limit-setters, program developers and resource persons, who provide valuable leadership within the residential community. The residential manager is also an upperclass student who works in the Farmhouse apartment facility on campus in an administrative role as a liaison to the Office of Residential Life and the Physical Plant.

Services for Students with Disabilities —Hamilton College is committed to providing equal opportunity and access to qualified students with physical, mental or learning disabilities. Although the College does not have a specialized program for students with disabilities, the associate dean of students (academic) will coordinate individualized accommodations and support services for any student who needs them. In addition, support services such as the Reading/Writing Center, the Study Skills Center and the Quantitative Literacy Center are available to all students.

Students seeking special arrangements due to a disability should provide the associate dean with a recent evaluation conducted by a specialist in the appropriate field. It should include a diagnosis of a disabling condition and recommend accommodations. Using this information, in consultation with the student, his or her professors and, if necessary, other qualified experts, the associate dean will help the student to develop a system of support services that are appropriate to the student’s needs. Requests for special arrangements should be made well in advance of the time they will be needed. Questions about services may be directed to the associate dean of students (academic) or the compliance officer for the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Student Activities—There are numerous opportunities for student development, involvement and leadership in co-curricular activities at Hamilton. Altogether, there are more than 70 clubs and organizations, and students can choose to become involved in community service, cultural, musical, athletic, social, recreational or religious activities, or co-curricular activities related to an academic interest. A Student Activities Fair is held each fall to introduce students to the variety of options available to them.

The director of student activities advises student organizations, including private societies, and supervises the Beinecke Student Activities Village and the Bristol Campus Center. Facilities in the Bristol Campus Center include the College Store, radio station WHCL-88.7 FM, a travel agency, student organization offices, meeting and conference rooms, and 12 guest rooms. The Beinecke Village includes the Howard Diner, the multipurpose Fillius Events Barn, the Mail Center, an automatic teller machine (ATM) and a variety of lounges.

The Campus Activities Board (CAB). A student-run organization, CAB is responsible for the bulk of social programming on campus. Each semester CAB brings a variety of fun-filled events to Hamilton, including comedians, bands, novelty acts and acoustic coffeehouse performers.

The Student Assembly. The functions of student government at Hamilton are vested in the Student Assembly. The Student Assembly is composed of five branches: the coordinating branch (Central Council); the judicial branch (Honor Court and Judicial Board); the lobbying branch (Community Council and Academic Chamber); the programming branch (Campus Activities Board); and the housing branch (Residential Life Committee). The assembly's funding committee makes allocations to more than 30 student organizations.

Student Clubs and Organizations. Descriptions of a sampling of student organizations follow. See On the Hill, the student handbook, for a complete listing of student clubs and organizations.

The Black and Latin Student Union was founded by students in 1968 to broaden the awareness and appreciation of Black and Latin cultures. Its goal is to help preserve the cultural identities of Black and Latin students at Hamilton. La Vanguardia was established in 1984 to complement the growing diversity within the Latino community. The Asian Cultural Society was established in 1987 to promote Asian culture, further enriching the multicultural life of the community.

Departmental clubs provide common ground for students interested in a particular field of study. The clubs sponsor discussions, lectures, presentations of papers and similar events. Such groups are sponsored by the Geology, German and Russian Languages, Philosophy and Romance Languages departments.

The International Student Association is composed of international and U.S. students and regularly sponsors cultural programs and social events.

The Outing Club organizes and conducts hiking and camping trips, winter mountaineering, rock climbing and Nordic skiing. Club membership allows individuals to borrow outdoor equipment including tents, sleeping bags, backpacks, stoves, cookware, canoes and cross-country skis.

The Root-Jessup Public Affairs Council is an undergraduate organization with student officers and a faculty advisor, whose purpose is to stimulate student discussion of current national and international issues. The group sponsors discussions and lectures series whose participants have included William F. Buckley, Jr., Jesse Jackson, George McGovern, Phyllis Schlafly and Ralph Nader. The Council is named for the distinguished diplomats Elihu Root, Class of 1864, and Philip C. Jessup, Class of 1918.

The Womyn's Community Center was founded in order to provide a focus for the concerns of women at Hamilton. It operates a resource center and sponsors programs open to all members of the College community. The Rainbow Alliance addresses social and political concerns associated with sexual orientation.

There are nine social fraternities and three sororities recognized by the College. The fraternities are Alpha Delta Phi, Chi Psi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Delta Phi, Delta Upsilon, Psi Upsilon, Sigma Phi, Theta Delta Chi and Tau Kappa Epsilon. The sororities are Alpha Theta Chi, Gamma Xi and Kappa Delta Omega. In addition, the Emerson Literary Society is open to undergraduate women and men.

Student Media Board. Consisting of students, faculty members and administrators, but always having a student majority and chair, the Student Media Board oversees all Hamilton student publications. It approves the budget for each publication, elects editors, and reviews and adjudicates editorial problems and disputes. The newspaper, yearbook, literary magazine, several smaller publications, and the radio and television stations are all operated and managed completely by students.

Campus Cultural Life

Art

The Emerson Gallery (located in Christian A. Johnson Hall) offers Hamilton students a lively and diverse program of art exhibitions and related events, including gallery talks, lectures, workshops, performances and films. Each year the gallery presents the best in contemporary art as well as exhibitions drawn from many cultures and historical periods.

The Emerson Gallery's 1999-2000 exhibition schedule includes Mapping the West: Nineteenth-Century American Landscape Photographs from the Boston Public Library, Central New York State Arts and Crafts Furniture, Studio Art Faculty Exhibition and Senior Art Projects 2000.

The gallery also regularly exhibits works from the permanent collection which is strong in American and British works on paper and also includes paintings and sculpture, collections of Greek vases, Roman glass and Native American objects. The Walter Beinecke, Jr. Collection includes prints, drawings and paintings related to the history of the Lesser Antilles. The permanent collection is made available for student research and study.

Student work opportunities at the Emerson Gallery (there are both paid and volunteer positions available) provide valuable experience for students interested in careers in museum work and arts administration.

Dance

Hamilton's dance program offers interested students a variety of opportunities. Student dancers take part in two departmental concerts each year, choreographed by faculty members, guest artists and students. Many other department-sponsored events occur throughout the year as well, from performances by world-renowned dance companies to choreographers' showcases and senior project performances that involve more than 100 students annually. Each year the Student Dance Alliance sponsors a variety of workshops open to all members of the College community regardless of skill level. Those interested should contact the department.

Film

Three student-run film societies provide film entertainment on campus nearly every weekend that the College is in session. The Foreign and Fine Film Society presents foreign, classic and fine art films; the Classic Film Society offers the opportunity to see classic films on the big screen with a discussion often led by a faculty member prior to or following the film; the Samuel Kirkland Film Society offers current motion pictures as well as musicals.

Music

In addition to the professional performing arts series, there are performances by faculty members and student ensembles, as well as numerous student recitals. The Department of Music also sponsors master classes by visiting artists and lectures on musical subjects by prominent scholars.

Other concerts on campus are offered by the Campus Activities Board. The Office of Multicultural Affairs also sponsors concerts from time to time.

The College Choir, founded in 1867, carries forward a long tradition of choral excellence. In addition to several concerts on campus and in neighboring communities, the choir undertakes an annual concert tour during the spring recess. These tours have ranged from Boston to Chicago and Montreal to Savannah. In addition, the choir has toured Europe seven times. Auditions are held during Orientation in the fall.

The College Orchestra was founded in 1970. In recent years it has performed symphonies by Beethoven, Mozart and Schubert, as well as works by Brahms, Schumann, Berlioz, Wagner, Copland and Ives. The orchestra has also commissioned works by composers from around the world. Student soloists, chosen by annual competition, also regularly perform concertos or arias with the orchestra. In recent years the orchestra has undertaken two tours, one in this country, the other in Europe. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The College Hill Singers provides an opportunity for talented singers to participate in a variety of solo vocal ensembles. Repertoire is drawn from all periods of music history. Membership is limited to members of the College Choir.

The College and Community Oratorio Society, founded in 1975, performs major works with orchestra each semester. The society is open to any member of the community, without audition. Interested singers may join by attending the first rehearsal of the term.

The Brass Choir, founded in 1959, performs numerous times during the year, providing music for various College functions as well as giving concerts off campus. Its repertoire ranges from Josquin and Gabrieli to Hindemith and Dahl. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The Woodwind Ensembles, founded in 1961, afford an opportunity for the study and performance of music for various combinations of wind instruments. They have performed works by Ibert, Mozart, Fine and Richard Strauss. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The Jazz Ensemble was founded in 1981 for the study and performance of a variety of jazz styles. It provides opportunities for students to study improvisation within a large ensemble context. The ensemble performs several concerts on campus each year, and recently presented concerts throughout New England. Auditions are held during Orientation each fall.

The Buffers, Special K, the Hamiltones and Tumbling After are Hamilton's a cappella performance groups. All male, all female or coeducational, each group draws from varied repertoires ranging from traditional barbershop quartet melodies to contemporary music, and each mixes musical skill with humor to entertain audiences both at Hamilton and on tour. Auditions are held by announcement.

Vocal and instrumental instruction is available for those wishing to study music in the classic tradition. Most instruction on orchestral instruments is offered by members of the Syracuse Symphony or the Catskill Symphony. A fee is charged for such instruction, but students receiving financial aid may obtain assistance in meeting the cost. Inquiries should be addressed to the Music Department.

Instruments of various sorts are available for student use. The Music Department also maintains a well-equipped studio for electronic music that surpasses such facilities at many larger colleges and universities.

The department also houses a Jazz Archive that includes more than 180 interviews with great jazz artists and several vintage jazz recordings. The Jazz Archive has also sponsored residencies by such artists as Milt Hinton, Byron Stripling, Joe Wilder, Clark Terry, Bobby Watson and Jane Ira Bloom.

Theatre

Theatre program productions are always open to the entire student body. Normally the department produces two to three productions a year, in November and April. Recent major faculty-directed productions have included Shakespeare's Love's Labour's Lost, Marlane Meyer's Moe's Lucky Seven, Beckett's Waiting for Godot, Miller's The Crucible, Aeschylus' The Oresteia and Buchner's Leonce and Lena. In addition to these, the theatre program regularly produces student-directed one-acts, usually as part of the directing workshop or as senior projects. Theatre program productions involve more than 100 students each year.

Auditions for theatre program productions are open to all students and are held early each semester. Technical and managerial positions are also available.

Performing Arts

Hamilton sponsors three professional performing arts series: Classical Connections, On the Town, and Contemporary Voices and Visions. Last season's performers included I Music De Montreal, Ensemble Galilei, Trinity Irish Dancers, Turtle Island String Quartet, Nexus, Toshi Reagon and the Elisa Monte Dance Company. Performing artists for the 1999-2000 season are Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, Ladysmith Black Mambazo, Meredith Monk and Taylor II Dance, among others.

Lectures and Performances

Numerous lectures and live performances are provided during the year for the Hamilton community from the income of endowments established for those purposes and augmented by general College funds.

The Lee H. Bristol Endowment for the Performing Arts was established in memory of Lee H. Bristol, Jr., Class of 1945, to bring performing artists to the College.

The William M. Bristol, Jr. Distinguished Visitors Program, established through the bequest of William M. Bristol, Jr., Class of 1917, supports lectures, performances and other special events held in connection with several-day visits by high-profile experts in various fields.

The Richard P. Butrick Lecture Fund was established by the Honorable Richard P. Butrick, a retired diplomat, to support an annual lecture or lectures.

The Class of 1940 Cultural Endowment was established on the occasion of the 50th Reunion of the Class of 1940 to support a major cultural event to be held annually at the College, preferably in the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts.

The Class of 1949 Performance and Lecture Fund was established on the occasion of the 40th Reunion of the Class of 1949 to support major performances or lectures to be held in the Hans H. Schambach Center for Music and the Performing Arts.

The Continental Group American Economy Lecture Series was established in 1980 by the Continental Can Company to provide lectures dealing with the American economy in conjunction with the Public Policy Program.

The David Maldwyn Ellis Lecture Fund was established by Robert B. Carson, Class of 1956, in honor of David Maldwyn Ellis, Class of 1938 and professor emeritus of history, to support lectures on the topics of American history or American institutions.

The Great Names at Hamilton Lecture and Performance Fund was established to support one or more annual lectures or performances by individuals of national or international renown in any field.

The Ralph E. and Doris M. Hansmann Lecture Series was established in 1993 in honor of Mr. Hansmann, Class of 1940, and his wife, to support annual lectures in any field. Fields are designated on a three-year rotating basis.

The Terry Herrick Memorial Fund for Industrial Relations Study was established in 1981 by alumni and friends in memory of Horace Terhune Herrick, Jr., Class of 1942, to support lectures on subjects relating to labor, management and productivity.

The Victor S. Johnson Family Lecture Fund was established in 1987 to bring to the campus alumni, public figures, scholars and others who have distinguished themselves in their respective careers and are recognized leaders in their fields, to address a significant aspect of American life and thought.

The Edwin B. Lee Lecture Fund in Asian Studies was established in 1990 by former students and friends of Professor Lee to bring to the College each year a distinguished lecturer in the field of Asian studies.

The Arthur Levitt Endowment Fund was established by Arthur Levitt, Jr., father of Lauri Levitt Friedland, Class of 1981, in memory of Mr. Levitt's father, Arthur Levitt, Sr., to support lectures and other activities coordinated through the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center.

The Helen B. Longshore Memorial Endowment was established by Helen B. Longshore, a friend of the College, to support the College's music programs and activities.

The John Ripley Myers Lecture Fund was established in 1912 by Mary H. Myers in memory of her son, John Ripley Myers, Class of 1887, to support annual lectures in areas not covered by the curriculum.

The James S. Plant Distinguished Scientist Lecture Series was established in 1987 through a bequest from Dr. Plant, Class of 1912 and an eminent child psychiatrist, to bring to the campus outstanding scientists as guest lecturers.

The James T. and Laura C. Rhind Fund was established to bring to the campus fine arts performances or exhibitions with merit, with preference for the field of music.

The William Roehrick Emerson Gallery Lecture Fund was established in 1988 in honor of William G. Roehrick, Class of 1934, to support annual lectures by distinguished scholars in the fine arts.

The Root-Jessup Lecture Series, sponsored by the Root-Jessup Public Affairs Council, brings public figures to the campus to speak on issues of current nationwide interest.

The Sacerdote Family Lecture and Performance Fund was established by Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Sacerdote, along with their son Alexander Sacerdote, Class of 1994, to support one or more Great Names at Hamilton programs each year. Annual lectures or performances will be given by individuals of national or international renown in any field.

The Reverend Alexander Thompson Memorial Lecture Fund was established through a bequest from Luranah H. Thompson in memory of her husband, the Reverend Alexander Thompson, Class of 1906, to support an annual lecture.

The Winton Tolles Lecture Series was established in 1991 by members of the Class of 1951 in memory of Winton Tolles, Class of 1928 and dean of the College from 1947 to 1972. It brings to the campus distinguished writers in the fields of literature, journalism and theatre to lecture and meet with students.

The Chauncey S. Truax Memorial Fund was established in 1956 by R. Hawley Truax, Class of 1909, in memory of his father, Chauncey S. Truax, Class of 1875, to bring to the College distinguished guest lecturers and visiting scholars in the field of philosophy.

The Arthur Coleman Tuggle Lecture Fund was established by Clyde C. Tuggle, Class of 1984, in memory of his father. Speakers are brought to Hamilton under this program to address current ethical issues.

The Winslow Lecture Fund was established through a bequest from William Copley Winslow, Class of 1862, to support lectures on classical archaeology.

The Frank H. Wood Memorial Lecture Fund was established by alumni and friends in memory of Frank Hoyt Wood for many years a professor of political science at Hamilton, to support lectures in history, political science or matters of current general interest.

Athletic Programs and Facilities

Athletic Facilities

The College has greatly expanded and improved its athletic facilities in recent years. The Alumni Gymnasium, containing a basketball court, four squash courts and a weight room, was renovated in 1978. A spacious lobby connects the gymnasium with the Russell Sage Hockey Rink, the nation's oldest college indoor hockey facility newly renovated in 1993, and with the Margaret Bundy Scott Field House to form the Athletic Center.

The Scott Field House, a 55,000-square-foot multipurpose athletic structure built in 1978, contains three regulation-size basketball courts and can seat 2,000 spectators. It also houses a six-lane, 200-meter urethane running track and indoor courts for tennis, handball, racquetball, squash and volleyball. The playing surface can accommodate practices for outdoor varsity sports during inclement weather. Connected with the Athletic Center is the William M. Bristol, Jr. Swimming Pool, completed in the fall of 1988. An eight-lane "stretch" pool with a movable bulkhead permitting division into a diving area and a swimming area, it provides Hamilton with the most modern of aquatic facilities that fully meet intercollegiate standards for competition.

In 1993, the Ade Fitness Center became the most recent addition to the athletic facilities. The state-of-the-art workout room contains a variety of exercise equipment, including stair machines, rowing machines, bicycles, treadmills, Nordic Tracks and Cybex machines. The fitness center provides high-quality exercise facilities to all members of the Hamilton community.

Adjacent to the Athletic Center are playing fields for football, softball and baseball, and nine all-weather tennis courts. Nearby are a nine-hole golf course covering 65 acres of the campus, two platform tennis courts and the Whitney T. Ferguson III Intramural Fields. The William D. Love Field, which also comprises the 400-meter Walter H. Pritchard Track, is used throughout the year for a variety of sports, including lacrosse and field hockey, as well as track and field.

Athletic Policy

The primary emphasis of the athletic program at Hamilton College is upon the educational value of athletics rather than upon athletics as a public entertainment or as a source of financial income. The College, through its Physical Education Department, provides a fourfold program in athletics: recreational play, instruction in physical education, intramural competition and intercollegiate programs. Hamilton thereby continues its long tradition of encouraging not only the acquisition of knowledge but also the enjoyment of physical activity and the attainment of skills that will provide life-long satisfaction.

Physical Education (See "Courses of Instruction.")

Intramural Activities

The intramural program offers opportunities for participation in a wide variety of sports conducted under the supervision of the Intramural Council and a departmental advisor. The program is especially designed to encourage participation by students who enjoy competition but whose skills or interests are not of intercollegiate calibre.

Intercollegiate Athletics

The College is committed to a representative intercollegiate program. It is also committed to seeking fine student-athletes who value and respect the fundamental educational goals of the College.

The College sponsors men's varsity teams in baseball, basketball, crew, cross country, football, golf, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, squash, swimming, tennis and track (winter/spring); and women's varsity teams in basketball, crew, cross country, field hockey, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, softball, squash, swimming, tennis, track (winter/spring) and volleyball.

Hamilton is a member of the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC), the Upstate Collegiate Athletic Association (UCAA), the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), the New York State Women's Collegiate Athletic Association (NYSWCAA) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). The other members of NESCAC are Amherst, Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, Connecticut College, Middlebury, Trinity, Tufts, Wesleyan and Williams. The other members of the UCAA are Clarkson, Hobart/William Smith, Rensselaer, Rochester, Skidmore, St. Lawrence and Union. Conferences balance athletic involvement with high academic standards.

Club Sports

The Physical Education Department supports the following club programs: the Bicycle Co-op, dance, fencing, martial arts, men's and women's rugby, sailing, ski racing, ultimate frisbee, men's volleyball and water polo.

Courses of Instruction

For each course, the numbering indicates its general level and the term in which it is offered. Courses numbered in the 100s are introductory in material and/or approach. Courses numbered in the 200s and 300s are intermediate and advanced in approach respectively. Courses numbered in the 400s are most advanced.

To assure the maximum effectiveness in teaching, it is sometimes necessary to place limits on the enrollment in courses. Some courses have enrollment limits because of limited laboratory or studio space. Others have limits to enable instructors to incorporate additional papers and examinations, small group discussions or special projects. A writing-intensive course, for example, is normally limited to 20 students, and a seminar is normally limited to 12. Enrollment limits mean that a student might not always be able to take a course that he or she wishes to take.

Unless otherwise indicated, the following priorities will apply in the determination of entrance into courses limited in enrollment.

For 100-level courses, priority shall be given to first-year students, sophomores, juniors and then seniors. (Seniors must have the permission of the departmental chair in order to enroll in a 100-level course.)

For 200-level courses, priority shall be given to sophomores, first-year students, juniors and then seniors.

For 300- and 400-level courses that are not required for the student's concentration, priority shall be given to seniors, juniors, sophomores and then first-year students.

For 300- and 400-level courses that are required for the student's concentration, priority shall be given first to concentrators, and then non-concentrators of the more advanced class.

The term in which the course will be offered is indicated by the letter immediately following the course number: F for fall semester, and S for spring semester. FS designates a course offered in both fall and spring semesters. Su designates a course comprising a summer field trip.

Courses with bracketed numbers will not be offered during 1999-2000. In most cases, the description indicates the next date the course will be offered.

A single three-digit number preceding a course description indicates that the course may be elected for a single term. Most offerings are of this type. Two three-digit numbers separated by a hyphen indicate that normally the course will be elected for two terms. For such courses, a student may not enter the second term without having taken the first, unless otherwise indicated.

A course designated as open to a certain class (e.g., "Open to sophomores") is also open to all higher classes. A course with no statement concerning class eligibility is open to all students.

Unless otherwise stated, all courses meet for three 50-minute or two 75-minute class periods each week.

In the list of faculty members for each department, the letters (F,S) following a name indicate terms of leave or off-campus teaching.

Africana Studies

Faculty Program Committee

Michael E. Woods (Music)

The Africana Studies Program offers interdisciplinary study of the history, culture and politics of people of African descent. It focuses on four geographic areas: Africa, the Caribbean, Latin America and the United States. The program aims to develop students' critical and analytical skills and to promote scholarship within the Africana field of study.

A concentration in the Africana Studies Program consists of nine courses: Africana Studies 101, a 400-level seminar taken in the senior year, 550 and six approved electives in Africana Studies. No more than three electives may be chosen from either the social and historical sciences or the arts and humanities. At least three must be above the 200-level. Concentrators are encouraged to have a basic working knowledge of an appropriate language other than English. The program will accept study abroad and/or coursework in overseas programs toward the concentration with the approval of the program director. Before electing a concentration in the Africana Studies Program, students must meet with the director to design a program of study, planning in advance so that they will be able to complete prerequisites for courses counting toward the concentration. Students must submit a concentration proposal to the Africana Studies Program Committee (which consists of the director and at least one other faculty member), explaining the relations between the areas to be studied. Concentrators in Africana Studies are strongly advised to select a minor in a single discipline.

The Senior Program in Africana Studies (550) is an interdisciplinary project culminating in a thesis, performance or exhibition. The project, which must be approved by the committee, is to be supervised by two faculty members, one of whom must be a member of the Africana Studies Program. Students who have an average of 88 or higher in the concentration may receive honors through distinguished work in 550. A complete description of the Senior Program is available from the program director.

A minor in Africana Studies must include 101 and four electives in Africana Studies displaying a balance between the social and historical sciences and the arts and humanities, and two of which must be above the 200-level.

101F,S Introduction to Africana Studies. Examination of the nature, methods and development of Africana/Black Studies. An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of African and diaspora cultures and history. Survey of pre-colonial African societies from pharaonic Egypt to the Mandinka expansions of Samori Toure. Critical discussion of indigenous factors affecting cultural development and the dynamics of outside influences, such as the Atlantic Slave Trade, the spread of Islam and Christianity, and decolonization, on the continent and in diaspora. Maximum enrollment, 40. The Program.

103F Principles of Geology: The Geology and Development of Modern Africa. For full description, see Geology 103.

111F Contemporary Moral Issues. For full description, see Philosophy 111.

160S History of Jazz. For full description, see Music 160.

203F African-American History to 1865. For full description, see History 203.

204S African-American History from 1865 to the Present. For full description, see History 204.

218F Politics of Africa. For full description, see Government 218.

222S Race, Gender and Culture. For full description, see Philosophy 222.

[237S] Francophone Literature in Translation: The African Novel. For full description, see French 237.

[248F] African Dimensions in Latin America. Explores the varieties of the Black experience in colonial Latin America from the Columbian voyages to 1898. Major topics include the Atlantic slave trade, slavery and race relations, labor differentiation, slave resistance, sex versus gender, family life, military life, manumission patterns, African cultural diffusion, aggregate emancipation processes and comparative determinants of social integration. Prerequisite, 101 or History 102. (Same as History 248.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

[253S] Cultures of the Francophone World. For full description, see French 253.

255F Introduction to African-American Literature. For full description, see English 255.

[260F] Survey of Caribbean and Latin American Literature in Translation. A survey of twentieth-century works written by people of African descent in the French, Dutch, Spanish and/or Portuguese languages in the Caribbean and Latin America. Focuses on the relationship between history and literary production. Prerequisite, 101 or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 40.

278F South Africa, 1652-1998. For full description, see History 278.

[280F] Francophone Cultures. For full description, see French 280.

[315F] Comparative Slave Narratives. Drawing from a number of sources, a comparative study of late eighteenth- and nineteenth-century slave narratives from the United States, Cuba, West Africa and Brazil. Using interdisciplinary methods of criticism and social and political theory, emphasizes how these works reveal the contents of slave life and the society that created it. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 101 or History 102. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

American Studies

Faculty Program Committee

Maurice Isserman, Chair (History)

Catherine G. Kodat (English)

The American Studies Program offers students an opportunity to study American civilization from a variety of perspectives and through the methodologies of different intellectual disciplines. Specialized studies in all fields of learning dealing with the United States are included in the program, and the impact of these studies is reflected in the work of the American Studies introductory course (201), the American Studies Seminar (380) and the Senior Project (550).

Students work closely with faculty members in developing an individualized plan of study that brings at least two disciplinary perspectives to bear on a major topic in American culture.

The concentration consists of 11 courses comprising a program approved by the American Studies Committee. It includes 201, taken in the sophomore or junior year, followed by 380, which concentrators may take during their junior or senior year. All concentrators must also complete 550, the Senior Project, an interdisciplinary exploration of a major theme in American civilization.

Students who have earned a B+ (88) average in the concentration may receive honors in American Studies through distinguished work on the Senior Project.

201S Introduction to American Studies. An interdisciplinary approach to the study of civilization in the United States. Emphasis on recurring historical themes in our national culture such as the frontier, domesticity, the self-made man, immigration and war. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 100-level history course, or English 150 or the former 200. (Same as History 201.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Isserman.

380F Seminar in American Studies. Topic for 1999-2000: Education, Immigration and the American Dream. Emphasis on the effects immigration and public education have worked on U.S. society, and on past and current efforts to monitor and regulate those effects. Readings in history, literature and sociology; attention to film and American popular music as well. Prerequisite, 201 or consent of instructor. (Same as History 380.) Maximum enrollment, 12. Kodat.

550S Senior Project Seminar. A course limited to senior concentrators, in which students will complete an original interdisciplinary thesis in American Studies under the supervision of the instructor. Isserman.

The American Studies courses assume a general familiarity with American history and literature. Concentrators are expected to take at least three courses in literature and two in history. The American Studies Committee strongly urges concentrators to choose options from the courses listed below. For complete information about each, including prerequisites, enrollment limits and when a course is offered, consult the full descriptions under the appropriate departments and programs.

Charlotte Beck
George T. Jones

Douglas A. Raybeck
Henry J. Rutz

The department offers two tracks within the concentration of Anthropology: Cultural Anthropology and Archaeology. A student must choose one of these two tracks.

Cultural Anthropology

A track in Cultural Anthropology consists of a minimum of ten courses: 106 or 107, 113 or 114, 125 or 201, 358 and 440, and five other courses, one of which must focus on a culture area. Prospective concentrators are encouraged to take 358 as early as possible because it must be completed by the end of the junior year. All concentrators, especially those planning graduate studies, are advised to take a course in statistics.

Concentrators must fulfill their senior project requirement through satisfactory completion of the Senior Seminar (440), which emphasizes the critical evaluation of scholarship as well as primary data culminating in a research paper.

Concentrators with a departmental average of 88 or higher at the close of their senior fall semester and a B+ or better in the Senior Seminar may pursue honors through 560, an individual project under the direct supervision of a member of the department. To receive honors, a grade of A- or higher must be earned on the resulting thesis.

Archaeology

A track in Archaeology consists of a minimum of ten courses: 106 or 107, 113 or 114, 325, 358 and 441, and five other courses, one of which must be 234, 243 or 245. Additionally, students are strongly encouraged to take the field course (280), as well as a statistics course and courses in geology, biology or chemistry. Prospective concentrators are encouraged to take 325 and 358 as early as possible because both must be completed by the end of the junior year.

Concentrators must fulfill their senior project requirements through satisfactory completion of the Senior Seminar (441), which emphasizes the critical evaluation of scholarship as well as primary data culminating in a research paper.

Concentrators with a departmental average of 88 or higher at the close of their senior fall semester and a B+ or better in the Senior Seminar may pursue honors through 560, an individual project under the direct supervision of a member of the department. To receive honors, a grade of A- or higher must be earned on the resulting thesis.

Minor in Anthropology

A minor in Anthropology consists of five courses, one of which must be at the 100 level and one of which must be at the 300 level. A student may elect to take one each from 106 or 107 and 113 or 114 as two of their five courses.

106F Principles of Archaeology. An introduction to the fundamentals of archaeology, with emphasis on evolutionary principles. Topics include a review of archaeological field methods such as sampling, survey and excavation, and analytic methods such as dating, typology and formation processes. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Not open to seniors or to students who have taken either Archaeology 107 or Geology 107. Maximum enrollment, 24. Beck.

107S Principles of Geology: Humans and the Ice Age Earth. For full description, see Geology 107.

114S Fieldwork and Ethnography. Cultural dynamics on global, national and local scales. Topics include the fieldwork tradition and ethnography (cultural encounters and problems of cultural translation), basic cultural practices (classifications, symbols and functions), cultural systems (kinship, ethnicity, class, caste, race and gender) and cultural dynamics (problems in the political economy of culture, including apartheid, genocide and hegemony). (Writing-intensive.) Not open to students who have taken 113. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Rutz.

125S Language and Culture. The relationship of language to social structure and cultural life. Topics include basic linguistic principles (the structure of sounds, words and grammar), analyses of language and meaning, the ethnography of communication and linguistic aspects of social inequality. Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 40. Urciuoli.

201F Linguistic Theory: A Brief History. A general examination of the nature of language. Topics include the nature of sound, grammar, semantics and syntax; history of ideas about language; philosophical and cognitive aspects of language; structural and generative approaches to the analysis of language. Maximum enrollment, 40. Urciuoli.

The Art Department offers concentrations in both the History of Art and Studio Art. Because 100-level courses are introductory, students should elect to take such courses by the end of the sophomore year. Students considering a concentration in Studio Art should speak with the chair or a member of the studio faculty as soon as possible in their first year.

History of Art

A concentration in the History of Art consists of 104 (Introduction to Drawing) and nine additional courses including either 248,254 or 258; 282;285; either 292 or 293; one 300-level course;three electives (one of which may be a second Studio Art course); and a seminar taken during either semester of the senior year.The Senior Project in the History of Art includes an extensive research paper prepared in connection with the senior-year seminar and its oral presentation before the department.A complete description of the Senior Project is available in List 111.

Honors in the History of Art will be awarded on the basis of a cumulative average of 88 or above in coursework toward the concentration and distinguished achievement on the Senior Project.Students planning to apply for graduate studies in the History of Art are advised to acquire or consolidate a fluency in at least one modern foreign and one ancient language.

A minor in the History of Art consists of 104 and four additional courses in the History of Art,including at least one pre-modern or Asian course.

Studio Art

A concentration in Studio Art consists of 104; two courses in the History of Art, one of which must be pre-1900 or non-European; and seven additional Studio Art courses including one in each of the following areas:

- 1) Painting and Printmaking
- 2) Ceramics and Sculpture
- 3) Photography and Video and a minimum of one 300-level (workshop) course, and the two-semester Senior Project (501-502).Students should complete a 300-level course in the same area as their Senior Project before the end of the junior year.

Honors in Studio Art will be awarded on the basis of a cumulative average of 88 or above in coursework toward the concentration and distinguished performance in the Senior Project.A complete description of the Senior Project is available in List 111.

Students interested in studying abroad should consult with a member of the department as soon as possible. Concentrators will need to consider the most appropriate means of integrating study abroad with preparation for their Senior Project.

A minor in Studio Art consists of 104,a choice of either 151,152 or 154,and three additional Studio Art courses.

Students interested in preparing for a professional school of architecture should consult with Professor Carter as early as possible.

History of Art

151S Architecture and the Environment. A critical and historical introduction to the study of human intervention in the environment, considering such issues as the alleviation of biological and psychological stress through architectural design, social purpose and formal significance. Individual buildings examined in relation to their urban and natural contexts. Maximum enrollment in each section, 40. Carter.

152F,S Art and Visual Culture. An introduction to the roles that art plays in shaping society from ancient times to the present. Studio Art

104F,S Introduction to Drawing. Study of the basic elements of drawing, including line, texture, mass and composition. Students work from the model during class time, do outside assignments and participate in group criticism. Maximum enrollment in each section, 25. The Department.

105F,S Design. Introduction to the visual language in two and three dimensions. A series of projects exploring basic formal and expressive elements, color, composition, space and time relationships, and structural stress. Maximum enrollment in each section, 25. Muirhead (Fall); Salzillo (Spring).

106S Introduction to Ceramics. Introduction to three-dimensional design concepts related to ceramics. Emphasis on a series of projects, followed by group criticism and technical aspects of ceramics. Maximum enrollment, 18. Palusky.

109F Introduction to Sculpture. Basic methods in dealing with problems of form, technique and concept. Explores sculptural possibilities of traditional and non-traditional materials and techniques. Group critiques. Maximum enrollment, 10. Reichlin.

160F Figure Drawing. Application of basic drawing principles to the representation of the human figure, with emphasis on anatomy and proportion. Examination of related topics such as the figure in the environment and portraiture. Maximum enrollment, 20. Salzillo.

203F,S Painting I. Introduction to the study of the methods and techniques of oil painting, with emphasis on still-life, figures and landscape. Maximum enrollment, 15. Salzillo (Fall); Muirhead (Spring).

208S Pottery. Concentration on the technical and aesthetic concerns of functional and sculptural aspects of pottery. Emphasis on porcelain and stoneware, use of the potter's wheel and high-fired glaze technology. Maximum enrollment, 8. Palusky.

213S Introduction to Video. Fundamentals of camera work and editing for videography. Introduction to critical, theoretical and historical contexts of the medium. Emphasis on traditional and non-traditional uses for and assumptions about video. Group critiques. Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 12. Gant.

219F Experimental Sculpture. A thematic, advanced sculpture class focusing on altering found objects and spaces, incorporating a variety of materials, techniques and issues. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Maximum enrollment, 10. Reichlin.

233F Basics of Printmaking. Introduction to the basic principles and techniques of printmaking as traditionally employed in intaglio and stone lithography. Includes brief discussions of the history of printmaking, printing editions, matting, paper conservation and safety. Maximum enrollment, 12. Muirhead.

235S Intaglio Printmaking. Study in the process of intaglio printmaking, including etching, engraving, dry point, and hard and soft ground techniques. Students expected to participate in group criticism. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 104. Maximum enrollment, 12. Muirhead.

302F Photography Workshop. Continued investigation and development of black and white technical processes combined with introduction to basics of Adobe Photoshop. Study and exploration of personal vision through photographic means and the use of this vision to pursue broader-based aesthetic, social, cultural and political context for photography. Group critiques. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 113 or 114. Maximum enrollment, 12. Gant.

304S Advanced Painting. Further exploration of concepts and techniques presented in Painting I with emphasis on landscape and interiors as subject matter. Reinforcement of oil painting skills and introduction to egg tempera and acrylic. Prerequisite, 203. Maximum enrollment, 12. Salzillo.

308S Sculpture Workshop. Advanced study of traditional and non-traditional sculpture materials and techniques. Emphasis on sculpture as a vehicle for communication and significance. Journals, research, field trips, lectures and group critiques. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 109 or 219. Maximum enrollment, 10. Reichlin.

311S Ceramics Workshop. Emphasis on personal concepts employing sophisticated building and coloring techniques. May be repeated for credit at increasingly advanced levels. Prerequisite, 106. Maximum enrollment, 18. Palusky.

[315S] Drawing/Painting Workshop. Advanced problems in drawing and painting. Concepts and material studies related to trompe l'oeil, photographic, nonrepresentational, collage and serial formats. Emphasis on creative interpretation. Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

[377] Electronic Arts Workshop. Emphasis on collaborative work among computer musicians, digital photographers and videographers in the creation of electronic 'zines on CD-ROM and the web. Other projects will include multi-media installations or performance art pieces. Prerequisite, Art 302 with consent of instructor, Art 313, or Music 157 with consent of instructor or 257 or 277. (Same as Music 377.) (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

501-502 Senior Project. A required two-term course during which the Studio Art concentrator will prepare an exhibition of his or her work. The Department.

Asian Studies

Faculty

Jay G. Williams, Program Chair (Religious Studies)

The Asian Studies Program offers a concentration in East Asian Studies (China and Japan) and a minor in South Asian Studies.

East Asian Studies

East Asian Studies is a multidisciplinary approach to the study of Chinese and/or Japanese culture, language and society that requires a command of Chinese or Japanese language through at least the intermediate level, as well as the study of East Asia within the framework of at least one other discipline listed below. Prospective concentrators must have completed at least one year of coursework in Chinese or Japanese or at least two courses from the list below prior to declaration of the East Asian Studies concentration.

A concentration in East Asian Studies consists of eight courses:

- 1) An introductory course (Art 154, Chinese 150 or History 105);
- 2) Four courses listed under either “Cultural Traditions” or “Politics and Society”, at least one of which is at the 300-level, in at least two different departments;
- 3) Two other elective courses;
- 4) A senior project (550)

Appropriate courses taken in overseas programs, with the permission of the program chair, may be counted toward the concentration. Prior to leaving for language study abroad, East Asian Studies concentrators must meet with the program chair or advisor to design a program of study with a clearly defined disciplinary focus. Honors in East Asian Studies will be awarded to concentrators with an 88 average in the concentration and who complete 550 or 551 with a grade of A- or better. A minor in East Asian Studies consists of five courses as approved by the program chair.

550F,S Senior Project. A research project culminating in a paper, designed by the student in consultation with at least two members of the Asian Studies Committee representing different disciplines. Students are expected to develop a theoretical or methodological sophistication in one discipline as the foundation for their senior project by completing upper-level (300 or above) coursework in the discipline. The Program.

551F,S Senior Project. A research project using sources in Chinese culminating in a paper designed by the student in consultation with at least two members of the East Asian Languages and Literature department. Students are expected to develop analytical and linguistic skills in Chinese language study in upper-level coursework and/or in language study abroad. The Program.

The Departments of Biology and Chemistry offer an interdisciplinary concentration in Biochemistry/Molecular Biology. The concentration consists of 12 courses (11.5 credits), which must include 270, 321 or 322, 346; Biology 110, 210 and 225 (or 110, 111 and 348); Chemistry 120 or 125, 190 and 255 (or 233 and 234); and one additional course chosen from among 321, 322, 436, Biology 331, 336 and 348. Certain courses in Mathematics and Physics are prerequisites for 333. Senior concentrators must take 550 and 551 to satisfy the Senior Thesis requirement. A complete description of the Senior Project is available from the departments. Honors in Biochemistry/Molecular Biology will be based on excellence in coursework and on the Senior Thesis.

270S Biological Chemistry. For full description, see Chemistry 270.

321F Physical Chemistry I. For full description, see Chemistry 321.

322S Physical Chemistry II. For full description, see Chemistry 322.

346F Biochemistry. For full description, see Biology 346.

[436S] Biophysical Chemistry. For full description, see Chemistry 436.

550F,S Senior Thesis I. A research project carried out in association with a faculty member. One course credit. Must be approved by April of the junior year. The Departments.

551F,S Senior Thesis II. A research project carried out in association with a faculty member. Includes written and oral presentations. One-half course credit. Prerequisite, 550. The Departments.

559F,S Senior Research Tutorial. Specialized study of topics in biochemical research. One-half course credit. Prerequisite, 550 and consent of instructor. The Departments.

A concentration in Biology consists of 9.5 credits, which must include 110, 111 (or 210 and 225), 550, 551 and at least two additional courses at the 300 level or above. A complete description of the Senior Thesis (550-551) is available from the department. In addition, concentrators must complete Chemistry 120 and 190. A course of study taken at a field station and approved beforehand may be substituted as one course in the concentration or in the minor. Students preparing for graduate studies in biology should take at least one year each of calculus, organic chemistry and physics, and should have knowledge of a foreign language and computing. Departmental honors are determined on the basis of distinguished achievement in coursework and in the Senior Thesis. A minor in Biology consists of five courses, which must include 110, 111 (or 210 and 225) and at least one course at the 300 level or higher.

110F Principles of Biology: Organismal. The diversity of living organisms, the structure and function of plants and animals, the ecology of populations and communities and the process of evolution. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Gapp, Moore and Williams.

111S Principles of Biology: Cellular and Molecular. The cellular and molecular basis of biological organization and the mechanisms of inheritance. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Festin, Garrett and Lemons.

150S Society and Environment. For full description, see Environmental Studies 150. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor.

[221S] Microbiology. Introduction to viruses and prions and to the microbial world of bacteria and protoctists with emphasis on prokaryotic metabolism and ecology. Basic techniques, including isolation, cultivation and identification of microbes. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory.

222S Vertebrate Organization. Analysis of gross and micro-organization of vertebrate functional morphology considered with comparative and historical perspectives. Laboratory emphasis on musculoskeletal and mammalian organization. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 110. Miller.

228F Invertebrate Biology. A phylogenetic approach to multicellular animal diversity, including marine organisms, parasites and insects. Emphasis on functional morphology, ecology and evolution. Three hours of class, three hours of laboratory and additional field work. Prerequisite, 110 or consent of instructor. Reynolds.

290F Paleontology. For full description, see Geology 290.

330F Principles of Neuroscience. For full description, see Psychology 330.

336F Cell Biology. A study of the structure and function of the major cellular organelles. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 111 or 225. Lemons.

349F Transmission Electron Microscopy. The preparation of electron micrographs in the study of the cellular level of biological organization. Prerequisite, four laboratory courses in Biology. Maximum enrollment, 6. Bart.

441S Seminar in Evolutionary Biology. Study of natural selection, behavioral evolution, genetic variability, molecular evolution, speciation and macroevolution. Discussion of readings from the literature. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 111 or 225 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Williams.

550F,S Senior Thesis I. An intensive library and laboratory or field research project carried out in association with a faculty member. Prerequisite, acceptance by the department of a written proposal submitted in the spring of the junior year. The Department.

551F,S Senior Thesis II. Completion and presentation of the senior research project. Includes written and oral presentation. One-half credit. Prerequisite, 550. The Department.

A concentration in chemistry may follow several tracks, depending on the goals of the student. A concentration in chemistry requires the following courses: 120 or 125; 190, 255; one additional 200 level course; 321 or 322, 371; one additional course chosen from the 300 and 400 level offerings; and 551. The American Chemical Society (ACS) certified concentration is designed for students who plan to pursue graduate work in chemistry or a related science. Students should take the following courses to qualify for the ACS certification: 120 or 125; 190, 255; one additional 200 level course; 321, 322, 371; one additional course chosen from the 300 and 400 level offerings; and 551. Two semesters of calculus and two semesters of physics (calculus-based Physics 190 and 192 are preferred) are prerequisites for Chemistry 321 and 322. Students who plan to attend graduate school in chemistry or chemically related fields are advised to take additional courses in chemistry, mathematics and computer science. We invite all interested students to attend the departmental seminar series, which is a part of 551 and 552. Departmental honors are determined on the basis of distinguished coursework in chemistry and in the Senior Thesis. A minor in chemistry consists of five courses, which must include 190, 255 and 321 or 322. The minimum requirement in chemistry for preparation for medical school consists of 120 or 125; 190 and 255; and one additional course at the 200 level.

105S Miracles, Disasters and Everyday Chemistry. The ubiquitous influence of chemistry on our daily lives and on society. Introduction to chemical principles, with emphasis on the nature of scientific inquiry, the extraordinary chemistry of ordinary things and the impact of chemistry on legal, medical, environmental and public policy issues. For students who do not plan to concentrate in or minor in Chemistry. The Department.

120F Principles of Chemistry. Exploration of the central principles and theories of chemistry including stoichiometry, thermodynamics, equilibrium, reaction kinetics and molecular structure and bonding. Three hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory. Lecture offered in two sections with maximum enrollment, 40. Brewer and Elgren.

125F Principles of Chemistry: Theory and Applications. Intended for students with strong high school preparation. Accelerated exploration of the central principles and theories of chemistry including atomic theory, periodic relationships, chemical bonding, thermodynamics, kinetics, coordination chemistry and descriptive chemistry of metals and non-metals. Applications of chemistry to biochemistry and environmental chemistry. Interested students should contact the department to discuss placement in this course. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Maximum enrollment, 20. Shields.

255F Organic Chemistry II. Chemistry of aromatic compounds, alkenes and alkynes; reactions of carbonyl compounds, emphasizing mechanism and synthesis; introduction to carbohydrate and amino acid chemistry. Three hours of class and four hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 190. Rosenstein.

371S Research Methods in Chemistry. Development of laboratory skills in several areas of chemistry through a number of intensive laboratory projects, with an emphasis on using instrumental techniques. Exploration of synthesis, both inorganic and organic, including handling air- and water-sensitive materials, and introduction to the chemical literature. Application of kinetic and thermodynamic techniques. Six hours of laboratory and one hour of class. Prerequisite, 265 or 266. Maximum enrollment, 16. The Department.

393F Advanced Organic Chemistry I. Investigation of techniques of structure proof, with an emphasis on NMR methods and mass spectrometry; further work in organic synthesis, with examples taken from natural products chemistry. Prerequisite, 255. Kinnel.

551F-552S Senior Project. An intensive laboratory or library research project culminating in a thesis. Attendance at weekly departmental seminars is required. Candidates for honors should elect both 551 and 552. Prerequisite, 371. The Department.

Classics

Carl A. Rubino, Chair
Barbara K. Gold

Shelley P. Haley
Lisa B. Hughes

Classics is the study of the languages and civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome, as well as of related civilizations, both ancient and modern. The department offers courses in ancient Greek and Latin and also in Classical Studies, where no knowledge of Latin or Greek is required. Students wishing to concentrate or minor in Classics may take one of two directions.

A concentration in Classical Languages emphasizes work in Latin and Greek as keys to understanding the ancient world. It requires a minimum of four full-credit courses, at least two of which must be beyond the 200 level, in one of the two languages, and a minimum of three full-credit courses, at least one of which must be at or beyond the 200 level, in the other. (With the approval of the department, exemptions to these requirements may be made for students who come to Hamilton with substantial preparation in Latin or Greek.) Two courses in Classical Studies, in addition to Classical Studies 550, the Senior Program, are also required. Finally, students concentrating in Classical Languages must complete at least one course each year in Greek or Latin. Because the language concentration requires substantial accomplishment in both Greek and Latin, prospective concentrators entering the College with no knowledge of those languages should make an immediate start with the prerequisite 100- and 200-level courses.

A concentration in Classical Studies offers a study of ancient Greece and Rome with less emphasis on the languages. It requires a minimum of six courses in Classical Studies, at least four of which must be beyond the 100 level and one beyond the 200 level, as well as at least one full-credit course beyond the 200 level in either Latin or Greek, and Classical Studies 550, the Senior Program (with the approval of the department, certain courses in Greek or Latin may be substituted for Classical Studies courses). In addition, students concentrating in Classical Studies must complete at least one course each year in Classical Studies, Greek or Latin.

Hamilton College is a member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome (the Centro) and of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, and many Hamilton students have also attended the College Year in Athens. Concentrators and other students trained in Latin or Greek are encouraged to spend one or two semesters of their junior year in one of these programs in Greece or Rome or in another suitable program abroad. Interested students should note that admission to the Intercollegiate Center and the American School is competitive and that preparation in Latin or Greek is an important factor in determining admission. The department has funds to offer financial assistance to students who will travel during recesses and the summer. For further information, consult with the department.

Students who have earned a B+ (88) average in the concentration may receive honors by doing distinguished work in the Senior Program. A description of the program may be obtained from any member of the Classics faculty or by inquiring at the departmental office, Couper 104.

A minor in Classical Languages requires at least two courses beyond the 200 level in Latin or Greek, as well as two courses in Classical Studies, one of which must be beyond the 100 level. Because the language minor requires advanced work in either Latin or Greek, interested students entering the College without either of those languages should make an early start with the prerequisite 100- and 200-level courses.

A minor in Classical Studies requires a minimum of five Classical Studies courses three of which must be at or beyond the 200 level, with at least one at the 300 level.

Greek

110F Elementary Greek I. An introduction to the language and culture of Greece and the ancient Mediterranean. Thorough grounding in the grammar, syntax and vocabulary of ancient Greek. Reading and discussion of elementary passages from classical and New Testament Greek that cast light on ancient Mediterranean society and culture. For those with no previous knowledge of Greek. Three class meetings a week, in addition to a drill session. Rubino.

120S Elementary Greek II. Continuation of work done in Greek 110. Further study of grammar, syntax and vocabulary, accompanied by reading and discussion of passages from classical and New Testament Greek that cast light on ancient Mediterranean society and culture. College Courses College Courses are essentially interdisciplinary or substantially outside the continuing curriculum of any department or program. Instructors are normally regular members of the faculty. The courses are worth one course credit and count toward graduation requirements, although it should not be assumed that a particular course will be a part of the continuing college curriculum.

College 100F The Unity of Knowledge. For entering students with an abiding interest in the intellectual life, who will join faculty members in discussing material from the arts, the historical and social sciences, the humanities, and mathematics and the natural sciences, giving attention to the ways in which those “divisions of learning” might be connected. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Allen and Rubino, Humphries-Brooks, Krueger and J. O’Neill.

[College 110S] Language Diversity. The investigation of various cultural rhetorical styles. Readings in a variety of subject areas and cultures to deepen understanding of the written form in American and other cultures; to enhance the ability of expression in college-level writing such as essays, examinations and research papers; to provide exposure to various cultural styles. Students with diverse linguistic backgrounds or those seeking to attain diverse linguistic competencies are encouraged to enroll. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 10.

[College 120F] Hiroshima and After: The First 50 Years of the Atom Bomb. An interdisciplinary examination of the impact of nuclear weapons on American society, culture and politics. Topics include the physics of nuclear weaponry, scientific responsibility, ethical considerations regarding the development and use of the bomb, gender and the bomb, the apocalyptic imagination in popular culture and the rise of the national security state. Lectures, discussions, speakers and films. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Open to first-year students only.

College 130F Coming of Age in America: Narratives of Difference. An interdisciplinary analysis of what it means to come of age as an “American;” particular attention paid to factors of culture, race, class, gender and sexual orientation. Discussion based on the ways in which different fields – the arts, humanities, social sciences and sciences – define and present youth and Americanness. Topics to include: body, self, family, community, education and labor. Group attendance at lectures, films, campus events required. (Writing-intensive; discussion-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Adair, Haley, Kanipe, Kodat and Orvis.

College 205S The Information Age. Examination of “the information age”: from computers to biotechnology, mass media to the new global economy, informational democracy to intellectual property rights. Explorations of unprecedented ethical dilemmas facing individuals and society through examining the history, the technologies, and the theories of the information age with particular focus upon the social and environmental impacts and challenges confronting us in the 21st Century. Maximum enrollment, 40. Buchanan.

College 300S The Art of the Cinema. Classic foreign and American films from the silent days to the present for viewing and analysis. Discussion of historical, aesthetic and theoretical questions. Primary focus on how films communicate visually. Three hours of class and screenings of two films a week. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 40. P. O’Neill.

[College 322S] Cultural Simulation Seminar. Construction of a “working model” of a mission to establish a “settlement” in Near Space, recording the process, then producing finished documentation and a major summary paper for dissemination. Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12.

Communication Studies

Faculty Program Committee

Bonnie Urciuoli, Chair (Anthropology)

Susan Ross (F,S) (Rhetoric and Communication)

Richard F. Somer (S) (Rhetoric and Communication)

The interdisciplinary Communication Studies Program examines communication processes from several perspectives, including social structure, cultural and symbolic systems, linguistic principles and effective practices of communication. To this end, the concentration integrates coursework from Rhetoric and Communication, Anthropology and other disciplines.

A concentration in Communication Studies consists of eight courses and a Senior Project. The required courses are Anthropology 125 and Rhetoric and Communication 101, Anthropology 270, Rhetoric and Communication 201, and four other courses, two of which must be at the 300 or 400 level. Only one other 100-level course counts toward the concentration. Rhetoric and Communication 100 does not count toward the concentration or the minor. Students must complete the required 100-level courses before their senior year. Students must complete all required courses prior to the beginning of the Senior Project. The Senior Project consists of one semester of applied research, textual analysis or ethnographic work culminating in a thesis, a paper or presentation, or a production. Honors will be awarded on the basis of a 90 average in program courses and a superior Senior Project. A minor in Communication Studies consists of five courses, including Anthropology 125 or Rhetoric and Communication 101, and Rhetoric and Communication 201.

Students interested in Communication Studies should consult a member of the program committee listed above.

Courses for the concentration or the minor may be chosen from among the following. For complete information about each, including prerequisites, enrollment limits, and when a course is offered, consult the full descriptions under the appropriate departments and programs.

501F,S Senior Project. A project limited to senior concentrators in Communication Studies, resulting in a thesis, a paper or presentation, or a production. The Department.

A concentration in Comparative Literature consists of nine courses, including five designated as Comparative Literature, two in a national literature in the original language (e.g., Chinese, Russian, Greek), and two in either a second national literature in the original language or in linguistics selected in consultation with a departmental advisor. Students pursuing the linguistics option must complete study in a foreign language to the 140 level or equivalent. All concentrators are required to take 211 or 212, and 297, and all senior concentrators will take part in a Senior Program in which 500 (Senior Seminar) is required and 550 (Senior Project) is recommended. A complete description of the Senior Program is available in Root 107. Only one 100-level course may be counted toward the concentration. A student may count selected courses from other departments toward the concentration, subject to the restriction on 100-level courses. Please consult the departmental faculty. It is to the student's advantage to begin foreign language study early; those planning graduate work in literature are urged to take two additional courses in a national literature and to study two foreign languages.

Honors in Comparative Literature will be awarded on the basis of a cumulative record of 90 or above in all courses counting toward the major, as well as distinguished performance in 550.

A minor consists of five courses, including either 211, 212 or 297; two other courses designated as Comparative Literature; and two other courses in Comparative, English, or foreign literature, or linguistics. Only two 100-level courses may be counted toward the minor.

125S Manhood/Womanhood in Chinese Literature and Culture. A study of pre-twentieth century conceptions and images of manhood and womanhood in Chinese literature and culture which are still being reinvented in the popular imagination today. Readings include works by literati-gentlemen (Qu Yuan, Tao Yuanming, Su Dongpo), popular novels and historiography (Sima Qian: Outlaws of the Marsh, The Romance of the Three Kingdoms), representative works on or by women (Li Qingzhao, Li Ruzhen, the story of Mulan, etc.), romance plays and courtesan stories. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Qian.

[142S] Twentieth-Century Fiction. Organized chronologically for the most part, and involving such issues as sexuality, colonialism and racism. Readings drawn from high art, not popular culture, including such authors as James, Kafka, Puig, Woolf, Duras and Valenzuela. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

151F Dreams and Literature. Exploration of literary texts presented as dreams (e.g., Chaucer's Book of the Duchess) and of the representation of dreams within literary texts (e.g., Bao-Yu's dream in Dream of the Red Chamber or The Story of the Stone). Attention paid to the way meaning is constructed, or complicated, when reality, fiction and dream intersect, as well as to the cultural, legal, political, religious and social contexts in which dream and literary interpretation occur. Accompanying readings in dream theory from ancient times to the present. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Rupprecht.

[158] Music and Literature. Explorations of the interconnections between music and literature, including examination of hybrid works that cross the boundaries between the two arts (such as fiction about music and musical settings of literary texts) and study of the overlap between musical and literary structures. Emphasis on music of the Western classical tradition. Works include operas, symphonic poems, songs, literary works and criticism by such composers and writers as Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Strauss, Berg, Tolstoy, Wilde, Cain, Proust, Cather, Burgess, Clément and McClary. Maximum enrollment, 40.

162F Comic Fiction. Development of comic prose forms since the eighteenth century. Includes works from Swift and Voltaire to Vonnegut and Robbins, as well as examination of critical materials on humor and comedy. Serves as an introduction to the study of literature through a genre. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Vernon.

211F Introduction to World Literature I. Comparative study of selected texts in world literature from antiquity to the seventeenth century with special attention to the history of writing and reading and to issues of translation and cross-cultural transmission. Readings vary annually: likely texts and genres will be texts considered sacred (the Bible); verse narratives (Sumerian Inanna, Dante's "Inferno"); prose narratives (Afro-Arab Romance of Antar); lyric poetry (Sappho, Juan de la Cruz); essays; and dream texts (Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream), and Cao Xueqin's The Dream of the Red Chamber (The Story of the Stone). (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Rupprecht.

212S Introduction to World Literature II. Study of representative texts in world literature, beginning with the eighteenth century and including essays, poetry, novels and short fiction by such authors as Akutagawa, Borges, Camus, Chen, Dostoevsky, Flaubert, Habiby, Kafka, Kanai, Mann, Pirandello, Swift and Voltaire. (Writing-intensive.) May be taken without 211. Maximum enrollment, 20. The Department.

213S Introduction to U.S. Latino/a Literatures. For full description, see Spanish 213.

216S Modern Japanese Literature. Study of modern poetry and fiction with special attention to their relationship to the Japanese literary tradition. Readings include works by Soseki, Yosano, Kawabata, Tanizaki, Enchi, Ebuse, Mishima and Kaiko. Maximum enrollment, 40. Vernon.

218F The Word and the Spirit. For full description, see Religious Studies 218.

226S Revolution, Revelation and Revenge: Twentieth-Century Russian Art and Literature. For full description, see Russian Studies 226.

[244F] Whose Tragedy?: Staging Gender and Politics. A study of the relationship of gender and the world of politics as staged in tragic drama, focusing on the ways in which sexuality and violence dominate tragedy from ancient Greece to modern times. Works by Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Shakespeare, Racine, Ibsen, Pirandello and Anouilh. Close examination of modern reproductions of ancient works, with serious consideration of whether and why we should be interested in them. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

245S Theatre as Social Critique: Modern Drama and Performance. For full description, see Theatre 245.

[248S] A History of Avant-Garde Film. A historical and theoretical exploration of what has come to be known as “avant-garde film,” an international movement that, for nearly a century, has been exploring the wide variety of ways in which the apparatus of cinema can provide alternatives to, and critique, mainstream filmmaking. Presentation and exploration of major moments (the Twenties in Paris, the Sixties in New York) and crucial approaches (spiritual animation, psychodrama, structuralism, recycled cinema), using the works of (and presentations by) major contributors to avant-garde film history, including Luis Bunuel and Salvador Dali, Man Ray, Maya Deren, Stan Brakhage, Bruce Conner, Michael Snow, Yoko Ono, Hollis Frampton, George Kuchar, Taka Imura, Ken Jacobs, Sally Potter, Su Friedrich, Raphael Montanez Ortiz and Martin Arnold. Maximum enrollment, 40.

250S Heroism Ancient and Modern. For full description, see Classical Studies 250.

255F Introduction to African-American Literature. For full description, see English 255.

257S Eros and Massacre: Japanese Literature and Film. A study of the themes of love and death, and the love of death and the eroticization of violence, in Japanese literature and films. Films by such directors as Kurosawa and Itami and literature by writers from Chikamatsu to Mishima and beyond considered within the framework of recent film and culture criticism. Maximum enrollment, 40. Vernon.

[258S] Opera. Study of literary and musical dimensions of operas by major composers from Monteverdi and Mozart to the present. Emphasis on the transformation of independent texts into librettos and the effects of music as it reflects language and dramatic action. Includes such works as Orfeo, Don Giovanni, The Turn of the Screw and Candide. Prerequisite, two courses in literature, or two in Music, or one in each field, or consent of instructors. (Same as Music 258.) (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.)

259S The Literature of Exile. Examination of the refugee and the experience of exile as enduring subjects in world literature. Readings to include the Bible and the plays of Sophocles, as well as contemporary writings by Solzhenitsyn, Wiesel, Kundera, Gordimer, Alegria, Said and others. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Bass.

[271] European Literature: Nineteenth-Century Novel. An intensive questioning of the European novel in the nineteenth century, with particular attention to literary movements, social concerns and developing notions of class and gender. Readings from Austen, Stendhal, Sand, Flaubert, Eliot and Dostoevsky.

275F Twentieth-Century Chinese Literature and Film. Examination of the construction of being “Chinese” and being “modern” through a critical reading/viewing of 20th century Chinese literature and film. Exploration of the ways in which Chinese identities are mediated and contested against changing historical contingencies in the global context, with critical emphasis on the relationship between construction of modern Chinese self-consciousness and their resisting and engaging the West/Modernity. Qian.

297S Introduction to Literary Theory. Exploration of the kinds of questions that can be asked about literary texts in themselves, and in relation to the cultural and historical contexts in which they are written and read. Readings include drama, poetry, fiction and theoretical essays, with special attention to New Criticism, structuralism, audience-oriented criticism and various types of political criticism, including feminism. Prerequisite, two courses in literature. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Same as English 297.) The Department.

[303] The Fiction of the Future. An examination of social, literary and critical texts attempting to construct models of the future and to question the possibility and/or potentialities of such models. Readings include science fiction, postmodern and postapocalyptic works by such authors as Abe, Calvino, Grass and Le Guin. Emphasis on changing interpretive and constructional literary strategies that seek to refigure the human consciousness of the cosmos. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two courses in literature. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[338S] Heroes and Bandits in Chinese History and Fiction. For full description, see History 338.

A concentration in Computer Science consists of the required courses 140, 241, 242, 243, 343, 346, 348 and 447, Physics 180 or 230 and Mathematics 123. Concentrators fulfill the Senior Program requirement by taking 447. It should be taken in the fall, and all lower-numbered required courses, with at most one exception, should be completed prior to that time. Students may earn departmental honors through distinguished achievement in courses counting toward the concentration and in 500. A minor in Computer Science consists of 140, 241, 242, one course from among 343, 346 and 348, and Mathematics 123.

140F,S Introduction to Computer Science. An introduction to computer science providing a broad survey of the discipline while emphasizing the computer's role as a tool for describing, organizing and manipulating information. Serves as a terminal course for students who want a one-course introduction to the field, as well as a preliminary course to upper-level computer science offerings. Maximum enrollment in each section, 30. The Department.

[149S] Applications, Implications and Issues. A topics course intended for non-majors. Content, differing from year to year, typically chosen from current trends and events in the world of computing and technology. Depending upon topic, may include significant laboratory component. May be taken more than once with permission of instructor.

243F Data Structures. Advanced programming concepts and techniques, including non-linear data structures, systems programming, program testing and verification, and program design methodologies. Prerequisite, 242 or placement by the department. Decker.

249F Topics in Computer Science I. Study of an area in computer science. Content, differing from year to year, typically chosen from computer organization, neural networks and programming languages. May be taken more than once with consent of instructor. Prerequisite, consent of instructor. The Department.

343S Algorithms. Further study of abstract algorithms and their design, analysis and implementation. Includes design paradigms, time-space tradeoffs, mathematical techniques for analysis and complexity hierarchies. Prerequisite, 243. Decker.

348F Real Machines. Study of the organization, structure and implementation of computer hardware. Topics include logic circuitry, machine organization, CPU design, memory, external storage and operating systems. Prerequisite, 242 and Physics 180 or 230. Bailey.

447F Senior Seminar in Computer Science. Practicum in which teams of students provide computer expertise and support for faculty research projects. Topics include software engineering analysis, design, coding, testing, maintenance and documentation. Open to senior concentrators only. Hirshfield.

500S Honors Program. A project approved by the department and resulting in a paper and an oral presentation. Open to qualified senior concentrators. Prerequisite, permission of the department. The Department.

Critical Languages

Mary Beth Barth, Program Director

In the self-instructional Critical Languages Program, students meet three times a week in small groups with a native speaker (usually a Hamilton student) of the target language. The native speaker is not a “teacher” in the usual sense, and students, therefore, are expected to exercise the self-discipline required of independent work. Courses follow established curricula and are not self-paced. In addition to being highly motivated and self-directed, students must be willing to make a daily commitment to the rigorous study and practice of the language through the use of written, recorded and computer materials. Course grades are determined by mid-term and final evaluations, given by external examiners. Languages offered each year are determined by student interest, suitable materials, the availability of qualified native speakers and examiners, and curricular needs. In most cases, languages are offered for a two-year sequence.

The East Asian Languages and Literature Program offers courses in both the Chinese and Japanese languages, literatures and cultures, building from the introductory to the advanced level. The program focuses on language acquisition and proficiency, and introduces students to aspects of the contemporary culture of both countries, especially as they are expressed through language. The study of the Chinese or Japanese language also provides an important complement to the Chinese Program and the Asian Studies Program, and students are encouraged to strengthen their understanding of cross-cultural issues by integrating their language studies with courses offered within Asian Studies.

Students of Chinese and Japanese are strongly encouraged to participate in study abroad programs in China and Japan during their junior year.

Students of Chinese are eligible for the Associated Colleges in China program (ACC), a study abroad program administered by Hamilton College in conjunction with three other colleges. The program emphasizes studying Chinese language through individualized instruction with a high level of participation and interaction. The courses are taught entirely in Chinese and encompass topics including advanced language, Chinese politics, society, economics, religion, art, folklore and literature. Prerequisite: two semesters of Chinese and a course on history, culture or politics of China, and permission of the ACC director.

The program is open to sophomores, juniors and first-semester seniors. It is in principle a 6-month program (summer and fall); however, application may be made for either the summer or fall session.

Students of Japanese at Hamilton are eligible for Colgate's Japan Study Group, which goes to Kyoto, Japan, every spring term.

Students interested in beginning or continuing the study of Chinese or Japanese should consult with Professor Hong Gang Jin.

Chinese

A concentration in Chinese consists of nine courses numbered 140 or higher, including Chinese 150, 220, 300, a 400 level course taken in each semester of the senior year and a required senior project (550). Any history, civilization, literature or cultural courses offered by another department and concentrating on Asia may satisfy the 150 requirement.

110F First-Term Chinese. An introduction to spoken and written modern Chinese through conversational drills, comprehension, reading and writing practice in classwork and homework. Four hours of class, with additional tutorial and laboratory work. Chen and Jin.

120S Second-Term Chinese. Continued work in speaking, listening and reading. Emphasis on patterns that facilitate speaking and reading. Four hours of class, with additional tutorial and laboratory work. Prerequisite, 110. Chen and Jin.

130F Third-Term Chinese. Comprehensive review of grammar and development of language skills through communicative teaching. Four hours of class, with additional tutorial and laboratory work. Prerequisite, 120 or consent of instructor. Xu and Yang.

140S Fourth-Term Chinese. Continuation of third term Chinese. Development of spoken and written skills as well as familiarity with current Chinese culture. Class discussions in Chinese. Four hours of class, with additional laboratory work. Prerequisite, 130 or consent of instructor. Xu and Yang.

150S Introduction to Chinese Culture, Society and Language. A survey of both traditional and modern Chinese cultural values through the examination of geographical conditions, historical background, literary and artistic expressions, popular customs and language. Taught in English. Maximum enrollment, 40. Xu.

[202F] Chinese Films and Society. A study of modern Chinese society through examination of films from 1930 to the present. Major themes include the role of family and kinship, the status of intellectuals, the dynamics of the Chinese urban-rural relationship, issues concerning women and children, problems of daily life and other aspects of Chinese culture. Taught in English.

220S Advanced Chinese II. Continuation of Advanced Chinese I, with emphasis on helping students make the transition from textbook to an advanced level of competence for reading periodicals and journals in China. Discussion, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. Xu.

300F Contemporary China. A study of present day Chinese society dealing with issues of economic reform, single child generation, marriage, family and western influence. Discussion, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 220 or consent of instructor. Yang.

360S Readings in Modern Chinese Literature. Study and analysis of selected modern works from 1949 to the present within the sociopolitical and intellectual context. Discussion, written and oral work. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 220 or consent of instructor. Jin.

[400F] The Changing Face of China. Study and analysis through selected journals and magazines. Students will examine aspects of the changing face of China, including in depth coverage of population, housing and employment policies. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, any 300-level course in Chinese or consent of instructor.

[430F] Masterpieces of Chinese Literature. Reading and discussion of the masterpieces from Chinese literature: essays during the early Qin and Han dynasties, poetry and prose from the Tang and Song dynasties, the novels from the Ming and Qing dynasties. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, any 300-level course in Chinese or consent of instructor.

470F History of Chinese Language. Study and analysis of the development of Chinese language from Ancient Chinese (221 BC), Middle Chinese (601 AD), Early Mandarin (1324), to Modern Chinese (1919). Attention given to the evolution of sound, grammar, lexicon and character system over the 2,000 years. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, any 300-level course in Chinese or consent of instructor. Chen.

[490S] Advanced Readings in Classical Chinese Literature, History and Philosophy. Continuation of the study of classical Chinese literature, history and philosophy. Attention given to the in-depth analysis of selected texts from the Thirteen Classics and the Twenty-Four Histories. Taught in Chinese. Prerequisite, 445 or consent of instructor.

550 Senior Project. A research project using sources in Chinese culminating in a paper, designed by the student, in consultation with at least two members of the East Asian Languages and Literature program. Students are expected to develop analytical and linguistic skills in the Chinese language through culture study in upper level course work and/or language study abroad. The Program.

552S Honors Project. Independent study programs consisting of the separate preparation and oral defense of a paper, for students who qualify as candidates for program honors. Only students having an average of at least 88 in courses counting toward the foreign languages concentration at the end of the first semester of the senior year may qualify. The Program.

Japanese

110F-120S Elementary Japanese. Introduction to basic structures and vocabulary. Emphasis on oral communication, with practice in reading and writing, using the two syllabaries (hiragana and katakana) and about 100 Chinese characters. Credit given for completion of one term. Sato and Yasumoto.

130F-140S Intermediate Japanese. Completion of presentation of the basic structures of the language. Continued emphasis on oral communication, with practice in reading simple texts. An additional 500 characters will be introduced by the end of the term. Prerequisite, 120 or consent of instructor. Sato and Yasumoto.

200F-220S Advanced Japanese. Increasing emphasis on written Japanese, with acquisition of an additional 500 Chinese characters. In the second term of the sequence, guided practice given in reading unedited modern texts. Prerequisite, 202 or consent of the department. Sato and Yasumoto.

401F Readings in Japanese. Reading in literary and non-literary modern texts and mastery of the remaining Chinese characters on the joyo kanji list of 1,945 characters. Prerequisite, 302 or consent of the department. Sato and Yasumoto.

A concentration in Economics consists of 100,110, 265,275,285 and four elective courses. Concentrators must complete a Senior Project in one of the ways described below. The Senior Project may be used as one of the four elective courses. For concentrators in the class of 2000, the four elective courses must include at least one 400-level course; at least one course chosen from among 325,340, 365,370 and 375; and no more than one course chosen from either 251 or 330 (230). Beginning with the class of 2001, the four elective courses must include at least two 400-level courses; at least one course from among 325, 340,365, 370 and 375; and no more than one course chosen from either 251 or 330 (230). Concentrators must complete 265, 275 and 285 by the end of the junior year so that they may apply these analytical tools in a 400-level course. Exemption from this timing requirement is granted only in unusual cases. 265, 275 and 285 must be taken at Hamilton. Additionally, concentrators are strongly encouraged to take Math 113 or the equivalent. Students planning graduate work in economics should consult a member of the department for specific advice. They should take 400, selections from the other 400-level courses, 560 and obtain as strong a background in mathematics as possible. The sequence in calculus and linear algebra is required by virtually all good Ph.D. programs in economics; additional work in mathematics, such as courses in differential equations and real analysis, is strongly recommended. Students who plan to study for an MBA should complete at least one semester of calculus and should consult "Information for Prospective MBA students," a document which is available at the Career Center Web Site, for additional recommendations.

The Senior Project can be satisfied either by a Senior Thesis or by a project in a designated course. The Senior Thesis is a written report of a project containing original work. Students writing a thesis must enroll in 560 (Research Seminar). Projects in designated courses require a paper or a series of papers demonstrating a mastery of advanced methods, an understanding of the scholarly literature on a topic, or an understanding of the evolution of important issues in the discipline.

Departmental honors will be awarded to selected concentrators who demonstrate superior performance in Economics, as evaluated by members of the department. To be eligible for honors in Economics, a student must complete 400 and 560, have a grade point average of at least 88 for all courses taken in the department and write an outstanding Senior Thesis.

A minor in Economics consists of 100, 110, 275, 285 and one additional economics course. If the student's concentration is in Public Policy, Economics 110 and 275 cannot count in both the student's concentration and the minor. These courses will be used to satisfy concentration requirements, and they will be replaced by alternative courses in the minor requirements. These alternative courses will be chosen by the chair of the Economics Department in consultation with the director of the Public Policy Program.

100F,S Issues in Macroeconomics. Gross domestic product: its measurement and the determination of production and employment levels; the role of the government in the economy, particularly fiscal policy; the money supply, monetary policy and inflation;foreign exchange rates.Maximum enrollment,40. Jensen, Jones and Peters-Fransen (Fall);E. Balkan and Peters-Fransen (Spring).

110F,S Issues in Microeconomics. The price system as a mechanism for determining which goods will be produced and which inputs employed; profit-maximizing behavior of firms under differing competitive conditions;pricing of factors of production and income distribution;taxation,discriminatory pricing and government regulation;theory of comparative advantage applied to international trade. Prerequisite, 100.Maximum enrollment,40. Georges and Kayser (Fall); Bradfield and Hagstrom (Spring).

251S Introduction to Public Policy. For full description,see Public Policy 251.

285F,S Macroeconomic Theory. Theories of business cycles and economic growth.Theories of monetary policy, budget and trade balances,aggregate consumption and investment activity, unemployment,inflation,technological change and productivity growth.Prerequisite, 110.Not open to senior concentrators.Maximum enrollment, 40.Owen (Fall);Georges (Spring).

[315] Economics of Gender and Work. An examination of the economic behavior of women and men, with particular emphasis on how economic outcomes affect the relative economic status of women and policies designed to advance gender equality. Topics include the historical evolution of the economic roles of women and men;the gender division of labor within the family and allocation of time between the labor market and household; the interactions between rising female labor force participation and trends in marriage, fertility and divorce rates; and economic explanations of gender differences in earnings and occupations, including the role of discrimination in observed market outcomes.Prerequisite, 110. Maximum enrollment, 40.

330F Accounting. Study of how the financial transactions of a business firm are usually classified,analyzed, recorded and interpreted. Emphasis on the theory and function of accounting, with bookkeeping techniques introduced as a means to this end. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Wertimer.

331F International Trade Theory and Policy. Theoretical and empirical analysis of the pattern of international trade and international trade policies. Emphasis on theoretical models used by economists to study international trade issues. Topics include the determinants of the pattern of international trade, immigration, foreign direct investments, the gains from trade, tariffs, quotas, voluntary export restraints, dumping, subsidies, trade-related intellectual property rights, WTO, international trade negotiations, customs unions, free trade agreements, trade adjustment assistance and industrial policy. Prerequisite, 110. Maximum enrollment, 40. Pliskin.

346S Monetary Policy. A study of the goals, strategies and tactics of monetary policy. The interaction of the central bank with financial markets, the tools and the transmission mechanism of monetary policy, the money supply process, the structure of the Federal Reserve System and the international financial system. Emphasis on policy application. Prerequisite, 110. Maximum enrollment, 40. Owen.

[370S] European Economic History. A survey of some major developments in the evolution of the European economies. Topics include the transition from feudalism to capitalism, the Industrial Revolution, the economic integration of Europe and the relationship between technological change and economic development. Special attention is paid to the institutional arrangements conducive to, and the distributional consequences of, economic growth. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 110. Maximum enrollment, 20.

380S Environmental Economics. Examination of critical issues in environmental and natural resource policy from the perspective of economic theory. Consideration of such immediate issues as curtailing pollution, conserving endangered species and their habitats, and the proper management of natural resources. Broader topics also considered, such as the attainment of a sustainable economy and our responsibility toward future generations. Prerequisite, 110. Maximum enrollment, 40. Kayser.

400F Introduction to Econometrics. An introduction to econometric methods that are frequently used in applied economic research. Emphasis on interpreting and critically evaluating empirical results and on establishing the statistical foundations of widely used econometric methods. Topics include the classical linear regression model, functional form, dummy explanatory variables, binary choice models, heteroskedastic and autocorrelated disturbance terms, stochastic regressors and an introduction to simultaneous equation models. Three hours of class and 75 minutes of laboratory. Prerequisite, 265 or Mathematics 252. Pliskin.

[416] Mathematical Economics. Presentation of the more important applications of mathematics widely used by economists to analyze questions in both micro- and macroeconomics. Mathematical techniques include calculus, with one and several variables, Lagrangian multipliers and matrix algebra. Topics include constrained and unconstrained optimization, comparative statics, the Implicit Function Theorem, the Envelope Theorem, duality and game theory. Intended to enable students to read more easily a wider selection of the scholarly literature. Prerequisite, 275, 285 and Mathematics 114, or consent of instructor.

425F Theory of Financial Markets. Application of microeconomic theory to describe optimal portfolio construction and the equilibrium risk/return tradeoffs exhibited in security markets. Comparison of the capital asset pricing model, the arbitrage pricing model and various factor models on both theoretical and empirical grounds. Pricing of options and futures contracts. Analysis of real options approach to investment under uncertainty. Special topics may include corporate takeovers, insider trading, performance of mutual funds, use of options and futures contracts for hedging, relationship between capital structure and corporate governance, and topics chosen by students. Prerequisite, 110 and 265, or equivalent, or consent of instructor. May be used as basis for senior project. Bradfield.

432S International Finance. Survey of international financial markets in both theory and practice. Topics include optimal monetary and fiscal policy in an open economy and central banking; international financial markets for foreign exchange; Eurocurrencies and international bonds; the nature and operation of the principal international financial institutions; international debt issues and country risk. Prerequisite, 265, 275, 285. May be used as basis for senior project. Not open to students who have taken 332. E. Balkan.

[435F] Industrial Organization Theory and Applications. Theoretical and empirical analysis of firm conduct with emphasis on firms in oligopolistic industries. Examination of conduct primarily, but not entirely, from a game theory perspective. Exploration of business practices such as product differentiation and advertising, research and development, and price discrimination. Prerequisite, 265 and 275, or consent of instructor. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 40.

440F Public Economics. Analysis of the role of government in the economy from both the expenditure side and the income (tax) side. Topics include the theory of optimal taxation, the effects of difference tax schemes on firms, households and the government budget, the provision of public goods such as highways, public education, national defense or parks and the fundamentals of government budgetary policy. Prerequisite, 275. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 40. Hagstrom.

[455F] Globalization and the Productivity Slowdown. Intensive examination of contemporary events in the world economy. Topics include causes and consequences of economic crisis since 1973, the erosion of U.S. economic leadership, the shift from manufacturing to services in output and employment, the transition from mass production to niche production and the globalization of economic linkages.

Methods include case studies of countries and economic sectors. Prerequisite, 265, 285 or consent of the instructor. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 40.

491S Application of Labor Economics. An advanced treatment of selected theoretical and empirical questions concerning labor markets. Prerequisite, 275 or consent of instructor. May be used as basis for senior project. Maximum enrollment, 40. Jones.

560S Research Seminar. Each student works intensively on a topic chosen in consultation with the instructor. Weekly meetings held to hear progress reports and to discuss research techniques pertinent to student topics. Candidates for honors must complete this course. Prerequisite, 265, 275, 285 and 400, and permission of the department. Maximum enrollment, 12. Georges, Jones and Owen.

The Department of English offers two concentrations, one in literature written in English and one in Creative Writing.

Beginning with the class of 2001, concentrators must fulfill the language requirement described below.

English

A concentration in English consists of nine courses in literature written in English, including 150 and three courses from among the following genre courses—204, 205, 206—and the following single-author courses—222, 225, 228; at least one course must be from each group. Concentrators must take at least three courses above the 200-level, one of which must be writing-intensive and one of which must be a seminar taken in the spring of the senior year as part of the Senior Program (see below). The following courses do not count toward the concentration or minor in literature: 110, 210, 215, 304, 305, 410 and 419. With the permission of the department, students may use one upper-level course in a foreign literature in the original language as one of the required literature credits.

Students who have an 88 average or better in the concentration at the end of the fall of the senior year may elect to write an honors thesis in the spring. The department will recommend honors for concentrators who earn a cumulative average of 88 or better in the courses they take for the concentration and who receive an 88 or better on the honors thesis. Honors candidates are expected to complete coursework in each of the three genres: prose fiction, drama and poetry.

A minor in English consists of 150, one course from among 204, 205, 206, one course from among 222, 225, 228 and two electives, one of which must be at or above the 300-level. Students concentrating in Creative Writing may not minor in English.

A student considering certification in secondary education should complete 215 and either 210 or 410, in addition to the concentration requirements in literature. Students seeking advice about teacher education may consult with Margaret Thickstun or Susan Mason.

The Senior Program in English requires all concentrators to complete a 400-level seminar in the spring of their senior year. (The 300-level writing-intensive course must be completed before the senior seminar; 410 and 419 are not seminars in literature.)

Creative Writing

A concentration in Creative Writing consists of nine courses: five in literature written in English, including 150, 204, 205 and two electives, one of which must be a 300-level writing-intensive course; and four courses in Creative Writing (215, 304, 305 and 419). Students may choose to substitute 228 for 204. Students may take no more than one writing course a term; those who wish to concentrate must take 215 by the end of the sophomore year. The following courses do not count toward the concentration or minor in Creative Writing: 110, 210 and 410. Students who plan to concentrate in Creative Writing and who are also considering study abroad should discuss their plans with the chair of the department as early as possible, and no later than the fall semester of their sophomore year.

The department will recommend honors for concentrators who earn a cumulative average of 88 or better in the courses they take for the concentration (the cumulative average in 215, 304, 305 and 419 must also be an 88 or better) and who earn a grade of 88 or better on a senior honors project.

A minor in Creative Writing consists of 150, 215, either 204 and 304, or 205 and 305, and 419. Students concentrating in English may not minor in Creative Writing.

The Senior Program in Creative Writing consists of the Seminar in Creative Writing (419).

Language Requirement

Beginning with the class of 2001, concentrators in English and Creative Writing must fulfill a language requirement, following one of three options:

- 1) completion of college coursework in a language other than English through the fourth-semester level (or demonstration of equivalent competence on a placement exam accepted by Hamilton);
- 2) completion of college coursework in a language other than English through the third-semester level (or demonstration of equivalent competence on a placement exam accepted by Hamilton) and one linguistics course: Anthropology 125 (Language and Culture), Anthropology 201 (Linguistic Theory), or another linguistics course approved by the Department of English;
- 3) completion of both a course in Old English (in the original) and a course in the history of the language, taken at Hamilton or approved for transfer credit.

Courses in Expository Writing

Faculty

Todd N. Monsell, Acting Program Director

Alison Doughtie (F,S)

Students for whom Standard English is not a first or native language may be advised to elect Writing 101 in the first semester. It is a writing-intensive course especially designed to assist those students who are not native speakers of English in sharpening their writing skills for college-level work in all academic disciplines. Writing 101 is open to all students, in addition to those with advisor-recommended placement, who desire advanced instruction and ongoing practice in English language usage in an academic setting. A one-semester course in which grades are given, it provides regular academic credit toward graduation requirements and satisfies the College-wide requirement of one writing-intensive course during the first year. Student tutors with training in English as a Second Language will be available to assist students with work in all their courses, including Writing 101. The program may be used throughout the year for diagnostic assessment and tutoring.

101F College Writing. Readings and writing in a variety of subject areas and disciplines to deepen understanding of Standard written English; to enhance the ability of expression in college-level writings such as essays, examinations and research papers; to expand vocabulary and increase speed of comprehension and writing in Standard English. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 10. Monsell.

[110S] Language Diversity. The investigation of various cultural rhetorical styles. Readings in a variety of subject areas and cultures to deepen understanding of the written form in American and other cultures; to enhance the ability of expression in college-level writings such as essays, examinations and research papers; to provide exposure to various cultural styles. Students with diverse linguistic backgrounds or those seeking to attain diverse linguistic competencies are encouraged to enroll. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 10.

Environmental Studies concerns human interaction with the world in which we live. Courses in this interdisciplinary field are contributed by a number of departments and programs. The minor in Environmental Studies consists of five courses, including 150; three courses chosen from the environmental course list, at least one of which must be above the 100 level; and a fifth course chosen from either the environmental or the related-course list. A student may count at most two courses from a single department toward the minor. The four electives must include at least one course from within and one course from outside the natural sciences. Some of these courses have prerequisites that are not specified below.

150S Society and the Environment. An introduction to environmental studies. Emphasis on scientific understanding of the causes and implications of, and potential solutions for, problems that result from human abuse of the environment. Several current environmental problems examined within scientific, historical, sociological and economic contexts. (Same as Biology 150.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Williams.

For complete information about the courses below, consult the full descriptions under the appropriate departments and programs.

Foreign Languages

A concentration in Foreign Languages requires the completion of eight courses in at least two foreign languages, including at least two 200-level courses and one 300-level course in each.

Students may combine courses from Classics (Greek, Latin); East Asian Languages and Literature (Chinese, Japanese); German and Russian Languages and Literatures (German, Russian); and Romance Languages and Literature (French, Spanish). The combination may be departmental or interdepartmental. Students wishing to count other languages, such as Critical Languages, listed below, or work done at other institutions toward the concentration, must receive approval for such work from the director of the Critical Languages Program or the chair of the appropriate department. All concentrators in Foreign Languages will be required to pass language proficiency tests in two foreign languages. Additional requirements for an appropriate senior or honors program will be set by the chairs of the departments of concentration.

Besides a broad program of language study on campus, the College administers study abroad programs in France and Spain (for further information, see Romance Languages and Literature) and in China. In addition, Hamilton is a member of the American Collegiate Consortium Exchange Program for study in Russia and other republics of the former U.S.S.R., as well as of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome and the American School of Classical Studies in Athens (for further information, see "Academic Programs and Services").

Students are advised to begin, or continue, their study of a foreign language early in their college course. Instruction in the following languages is offered at Hamilton:

Arabic (see Critical Languages)

Chinese (see East Asian Languages and Literature)

French (see Romance Languages and Literature)

German (see German and Russian Languages and Literatures)

Greek (see Classics)

Italian (see Critical Languages)

Japanese (see East Asian Languages and Literature)

Latin (see Classics)

Russian (see German and Russian Languages and Literatures)

Spanish (see Romance Languages and Literature)

Swahili (see Critical Languages)

Swedish (see Critical Languages)

Geoarchaeology

Faculty Program Committee

Eugene W. Domack (Geology)

George T. Jones (Anthropology)

Geoarchaeology uses geologic methods and principles to enhance interpretations of the archaeological record. In particular, geology and archaeology share common interests in geochronology and stratigraphic succession, processes of deposition and diagenesis, paleoenvironmental reconstruction, and landscape evolution. The concentration is designed for students with shared interests in geology and archaeology. The concentration builds on the common histories and research domains of these fields, and represents a major specialty area that has experienced tremendous growth over the past decade or two. The Geoarchaeology concentration consists of 10 required courses taken from both existing curricula of the Anthropology and Geology departments. A large number of recommended courses from the supporting sciences are also listed, and a student may need to take an additional Archaeology course depending upon which introductory course he/she selects. The required course would include one of three introductory courses:

Introductory courses are: Geology/Archaeology 107, Archaeology 106 and Geology 103. Upper level courses include Archaeology 245 and 325; Archaeology 234 or 243; and Geology 211, 235, 290; and Geoarchaeology 360. The Senior Project in Geoarchaeology consists of 508 and 509. Students should also select one elective from the recommended courses below for a total of 10 course credits. Additional courses that are highly recommended include: Geology 220, 265; Archaeology 280; and supporting courses in some sciences (Math, Chemistry, Biology and Physics).

360S Quaternary Geochronology. Examines the development and application of dating techniques that are appropriate over the last 5 million years. Specifically, dendrochronology, ^{210}Pb , radiocarbon, ^{137}Cs -series, paleomagnetic, thermoluminescence and cosmogenic surface exposure dating. Examples will be drawn from both geologic contexts and those that apply to archaeological sites important to hominid evolution and climate change. Field trips. Prerequisite, 211. (Same as Geology 360.) E. Domack and T. Jones.

A concentration in Geology consists of 11.5 units of credit in courses including one course in Principles of Geology (103 to 112), 209, 211, 220, 230, 290, 310, 510-511 and one other course in Geology numbered 200 or higher. A two-semester series course in one of the supporting sciences is also required (Math 113 and 114, Biology 110 and 210, Physics 101 and 102, or Chemistry 120 and a second course numbered 190 or above.) The selection of supporting science courses should be undertaken in consultation with an advisor. A Senior Project is required (510-511) for the concentration and a complete description of the program is available in Science 104. All concentrators, especially those planning a career in the earth and environmental sciences, should take additional courses in biology, chemistry, computer science, mathematics and physics, according to the student's interests. Departmental honors will be awarded on the basis of excellence in coursework, a superior Senior Project and completion of two additional courses in the supporting sciences as listed above.

A minor consists of a course in Principles of Geology and four units of credit in other courses at the 200 level or above that are approved by the department.

Students interested in careers in Oceanography should consider concentrations in Chemistry or Mathematics with supporting courses in Geology including 112, 210, 211, 220, 320, 340 and 350, and Biology 213. Students interested in careers in Meteorology should consider concentrations in Physics or Mathematics with supporting courses in Geology including 112, 210, 240, 285, and Chemistry 227.

[101F] Principles of Geology: Earth Resources. An introduction to geology through the study of economic mineral deposits, their distribution, origin, economic significance, and the environmental impact of their exploitation. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

103F Principles of Geology: The Geology and Development of Modern Africa. An interdisciplinary study exploring how the geologic evolution of the continent has influenced the prehistorical, historical, political and economic development of Africa. Specific coverage of the Nile River system, climate change in the Sahara, the East African rift zone and resources in southern and western Africa. Required field trip to the Adirondack Region September 4 and 5. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. (Same as Africana Studies 103.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Tewksbury.

[105F] Principles of Geology: Global Environmental Change and Wilderness. An introduction to Earth systems with an emphasis on those processes of global change that are most easily detected over wilderness areas. Topics include recognition of the effects of global warming, ozone depletion and over-utilization of resources in areas such as Patagonia, Antarctica, Greenland, Australia, Alaska, Tibet and several oceanic islands. Also considers the role of wilderness in society. Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory with field trip. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

107S Principles of Geology: Humans and the Ice Age Earth. An introduction to archaeological and geologic studies as they are applied to climate changes and related human adaptations. Focuses on stratigraphic principles, environmental reconstructions, archaeologic field methods, chronologic methods and the impact of climate changes during the past 2.5 million years. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory/discussion. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. (Same as Anthropology 107.) (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 50. E. Domack and T. Jones.

110F Principles of Geology: Geology and the Environment. An introduction to the principles of geology as applied to current environmental issues such as solid waste disposal, consumption of conventional and alternate energy resources and utilization of our natural resources. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory or field trip. Not open to students who have taken any other course in Principles of Geology. Maximum enrollment, 50. Rayne.

220F Mineralogy. An introduction to crystallography, crystal chemistry and optical mineralogy. Identification of minerals by physical, optical and X-ray diffraction techniques. Six hours of class/laboratory, with field trip. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. Bailey.

225S Planetary Geology. The geology of the planetary bodies of our solar system, including the history and future of solar system exploration and the applications of planetary studies to understanding the geology of the Earth. Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory/discussion. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. (Offered in alternate years.) Tewksbury.

230S Structural Geology. A study of the origin, development, and study of macroscopic and microscopic structures in deformed rocks. Field, graphical, laboratory and computer techniques used in studying deformed rocks. Six hours of class/laboratory, with field trip. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology. Tewksbury.

[240F] Meteorology. A study of the atmospheric environment. Topics include the Earth's atmosphere, temperature, humidity, condensation, cloud development, precipitation, winds, air masses, storms and climate. Three hours of class. Prerequisite, Principles of Geology (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

310S Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology. A study of the mineralogy, chemistry, origin and evolution of igneous and metamorphic rocks. Emphasis on the physical and chemical processes involved in their formation. Six hours of class/laboratory, with field trip. Prerequisite, 220. Bailey.

360S Quaternary Geochronology. Examines the development and application of absolute dating techniques that are appropriate over the last 5 million years. Specifically, radiocarbon, K/Ar, fission track, paleomagnetic, thermoluminescence and cosmogenic surface exposure dating. Examples will be drawn from both geologic contexts and those that apply to archaeological sites important to hominid evolution and climate change. Field trips. Prerequisite, 211. One half course credit. (Same as Geoarchaeology 360.) (Offered in alternate years.) E. Domack.

375S Origins of Natural Systems. An overview of the origin and evolution of the universe, solar system, Earth and Earth systems. Particular emphasis will be placed on the application of geochemistry and isotope systematics to understanding the origin of matter, the formation and differentiation of the Earth, the development of plate tectonics, and the origin of the oceans, atmosphere and life (Writing-intensive.) Four hours of class and a field trip. Prerequisite, two 200-level courses in Geology, or consent of instructor. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Bailey.

510F-511S Senior Project. A two-term course during which concentrators pursue an independent project and present the results to the department. Proposals must be accepted in the spring semester of the student's junior year. 511 may not be taken as a separate course. One course credit for 510 and one-half credit for 511. The Department.

German and Russian Languages and Literatures

Franklin A. Sciacca, Acting Chair

[101F] The Rise and Fall of the European Empires: Culture and Society in Berlin, Moscow, St. Petersburg and Vienna at the Turn of the Century. Focus on the artistic renaissance of the great urban centers of Central and Eastern Europe at a time of social upheaval and political decline, 1890-1917. Particular attention paid to cross-cultural artistic interaction. The coursework incorporates use of English, German and Russian language World Wide Web sources. Conducted in English, but optional discussion groups in original language offered. Maximum enrollment, 40.

German

Joseph T. Malloy
Edith Toegel

Bettina Gasseling

A concentration in German consists of eight courses numbered 130 or higher, including 210, 220, a 400-level course taken in each semester of the senior year and successful completion of the Senior Project which is taught in connection with a 400-level seminar taken during the senior year. Appropriate study in German-speaking country may be counted toward the concentration. Students may earn departmental honors through distinguished achievements in the courses approved for the concentration and on the Project. A minor in German consists of five courses numbered 130 or higher, including 210 and 220. One course in translation may be counted toward the concentration or the minor and it may be offered by another department but requires the approval of the German department. Except for literature in translation, all courses are taught entirely in German.

110F First-Term German. Thorough introduction to the German language. Exercises in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing reinforced by cultural and literary texts as well as video recordings. Four hours of class with additional drill sessions and laboratory work. Toegel and Gasseling.

120S Second-Term German. Continued development of German grammar and its use in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. Readings in literature and culture supplemented with video recordings. Four hours of class with additional sessions and laboratory work. Toegel and Gasseling.

130F Third-Term German. Intensive review of grammar, syntax and conversational techniques through work in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. Literary texts supplemented with Realia (such as news stories and Lieder). Four hours of class and laboratory work. Malloy.

140S Introduction to German Literature and Culture. Continued development of German grammar and vocabulary with cultural and literary texts, including works by Kafka, Dürrenmatt and Brecht, and song texts by contemporary Liedermacher. Practice in oral and written work. Prerequisite, 130 or consent of instructor. Malloy.

200S The German Short Story and the "Novelle." Readings include shorter texts and novellas by major Austrian and German writers of the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Authors include Stifter, Storm, Droste-Hülshoff, Fontane, Schnitzler. There will be an advanced grammar component. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 140 or consent of instructor. Malloy.

210S Survey of German Literature I. Study of major writers and literary movements from the Middle Ages to the Age of Goethe. Includes works by Wolfram von Eschenbach,Sachs, Gryphius and Goethe. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, a 200-level German course or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment,20.Malloy.

220F Survey of German Literature II. Selected texts of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries introducing major writers and intellectual movements. Authors read include Tieck, Keller, Schnitzler, T. Mann, Seghers, Böll, Brecht and Wolf. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 140 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment,20. Toegel.

[410F] The German Romantic Age. Study of the origins and artistic expression of the Romantic movement in Germany from the late eighteenth century to its peak in the early nineteenth century. Focuses on experimentation with social and poetic conventions, attempts to integrate the arts, the artist as prophet and the notion of the journey as a means of self-discovery. Comparison of folk tales (Grimm) with artistic fairy tales as the seeds of surrealism. Prerequisite, 210, 220 or equivalent. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.)

[430F] Topics in German Literature: The Image of Women in Literature and Women's Literature: Literature by Women, Literature about Women. Investigation of the changing image and the roles women played in German society from the beginning of nineteenth century to the present through texts by both men and women. Questions discussed concentrate on the underlying social forces and cultural attitudes toward women. Some specific themes are: women's role in marriage and family life, her struggle for equal education and employment opportunities and her role in political life. Particular attention paid to the different (re)presentations of women by female and male authors. Texts by Goethe, Kleist, Brecht, Wolf, Seghers and Böll. Taught in German. Prerequisite, 210, 220.

[440S] Modern Literature of the German-Speaking Countries. Study of post-1945 literature focusing on the emergence of two contrasting Germanies: Berlin, the divided city, models of contemporary life at home and in the workplace; violence in society; and the Neuanchluss leading to unification. Texts by Bachmann, Böll, Braun, Grass, Kirsch, Wolf and others. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.)

German Literature Courses in Translation

[160S] From Monarchy to Modernism: Austria and its Literary Tradition. Examines the rich cultural and literary heritage of Austria, with emphasis on its specific national identity. Focuses on representative works of major Austrian writers spanning the period from the fall of the monarchy to the present, including fin de siècle Vienna, the Anschluss (annexation) and literature after 1945. Writers include Ebner-Eschenbach, Freud, Schnitzler, Hofmannsthal, Rilke, Bachmann and Bernhard.

No knowledge of German required.

[170F] Death and Dying: Views of Mortality in German Literature and Film. Interdisciplinary study of German film and literature with focus on the experience of death. Special attention to the process of transformation from literary text to cinematic vision. Novels include Remarque's All Quiet on the Western Front, Thomas Mann's Death in Venice, Klaus Mann's Mephisto and Böll's The Lost Honor of Katharina Blum. No knowledge of German required. Maximum enrollment, 40.

[185S] The Faust Legend. Study of the Faust legend and how it has been adapted over the centuries. Topics include the origins of Faust in the fifteenth century in its factual (Paracelsus and Johann Faust) and spiritual (alchemy and astronomy) dimensions; the Faustbook of 1587; Marlowe's adaptation of the Faust story (The Tragical History of Dr. Faustus); Goethe's masterful and confusing play (Faust: The First Part of the Tragedy); operas by Gounod (Faust) and Boito (Mefistofele); the film Mephisto by H. Mann/Szabó; and T. Mann's Doctor Faustus. No knowledge of German required.

Russian

John Bartle
Franklin A. Sciacca

The department offers a complete program of instruction in the Russian language. Beginning in the first-year course, particular attention is paid to the cultural context of the language. Emphasis is placed on the language of contemporary Russian media at the second-year level, followed by the opportunity to begin close readings of Russian literature in the original at the third-year level. Courses in Russian literature and culture in translation are offered in the Russian Studies program. Study in Russia on a semester or year program is strongly recommended for those interested in Russian Studies.

110F Russian for the Twenty-First Century: Elementary Russian I. An introduction to the speaking, reading and writing of contemporary Russian. Emphasis on colloquial expression and practice in the etiquette of common social situations. Bartle.

120S Russian for the Twenty-First Century: Elementary Russian II. Continued development of skills in spoken and written Russian. Class activities include the production of a Russian-language video. Prerequisite, 110 or equivalent. Sciacca.

210F Intermediate Russian I. Development of skills in language proficiency, grammatical accuracy and cultural understanding using realistic contexts. Prerequisite, 120 or equivalent. Sciacca.

220S Intermediate Russian II. Introduction to the language of popular culture, including contemporary film and music. Vocabulary organized to include such topics as current events, daily life and the changing business environment. Prerequisite, 210 or equivalent. Sciacca.

300F Readings in Russian Literature. Analysis and discussion of works by nineteenth- and twentieth-century Russian authors such as Gogol, Dostoevsky, Nabokov and Solzhenitsyn. Emphasis on conversation and composition. Conducted entirely in Russian. Prerequisite, 220. Sciacca.

[305F] The Russian Fairy Tale. Close reading and analysis of Russian fairy tales (skazki) and nineteenth-century literary adaptations by Pushkin, Gogol, Tolstoy and others. Conducted primarily in Russian, with some background reading and discussion in English. Prerequisite, 220. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.)

Prerequisite, 300-level course or consent of instructor. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.)

330S Russian Film and Television. Close study of the language of Russian visual media. Particular attention paid to style and content. Continued work on vocabulary and reading skills. Conducted entirely in Russian. Prerequisite, 300-level course or consent of instructor. Bartle.

The department offers concentrations in Government, World Politics and Public Policy as follows:

Government

A concentration in Government consists of ten courses: 116, 117, and either 112 or 114, with at least one of these being writing-intensive, and seven additional courses at the 200 level or above, with at least two courses in International Relations/Comparative Politics and two courses in American Politics. Government concentrators must take at least one course at the 300 level and complete the senior project (550). A minor in Government consists of five courses, with at least two of these at the 200 level or above.

World Politics

A concentration in World Politics consists of 12 courses. The core requirements are 112, 114 and 117, one of which must be writing-intensive, one course from 291 or 358, and the Senior Project (550) which is generally completed in the fall semester. To complete the concentration, students are also expected to study specific nations and regions in the international system by choosing one of the following six options:

International Relations. Government 386; three courses from 290, 339, 355 and 381; two other courses in Anthropology, Economics, Government, History or Sociology, chosen in consultation with the advisor and dealing with foreign areas and/or international relations. Government 386 should normally be completed by the end of the junior year.

Area Studies. Government 310, 311 or 363; one of five area specialties, as follows, each of which requires competence in an appropriate language, chosen in consultation with the advisor, as demonstrated by successful completion of four semesters of language instruction. The fourth-semester language course counts as one course toward the concentration. Government 310, 311 or 363 should normally be completed by the end of the junior year.

Africa: Four additional courses, including 218, chosen in consultation with the advisor;

Asia: Four additional courses, including 211, chosen in consultation with the advisor;

Latin America: Four additional courses, including 216, chosen in consultation with the advisor;

Russia and Eastern Europe: Four additional courses, including 213, chosen in consultation with the advisor;

Western Europe: Four additional courses, including 214 and 355, chosen in consultation with the advisor. Concentrators specializing in English-speaking European states will be expected to take 386 in place of a language.

Additional preparation in foreign languages and economics is recommended for students contemplating a career in international affairs.

Honors. To be considered for honors in Government or World Politics, a student must have a 90 average in department courses and have completed, with distinction, 550. The student may then, with the consent of the faculty, enroll in 551 and submit a senior thesis. The award of honors is conferred by a committee of three faculty members, including at least two members of the department.

Public Policy

The department administers an interdisciplinary concentration in Public Policy. For a full description, see "Public Policy."

Term in Washington Program

The Term in Washington Program combines regular academic study with the experience and understanding gained by working in congressional and executive offices. Four credits are awarded toward graduation, two of which (325 and 327) count toward a concentration in Government, and up to two may be counted toward a concentration in World Politics or Public Policy. To qualify for the program, a student must have taken at least one of the following: 208, 210, 251, 290, 329, 334, 338, or obtained the consent of the department. The program is not restricted to those concentrating in Government. It is also open to selected students from other colleges.

112F,S Comparative Politics. Introduction to the study of non-American national political systems, emphasizing authority, legitimacy and processes of state- and nation-building. Comparison of alternate forms of political development in selected Western and non-Western countries. (Fall sections, writing-intensive.) Open to junior and senior non-majors with consent of instructor only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20 (Fall); 40 (Spring). Fred-Mensah and Rivera (Fall); Orvis (Spring).

202F Redefining Security: Analysis, Strategies, Action. For full description, see Women's Studies 202.

[208] Political Parties and Elections. Analyzes the development of, and current theories regarding, political parties and elections in American politics. Topics include theories of party realignment, voting behavior, party composition and behavior, and the relationship between parties and elections and democracy. Covers both presidential and congressional elections. Prerequisite, 116 or consent of instructor. Not open to students who have taken 221. (Next offered 2000-2001.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

210S Interest Groups. Analysis of the role of interest groups in American democratic theory and practice, including the history and regulation of interest groups, organizational creation, maintenance and change. Techniques of influence and issues of reform, including lobbying and campaign finance will be discussed. Prerequisite,

116. Not open to students who have taken 221. Maximum enrollment, 40. The Department.

213F Politics in Russia and the C.I.S. Examination of politics after the collapse of communism in the former Soviet Union, from historical and comparative perspectives. Focuses on the failure of Gorbachev-era reforms and the disintegration of the Union. Topics include the rise of ethnic politics, the creation of political parties, the dilemmas of combining marketization and democratization, and Russia's new role in the international arena. Prerequisite, 112 or 114. (Same as Russian Studies 213.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Rivera.

214F Politics in Western Europe. Comparative study of post-World War II politics and government in several European countries, normally concentrating on Britain, France and Germany. Topics include state and political institutions, state- and nation-building, social conflicts and consensus, political culture and the interplay of politics and economics. Some attention paid to international relations in Western European states. Assumes some prior knowledge of Western European history. Prerequisite, 112 or 114. Maximum enrollment, 40. Cafruny.

[216S] Politics in Latin America. Comparative and historical approach to analyzing the political process in contemporary Latin America. Focuses on nature of authoritarian regimes and the current process of redemocratization. Topics include the role of the military and state, popular resistance to military rule, human rights and political problems of economic development. Prerequisite, 112. Maximum enrollment, 40.

218F Politics of Africa. Comparative examination of the domestic politics of sub-Saharan Africa. Central focus on explaining the recent rise of multi-party democracy across the continent and its future prospects. Examination of the colonial legacy, the nature of the African state, ethnic conflict, class divisions, the role of the military and the problems of economic underdevelopment. Prerequisite, 112 or 114, or Africana Studies 101. (Same as Africana Studies 218.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Orvis.

227S State and Local Politics. Analysis of politics in American states and localities, including elections, party systems, political institutions and policymaking. Perspectives on federalism. Prerequisite, 116. Maximum enrollment, 40. Eismeier.

230F Data Analysis. Introduction to practical data analysis. Focuses on basic skills needed to begin, engage in and interpret research done in political science and public policy. Includes statistical and computer analysis. Not open to students who have taken Economics 265. Maximum enrollment, 40. Wyckoff.

[239S] Gender and Politics in Latin America. How does gender influence the incorporation of citizens into the processes of political and economic development in Latin America? What implications does women's activism hold for women and for politics? Examination of several theories of gender difference and their implications for women's politics. Specific topics include suffrage and the definition of citizenship, women's status under various types of political and economic regimes, elite and working class women's organizations and the meaning of feminism in Latin America. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 112 or one course in Women's Studies. (Same as Women's Studies 239.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

241S Survey of Constitutional Law. Analysis of constitutional doctrines through major cases. Function of the Supreme Court as an instrument of government and arbiter of public policy. Doctrines include judicial review, federalism, interstate commerce, due process and questions of individual rights. Prerequisite, 116 or a course in American History. Maximum enrollment, 40. Anechiarico.

[244S] Nationalism and Cultural Politics. The evolution of nationalist, ethnic and religious conflicts in the post-Cold War world. The causes, implications and potential resolutions of such conflicts. The origins, history and power of nationalism. Cases include Burundi, South Africa, Rwanda, Yugoslavia, the former Soviet Union and the United States. Prerequisite, 112 or 114. (Next offered 2000-2001.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

251S Introduction to Public Policy. For full description, see Public Policy 251. (Same as Economics 251.)

Concentrators may fulfill the department's Senior Program requirement through satisfactory completion of either of the following options:

Research Seminar (401-403: one course credit each)

Concentrators may fulfill the Senior Program requirement through satisfactory completion (a grade of at least C-) of one 400-level research seminar. These courses may emphasize the critical evaluation of scholarship in a specific field, culminating in a historiographical essay, or primary research, culminating in an original essay.

Senior Thesis (550: one course credit)

Concentrators with a departmental grade point average of 88 or higher may, with the permission of the department, pursue an individual project under the direct supervision of a member of the department. Students may earn departmental honors through distinguished achievement in their coursework, including 550.

A minor in History consists of five courses, of which only one can be at the 100 level and at least one must be at the 300 level or higher, as approved by the department.

A student wishing to be certified to teach social studies in grades 7-12 must take Education 200, 300, 376, 377 and 378; Psychology 235; Rhetoric and Communication 333; Government 375 and complete a concentration in history or government. Coursework must include Government 116; Anthropology 113 or 114; two courses in American History and one history course outside American History, with only one of these three History courses at the 100 level; Sociology 190; Government 241; Economics 100; and one Social Science course dealing with non-Western culture.

Prerequisite, one 100-level History course. No previous knowledge of Asian history required. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 40. The Department.

[282S] Narratives of Nationhood. What is a nation? Examination of nationhood as geo-political, ethnic and cultural constructions; how these ideas are expressed in the literatures of China, Vietnam, Japan, Hong Kong/Macao, India, as well as Asian diasporas, particularly in the Americas; and how they relate to war, colonialism, modernization, exoticizing other and genocide. The aim is to scrutinize these constructions and nationalist strategies on the basis of theoretical writings of Barthes, Sartre, Foucault, Said and others associated with cultural studies. One weekly session meets with French 282 to discuss theories of narrative and nationalism. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level History course or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

285S Modernity and Nationhood in China. Examination of the social factors in the decline of imperial China in the nineteenth century, cultural interaction with Westerners, nationalist revolutions in the twentieth century. Reevaluation of the coherence of nationhood in Chinese identity and the Western "impact" as the crucial factor in the formation of modernism. Prerequisite, one 100-level History course. No knowledge of Asian history required. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Trivedi.

301S The Philosophy of History. An examination of such enduring issues as causation, general laws, fact and explanation, objectivity, pattern and meaning, uniqueness, and the role of the individual. Readings from classic and contemporary texts, with emphasis on the practical, historiographical implications of philosophical theories. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two 200-level History courses or one 100-level history course and one course in Philosophy. (Same as Philosophy 301.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Kelly.

[303F] The Medieval Court and Courtly Culture. Exploration of the institution of the medieval court and its central role in the cultural life of medieval Europe. Emphasis on the flowering vernacular traditions of courtly literature and song in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, the social and political conditions fostering their development and the material culture of the court and courtly life. Particular focus in the first weeks of the course on the life and cultural impact of Eleanor of Aquitaine (c. 1122-1204), followed by exploration of specific problems in courtly culture: its genesis, courtly love and misogyny, the workings of patronage, the interdependence of writers, musicians and artists. Maximum enrollment, 40.

[306F] Topics in Medieval History. Selected issues in the history of medieval Europe. Emphasis on conflicting interpretations and problematic sources. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 206 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

314F Nazi Germany. Origins of the Nazi movement, Hitler and the Nazi Party, daily life in the Third Reich, origins and causes of World War II and the Holocaust. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 212 or 218, or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Kelly.

[319F] History of Ireland. Selected topics in the history of Ireland from the pre-Christian era to the present, including heroism and martyrdom, English colonial domination, rebellion and its cultural resonances, emigration and family history. Emphasis on film and primary sources. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, any 200-level European History course. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[329S] Seminar in European Intellectual History. A detailed study of the works and influence of an individual or school of thought. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 225 or 226, or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12.

[337S] Seminar in Chinese Intellectual History: Confucianism. Examination of Confucian thought and ritual practice from Confucius and his immediate disciples, its syncretic reformulation in the Han dynasty, to its revival in the eleventh century, and the New Confucian movement of the twentieth century. Emphasis on reading primary texts in intellectual and ideological contexts in order to scrutinize the native terms in which Confucians understood themselves and their place in society and history. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 270,280, 285 or consent of instructor. (Same as Philosophy 337.)

[338S] Seminar: Heroes and Bandits in Chinese History and Fiction. Readings from several of China's greatest literary works (including histories, novels, opera and poetry) such as Sima Qian's Records of the Grand Historian and The Romance of the Three Kingdoms. Reexamination of widely held assumptions about history and fiction with discussions and writing assignments on the role played by different genres as sources for knowledge about the past. Emphasis on authors' attitudes in shaping narrative accounts of heroes, bandits, assassins, scholars, women and emperors. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 280 or 285, or consent of instructor. (Same as Comparative Literature 338.)

[340S] Studies in Twentieth-Century Europe. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level course in European History or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

341S Studies in American Colonial History. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 241 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Ambrose.

344S Studies in Women's History. Topic for 2000: The Body as Object of Historical Study. An examination of how bodies, male and female, have been viewed, analyzed, defined, interpreted, used, invaded and worshiped in European history. Includes historical sources on medical literature, arts, prostitution, sexuality, fashion and psychology. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level course in European History, or any 100-level course in history and one course in Women's Studies, or consent of instructor. (Same as Women's Studies 344.) (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Kanipe.

345S Studies in Russian History. Topic for 2000: The Imperial Experience. Advanced study of the Russian Empire from 1700 to 1917. We will examine the political, social and economic upheavals of this period, including revolutionary thought, popular culture, serfdom and modernization. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 221 or 222, or consent of instructor. (Same as Russian Studies 345.) (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Keller.

352F Women and the American Social Reform Tradition. An examination of women's participation in the issues and movements that have shaped American politics and society from the eighteenth through the twentieth centuries. Topics include women in the early republic, evangelical Protestantism, temperance, women's rights and women's suffrage, abolitionism and women's participation in the Civil War, populism and progressivism, settlement houses, the labor movement, the New Deal, civil rights and the women's liberation movement. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 251 or 253, or consent of instructor. (Same as Women's Studies 352.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Isserman.

[353F] Seminar on the Sixties. Examination of a critical period in recent U.S. history, with special attention to the civil rights movements, the Vietnam War, campus protest and the origins of the women's movement. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 253 or 254, or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

359S Studies in American Progressivism. An intensive study of the major political, social and intellectual transformations in American society between 1890 and 1940. Emphasis on the Progressive Era, World War I, the era of alleged “normalcy” in the 1920s, the Great Depression and the New Deal. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 253. Maximum enrollment, 12. Tobin.

[360F] Seminar: Mythical Histories in China and Japan. Examination of how history is used to legitimate or critique political institutions such as the Japanese emperor, philosophical regimes such as Confucian state orthodoxy in China and Japan, and social conditions such as women’s rights and duties in an extended Chinese family and Marxist Revolution. Emphasis on scrutiny of primary Chinese and Japanese texts in translation based on recent cultural theories such as deconstruction and feminism. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 270, 272, 280 or 285, or consent of instructor. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

363S Seminar: Colonial Encounters in Asia. Examines encounters between Asian and Western peoples from Marco Polo to the present. Focuses on tensions among economic, cultural and religious aims of Spanish and Portuguese expansion in the East Indies and the Philippines, rising Dutch competition of these territories, and later English and French imperial expansion into southeast and east Asia. The course also examines problems of orientalism/occidentalism and reassesses the myth of the Western “impact” on Asia by learning about how Asian peoples understood the West and the ways that Europe, too, was affected by these encounters. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, consent of instructor; no previous knowledge of Asian history required. Maximum enrollment, 12. Trivedi.

[372S] The Crusades. Examination of the expansion of Western Europe into the Eastern Mediterranean through the crusading movement. Emphasis on the development of the concept of Holy War; cultural conflict and assimilation; and the social, economic, political and religious conditions in Western Europe that gave rise to the Crusades. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 206 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

376S Religious Community and Ethnic Nationalism in South Asia. The history of South Asia in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, emphasizing the changing relationships of religious communities under colonial and post-colonial regimes. Topics will include the colonial conception of religious community, the public expression of religious identities, the rise of communal violence and the emergence of ethnic nationalism in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, any 200-level history course, or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Trivedi.

[378F] Topics in American Biography. Examination of biography as a form of historical writing. Emphasis on author’s interpretation of subject’s relation to historical context, varieties of biographical methods, role of individual in American history and subject’s relation to ideas of “America” and “American.” (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 200-level course in American History. Maximum enrollment, 20.

380F Seminar in American Studies. For full description, see American Studies 380.

382S Music and African History. Music of African Americans from colonial times to the present. Explores American history through music, implementing it and using it to understand the past. Considers the historical sources of American music and its social, political and economic effects and functions. No musical background required; both musicians and non-musicians welcome. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one 100-level history course or Africana Studies 101. Maximum enrollment, 20. Rath.

384S European Witch Trials. Witchcraft and magical beliefs in Europe and the New World as a problem of intellectual, social and legal history. Emergence of witchcraft persecution in the Middle Ages, mechanisms of witch trials and inquisitional procedures, image of the witch in popular and learned culture, regional variation in witch beliefs and persecution from Eastern Europe to colonial New England and decline of witchcraft persecution in the seventeenth century. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, any 200-level History course. Maximum enrollment, 20. Broedel.

401F,S Research Seminar in American History. Critical evaluation of scholarship in a selected topic culminating in a historiographical essay, or primary research in a selected topic culminating in an original interpretive essay. Senior Program option. Prerequisite, concentration in History or consent of instructor. Open to seniors only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 12. The Department.

402S Research Seminar in European History. Critical evaluation of scholarship in a selected topic culminating in a historiographical essay, or primary research in a selected topic culminating in an original interpretive essay. Senior Program option. Prerequisite, concentration in History or consent of instructor. Open to seniors only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 12. The Department.

[403F] Research Seminar in East Asian History. Critical evaluation of scholarship in a selected topic culminating in a historiographical essay, or primary research in a selected topic culminating in an original interpretive essay. Senior Program option. Prerequisite, concentration in History or consent of instructor. Open to seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12.

[485S] Seminar in African History. For full description, see Africana Studies 485.

550F,S Senior Thesis. A project limited to senior concentrators in History, resulting in a thesis supervised by a member of the department. Required of candidates for departmental honors. The Department.

551S Senior Thesis. A project limited to senior concentrators in History, resulting in a thesis expanded beyond the work of History 550. Prerequisite, 550 and consent of instructor. The Department.

A concentration in Mathematics consists of the required courses 113, 114, 224, either 235 or 251, 314, 325, 437 and two electives, of which at least one must be at the 300 level or higher. Concentrators fulfill the Senior Program requirement by taking 437. It should be taken in the fall, and all lower-numbered required courses, with at most one exception, should be completed prior to that time. Physics 200 may be counted as an elective toward the concentration. Students may earn departmental honors by completing courses that satisfy the concentration with an average of not less than 91, by taking a third elective that is at the 300 level or higher, and by making a public presentation to the department on a mathematical topic during their senior year. A minor in Mathematics consists of 113, 114, 224 and two mathematics electives, of which at least one must have 224 as a prerequisite.

100F,S Statistical Reasoning and Data Analysis. An introductory course intended to develop an understanding of and appreciation for the statistical approach to problems in business and the natural, social and behavioral sciences. Not open to students who have taken Anthropology 325, Economics 265, Government 230, Psychology 280 or Sociology 302. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor. Maximum enrollment in each section, 25. Boutin and Knop (Fall); The Department (Spring).

[109F,S] Pre-Calculus Problem Solving. An approach to pre-calculus mathematics stressing problem solving, with special emphasis on the concept of function in algebra and trigonometry. Designed specifically for those who may wish to go on to calculus. Placement subject to approval of the department. May not be counted toward the concentration or the minor. Maximum enrollment in each section, 25.

113F,S Calculus I. Introduction to the differential and integral calculus of a single variable. Topics include limits, continuity, derivatives, max-min problems and integrals. Four hours of class. The Department.

114F,S Calculus II. A continuation of the study begun in 113 and an introduction to the study of differential and integral calculus of several variables. Four hours of class. Prerequisite, 113 or placement by the department. Successful completion of 114 carries credit for both 113 and 114 for those students placed into 114. Four hours of class. The Department.

[115F] Vector Calculus. Topics in vector calculus, generalizing those from 114, including divergence, curl, line and surface integrals, Stokes theorem and applications to science, engineering and other areas. Prerequisite, 114 or consent of instructor.

123S Discrete Mathematics. An introduction to the basic ideas and techniques of discrete mathematics. Topics include logic, set theory, relations and functions, induction and recursion, counting techniques and probability, graphs, formal languages and abstract machines. The Department.

[135S] Mathematical Modeling. An introduction to using the language of mathematics to describe biological, physical and social phenomena. Seminar focus is on constructing, analyzing and critiquing mathematical models. Typical phenomena to be modeled include lake pollution, lotteries, genetics, radioactive decay and arms races. Prerequisite, 113 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20.

201F,S Topics in Mathematics. Weekly meetings, including guest lectures, faculty and student presentations and an introduction to the mathematical literature. One-quarter course credit based on Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Prerequisite, permission of the department. May be taken more than once with consent of the department. The Department.

224F,S Linear Algebra. An introduction to linear algebra: matrices and determinants, vector spaces, linear transformations, linear systems and eigenvalues; mathematical and physical applications. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 113 and either 114 or 123. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. The Department.

235S Differential Equations. Theory and applications of differential equations, including first-order equations, second-order linear equations, series solutions, systems of equations, introduction to partial differential equations and Fourier series. Prerequisite, 114 and 224. The Department.

251F Probability Theory and Applications. An introduction to probability, including probability spaces, random variables, expected values, multivariate distributions and the central limit theorem, with applications to other disciplines. Prerequisite, 114 and 224 (224 may be taken concurrently). Kelly.

[313S] Knot Theory. An introduction to knot theory. Topics include classification of different types of knots, the relations between knots and surfaces, and applications of knots to a variety of fields. Prerequisite, 224.

314F,S Real Analysis I. An introduction to analysis. Topics include sequences, series, continuity and metric spaces. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 114 and 224. Maximum enrollment, 20. Kantrowitz (Fall); Knop (Spring).

[315S] Real Analysis II. A continuation of 314. Topics include normed linear spaces, function spaces, Weierstrass approximation theorem and contraction mapping theorem. Prerequisite, 314 or consent of instructor. (Offered in alternate years.)

[318S] Complex Analysis. An introduction to the theory of analytic functions of a complex variable: Cauchy-Riemann equations, contour integration, Cauchy-Goursat theorem, Liouville theorem, Taylor and Laurent expansions, Residue theory. Prerequisite, 314. (Offered in alternate years.)

323S Graph Theory and Combinatorics. An introduction to the theory and applications of graph theory and combinatorics, suitable for both mathematics and computer science concentrators. Topics include generating functions, recurrence relations, inclusion-exclusion, transversal theory, covering circuits, graph colorings, independent set, planarity. Prerequisite, 123 or 224. Cockburn.

324S Linear Algebra II. A continuation of 224, with emphasis on the study of linear operators on complex vector spaces, invariant subspaces, generalized eigenvectors, and inner product spaces. Prerequisite, 224. Kantrowitz.

[326S] Advanced Algebra. Continuation of topics studied in 224 and 325. Topics may include Galois theory, algebraic geometry and applications. (Offered in alternate years.)

[336F] Topics in Differential Equations. Topics include non-linear systems of ordinary differential equations, partial differential equations and models from a variety of disciplines. Prerequisite, 235.

[338S] Numerical Analysis. Interpolation, methods of approximation and iterative methods, numerical solution of differential equations and of systems of linear equations. Suitability of procedures to computer use considered throughout the course. Prerequisite, 224 and Computer Science 241.

352S Statistical Theory and Applications. Topics include the law of large numbers, estimation, hypothesis testing, linear models, experimental design, analysis of variance and nonparametric statistics, with applications to other disciplines. Prerequisite, 251. The Department.

367F History of Mathematics. A complete survey of the history of mathematics through the nineteenth century, focusing on ancient civilizations and the roots of fundamental mathematical concepts. Prerequisite, 314 and 325. Anderson.

437F Senior Seminar in Mathematics. Study of a major topic through literature, student presentations and group discussions, with an emphasis on student presentations of student-generated results. Choice of topic to be determined by the department in consultation with its senior concentrators. Prerequisite, permission of the department. Maximum enrollment in each section, 12. The Department.

Seminars offered in recent years:

[437-01] Senior Seminar in Algebra. Explorations in finite group theory through the generation of counter-examples of minimal order. Students produce and publish a book of their results. Prerequisite, 325.

437-03 Senior Seminar in Number Theory. Discovery-based approach to elementary number theory topics including congruences, primitive roots, quadratic residues, arithmetic functions and Diophantine equations. Prerequisite, 325. Anderson.

437-04 Senior Seminar in Statistics. Topics include maximum likelihood estimation, regression diagnostics, logistic regression and an introduction to stochastic processes through Markov chains and queuing theory. Prerequisite, 251 and 352. Kelly.

437-05 Senior Seminar in Topology. Students jointly produce a textbook based on an outline provided. Topics include topological spaces, continuity of maps and homeomorphism. Spaces are described as compact, connected and Hausdorff. The fundamental group is computed and used to classify various spaces. Bedient.

437-06 Senior Seminar in Operations Research. An introduction to the mathematical tools of operations research; topics include linear and non-linear programming, network analysis, convex sets, combinatorial optimization and game theory. Cockburn.

450F,S Senior Research. A project for senior concentrators in Mathematics, in addition to participation in the Senior Seminar. Prerequisite, consent of department. The Department.

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

The program in Medieval and Renaissance Studies offers a minor consisting of five courses, taken in at least three departments, from the following two groups. In addition, students who elect this minor are required to emphasize one of the two epochs, the Medieval or the Renaissance, in their course selections, although they are also encouraged to explore the continuities between them. The minor consists of either: 1) History 206 (Medieval Europe), three courses from Group A, and one course from Group B; or 2) History 289 (Renaissance and Reformation Europe), one course from Group A, and three courses from Group B.

For complete information about the courses listed below, including prerequisites, enrollment limits and when a course is offered, consult the full descriptions under the appropriate departments.

Group A: Medieval Studies

274S Topic in Medieval and Renaissance Studies: Self and Society in the Middle Ages. Development of self-identity and social roles during the Middle Ages and Renaissance. Lives of men and women from a broad range of social classes, including rulers, aristocrats, merchants, peasants, monks and outcasts. Representation of individuals and the self in biography and imaginative literature, changes in political, social and regional identity, the rise of chivalry, private life and personal religious experience. Emphasis on reading and analysis of source documents. Prerequisite, one 100-level History course. (Same as History 274.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Broedel.

For the classes of 2000 and 2001, a concentration in Music consists of 205-206,209-210, 450-451;at least one-half credit in 280 and 281;and one performance credit;two full-credit courses at the 300 level and one other full-credit course from among 154, 157,160 and 316. Beginning with the class of 2002,a concentration in Music consists of one course credit in performance (from among 121-122, 131-132,141-142,221-222 and 231-232),209,210, 251,252, 253,254 or 259,280,281, 350,351 and the Senior Project,450-451.A more complete description of the Senior Project is available from the department.Students contemplating graduate work in music should consult with a member of the department at an early date. Departmental honors can be earned through distinguished achievement in coursework and in the Senior Project.

A minor in Music comprises five courses: 209,two courses from among 251,252, 253,and 254 or 259;one course credit from among 121-122,131-132, 141-142 and 221-222;and one other full-credit course.

Courses in Literature and History of Music

105S Musical Perception. An introduction to the study of musical perception from the listener's standpoint.Consideration of the reasons for differences in musical perception, taste, style and structure through examples taken primarily from Western classical music, but also from non-Western music and American popular music, including jazz, rock and blues. Examination of how musical perception gives rise to musical meaning.Evaluation of the influence of society and technology on the perception of music. No previous knowledge of music required. Not open to students who have taken 101,106 or 107. Maximum enrollment,40.Hopkins.

108F From Words to Song. An exploration of the relationship between words and music--of the many and different ways in which the meanings and emotions of the words have (and have not) been expressed through music in the last millennium. No previous knowledge of music required. Maximum enrollment,40. G. Kolb.

154F Music of the World's Peoples. A study of selected cultures around the world, including Native American music of North America, sub-Saharan African music, African-American music in the United States, Latin American music and the classical traditions of India, Indonesia, Japan and China. Consideration given to musical style and the role of music in these cultures. Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 40. Hamessley.

160S History of Jazz. How to listen to jazz. Origins of jazz, including its African heritage, blues and ragtime. Survey of jazz styles, including New Orleans and Chicago styles, boogie-woogie, swing, bebop, cool, funky, fusion and free jazz. Not open to seniors. (Same as Africana Studies 160.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Woods.

[208] Women in Music. An examination of both European and non-European popular and art music from the perspective of women. Topics include women as performers and composers, the depiction of women in music, musical criticism and cultural values that have affected women's participation in musical life. Prerequisite, any 100-level Music course, or Women's Studies 101. (Same as Women's Studies 208.) (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-2001.)

252F Music in Europe and America, 1600 to 1900. A study and analysis of major developments in style in Western music between 1600 and 1900. Consideration of the influence of political, economic, technological and cultural environments upon the development of musical styles. Prerequisite, 109. Maximum enrollment, 40. Hopkins.

253S Music in Europe and America Since 1900. A study and analysis of major developments in style in Western music since 1900. Consideration of the influence of political, economic, technological and cultural environments upon the development of musical styles. Prerequisite, 109. Maximum enrollment, 40. Richards.

254F Studies in World Music. Examination of selected non-Western music cultures with primary emphasis on West African and South Indian drumming and Japanese gamelan traditions. Focus on musical procedures as well as cultural uses of the music and corollary arts. Includes hands-on performance in the traditions studied. Prerequisite, 154 or consent of the instructor. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 16. Hamessley.

[258S] Opera. Study of literary and musical dimensions of operas by major composers from Monteverdi and Mozart to the present. Emphasis on the transformation of independent texts into librettos and the effects of music as it reflects language and dramatic action. Includes such works as Orfeo, Don Giovanni, Otello, The Turn of the Screw and Candide. Prerequisite, two courses in Music, or two in literature, or one in each field, or consent of instructors. (Same as Comparative Literature 258.) (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.)

[259] Studies in Jazz. A study of the life, times and music of Duke Ellington and Miles Davis. Consideration of the similarities and contrasts between their careers. Prerequisite, 160. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

262F African-American Popular Music. A study of the music of selected popular African-American artists, including rhythm-and-blues artists, black gospel soloists and performers of soul music and rap music. Focus on the social issues, musical modes of expression and cultural importance of the artists. Prerequisite, one full-credit course in Music. (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Woods.

Courses in Theory and Composition

109F,S Theories of Music: Fundamentals. Intensive training in the fundamentals of music from many traditions. Beginning work in ear-training, dictation and sight-singing, in addition to regular written assignments. Ability to read music in at least one clef is required. Prospective music concentrators are strongly urged to register concurrently in 180 and 181. Maximum enrollment, 40. Hopkins.

180F,S Basic Aural Skills. Development of basic skills in dictation, ear-training and sight-singing. One-quarter course credit, based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. May be repeated for credit with consent of department. Prerequisite, ability to read music in at least one clef. Richards (Fall); S. Pellman (Spring).

209F Theories of Music: Counterpoint and Harmony. A study of counterpoint, voice-leading, harmonic progressions and chromatic harmony. Consideration of common processes in music and how they are perceived. Concurrent registration in 180 and 181 is required of prospective music concentrators. Prerequisite, 109 or consent of the department. Not open to students who have completed 112. Maximum enrollment, 40. S. Pellman.

213F Jazz Arranging. The theoretical designs used in combo, big band and third-stream writing. Coverage of jazz scales, chords, voicings, ranges and tonal properties. Students are expected to compose and copy the parts to three compositions, one of which will be read and recorded. Prerequisite, 209. (Offered in alternate years.) Woods.

[240] Psychology of Music. Advanced study of musical perception from the listener's standpoint. A cognitive approach to music with particular emphasis on the sensory aspects of music and the perception of musical organization. Examination of the relationships between the theoretical rules of music and the laws of perception and cognition. Prerequisite, one course from among 105, 106, 107, 109, 154 and 160. (Same as Psychology 240.) (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-2001.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

266-267 Musical Composition. Contemporary compositional techniques, including notational procedures and score preparation. Emphasis on developing the ability to structure musical ideas in several short pieces and one extended work. May be started in either the fall or spring semester. One-quarter course credit each semester. Prerequisite, 157, 209 or 277, and consent of the instructor. S. Pellman.

277F Music for Contemporary Media. Experience with the aesthetics and techniques of the modern recording studio, including the uses of sound synthesizers, digital samplers and MIDI. Creative projects using these techniques. Three hours of class and three hours of studio. Prerequisite, 109, 121 or 131. Not open to students who have taken 157. Not open to seniors. Maximum enrollment, 14. S. Pellman.

366-367 Advanced Musical Composition. Contemporary compositional techniques, including notational procedures and score preparation. Emphasis on developing the ability to structure musical ideas in several short pieces and one extended work. May be started in either the fall or spring semester. One-quarter course credit each semester. Prerequisite, 267. S. Pellman.

[377] Electronic Arts Workshop. Emphasis on collaborative work among computer musicians, digital photographers and videographers in the creation of electronic 'zines on CD-ROM and the web. Other projects will include multimedia installations or performance art pieces. Prerequisite, Art 302 with consent of instructor, Art 313, or Music 157 with consent of instructor or 257 or 277. (Same as Art 377.) (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 12.

380F,S Advanced Aural Skills. A continuation of 280. May be repeated for credit with the consent of the department. One-quarter course credit. Prerequisite, 280 and consent of the department. Richards (Fall); S. Pellman (Spring).

381F,S Advanced Keyboard Skills. A continuation of keyboard skills training from 281. Half-hour tutorial. May be repeated for credit with consent of the department. One-quarter course credit each semester. Prerequisite, 281 or consent of the department. Best.

Courses in Performance

121-122 Solo Performance. The study of music through lessons and performance in either voice or an instrument, including flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, organ, harp, percussion, acoustic guitar, jazz guitar, violin, viola, 'cello and contrabass. Half-hour tutorial. May be started either in the fall or spring semester. One-quarter course credit each semester. Not open to seniors. A fee is charged. The Department.

123-124 Applied Music. The study of music through lessons in either voice or an instrument, including flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, organ, harp, percussion, acoustic guitar, jazz guitar, violin, viola, 'cello and contrabass. Half-hour tutorial. May be started either in the fall or spring semester. One-quarter course credit each semester, based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Not open to seniors. A fee is charged. The Department.

131-132 Solo Performance. The study of music through lessons and performance in either voice or an instrument, including flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, organ, harp, percussion, acoustic guitar, jazz guitar, violin, viola, 'cello and contrabass. Hour tutorial. May be started either in the fall or spring semester. One-half course credit each semester. Not open to seniors. Prerequisite, consent of instructor. A fee is charged. The Department.

133-134 Applied Music. The study of music through lessons in either voice or an instrument, including flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, horn, trumpet, trombone, tuba, piano, organ, harp, percussion, acoustic guitar, jazz guitar, violin, viola, 'cello and contrabass. Hour tutorial. May be started either in the fall or spring semester. One-half course credit each semester, based on evaluation of Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Not open to seniors. A fee is charged. The Department.

141F-142S Group Performance. The study of music through performance in one or more of the following groups: Brass Choir, Chamber Ensemble, College Choir (G. Kolb), College Hill Singers (G. Kolb), Jazz Ensemble (Woods), Jazz Improvisation (Woods), Oratorio Society (G. Kolb), Orchestra (Richards) and Woodwind Ensembles (Richards). One-quarter course credit each semester. The course may be repeated throughout the student's college career. Students are encouraged to participate in, and may be registered for, more than one group and may accumulate as many as four credits in the course that can be counted toward the number of courses required for graduation. The Jazz Improvisation and Oratorio Society sections are evaluated Satisfactory/-Unsatisfactory. Prerequisite, consent of instructor. The Department.

[218F-219S] Conducting. The elements of conducting, including baton technique, aural perception and score study. Consideration of instrumental and choral problems and techniques. Concurrent participation in a college ensemble required. Prerequisite, any 200-level full-credit Music course. 219 may not be taken as a separate course. (Offered in alternate years.)

431-432 Solo Performance. A continuation of 331-332. Hour tutorial. One-half course credit each semester. Prerequisite, 332 and consent of instructor. A fee is charged. The Department.

Third-year seminars and the Senior Project

350F Topics in Music. In-depth consideration of topics in music theory, history, composition and performance. Topics for the fall of 1999: Musical Coherence in the Music of Brahms and Mahler, Set Theory and Analysis of Post-Tonal Music and Critical Editing of Selected Works from the Renaissance. Prerequisite, 210, 205 or 251, and 206 or 252 or 253. Concurrent registration in prerequisite courses may be approved by the department. Hopkins, Richards and Hamessley.

351S Topics in Music. In-depth consideration of topics in music theory, history, composition and performance. Topics for the spring of 2000: Jazz Nomenclature, Computer Applications for the Exploration of Tuning Systems, and the Cantatas of J.S. Bach. Prerequisite, 350. Woods, S. Pellman and G. Kolb.

450F Senior Project I. Supervised work on a specific project based on proposals submitted to the department by the end of the student's junior year. Open to seniors only. Prerequisite, 205 or 251, 206 or 252 and 253, and 210; and two from among 301, 306, 311, 316, 350, 351 and 377. One-half credit. The Department.

451S Senior Project II. Completion of senior project. One-half credit. Prerequisite, 450. The Department.

Neuroscience

Faculty Program Committee

Douglas A. Weldon, Chair (Psychology)

George A. Gescheider (Psychology)

Herman K. Lehman (F,S) (Biology)

The Departments of Biology and Psychology offer an interdisciplinary concentration in Neuroscience. The concentration consists of 12 courses, which must include: Biology 110 and either 111 or 210; Chemistry 120 and 190; Psychology 101, 205 and 280; a Biology or Psychology elective at the 200-level or above, or Chemistry 270; Principles of Neuroscience (Psych/Biology 330); Psychophysics and Sensory Physiology (Psychology 350); Neurochemistry (Biology 421); and the senior project. Program honors in Neuroscience recognize the distinguished achievement of students who excel in their coursework in the concentration, including the Senior Project.

205F Introduction to Brain and Behavior. For full description, see Psychology 205.

330F Principles of Neuroscience. For full description, see Psychology 330.

350S Psychophysics and Sensory Physiology. For full description, see Psychology 350.

[421S] Neurochemistry. For full description, see Biology 421.

[444F] Vertebrate Endocrinology. For full description, see Biology 444.

445F Integrative Animal Biology. For full description, see Biology 445.

Philosophy

Katheryn H. Doran, Chair
A. Todd Franklin
Amie A. Macdonald (F,S)
Andrew P. Norman (F)

Kirk E. Pillow
Robert L. Simon
Richard W. Werner

A concentration in Philosophy consists of 201, 203, 355, one course from among 100, 200 or 240, and four additional courses at or above the 300 level, three of which must be at the 400 level or above. Concentrators must take at least one 400-level course from epistemology, metaphysics or philosophy of language, and another from history of philosophy, ethics or aesthetics. Concentrators will normally complete 201, 203, 355 and 100, 200 or 240 by the end of their junior year. Senior concentrators must complete the Senior Program. They may do so either by enrolling in the Senior Seminar (500) in the spring of their senior year and completing a senior thesis, or by completing a senior project in a 400-level seminar offered by the department during the fall or spring of the senior year. Students will be admitted to the Senior Seminar only if a formal thesis proposal submitted in the fall is approved by the department. A complete description of the Senior Program is available in Christian A. Johnson 216. Candidates for honors must have an 88 average in all courses in Philosophy and must submit and successfully defend a senior thesis, based on their work in 500, during the spring semester of their senior year. A minor in Philosophy can be of two kinds: standard (100 or 200 or 240, and 201, 203 and two other courses), or correlative (five courses from one field in Philosophy correlative to the field of concentration and approved by the department).

100F Critical Thinking. An introduction to informal methods of evaluating claims and arguments in everyday life. Emphasis on strengthening one's reasoning, the recognition of bad reasoning and the evaluation of explanations and arguments. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment, 20. Doran.

110F,S Introduction to Philosophy. An introduction to such philosophical issues as the possibility and nature of morality, the existence of God and the problem of evil, the possibility of free will and the nature of human knowledge. Practice in critically appraising philosophical positions. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. The Department.

111F Contemporary Moral Issues. Introduction to moral theory and moral reasoning. Application of moral theories and reasoning to social problems. Extensive use of films outside of class. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first-year students only. (Same as Africana Studies 111.) Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Werner.

115F Existentialism. An introduction to nineteenth- and twentieth-century variants of existentialism. Readings include works by Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Sartre, Camus and de Beauvoir. (Writing-intensive.) Section 1 open to first-year students only; Section 2 open to sophomores and juniors only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Franklin.

117F,S Introduction to Political Theory. For full description, see Government 117.

200F Critical Reasoning. Same as Philosophy 100, except: 1) greater emphasis on symbolic logic, and 2) not writing-intensive. Not open to students who have taken 100 or 240. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 40. Doran.

201F History of Ancient Western Philosophy. A study of the philosophical classics from early Greek times to the fall of Rome. Emphasis on Plato and Aristotle. (Same as Classical Studies 201.) Maximum enrollment, 60. Werner.

203S History of Modern Western Philosophy. A study of the philosophical classics from Descartes to Kant. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Doran.

216S Indian Thought. For full description, see Religious Studies 216.

222S Race, Gender and Culture. A critical philosophical examination of the normative categories of race, gender and culture. Topics include the origin, character and function of racial gender and social identities. Analysis will focus on questions concerning the malleability of these identities, as well as questions concerning their psychological and social significance. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in philosophy or Africana Studies or Women's Studies. (Same as Africana Studies 222 and Women's Studies 222.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Franklin.

240S Symbolic Logic. A study of formal systems of reasoning and argument evaluation. Maximum enrollment, 40. Pillow.

[245] Science, Culture and Ideology. Philosophical issues raised by the rise of the modern natural sciences. How have these developments shaped the worldview of the West? What assumptions about the world and our place in it do their methods embody? What are the social, political and technological implications of recent developments in the sciences? Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

271S Ethics of Professions and Practices. Examination of ethical issues arising in the professions, in institutions and in human practices. Study of selected ethical problems in law, medicine, education and sport. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 40. Simon.

301S The Philosophy of History. For full description, see History 301.

[302] Nineteenth-Century Philosophy. A survey of European philosophy that explores the philosophical movements of idealism, materialism and existentialism. Major thinkers include Kant, Schiller, Schopenhauer, Marx, Kierkegaard and Nietzsche. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

[303] Twentieth-Century Continental Philosophy. A survey of German and French philosophy from Husserl to Foucault. Phenomenology, hermeneutics, critical theory and more. Topics include the legacy of the Enlightenment, perception and the possibility of objectivity, technology, the changing nature of work and what it is to be human. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

315S Islamic Thought. For full description, see Religious Studies 315.

333F Philosophy of Art and Aesthetic Experience. Examination of major themes in the philosophy of art, including the respective contributions of artist, work and audience to the aesthetic situation; whether standards of taste exist; conflicts between aesthetic and moral value; problems of assigning meanings to works of art. Historical and contemporary readings, extensive use of other media. Prerequisite, one course in Philosophy or Art or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 40. Pillow.

[337S] Seminar in Chinese Intellectual History: Confucianism. For full description, see History 337.

350S Ethics and Politics in Ancient Greece and Rome. For full description, see Classical Studies 350.

355S Contemporary Philosophy. Exploration of central preoccupations in recent philosophy as informed by classic twentieth-century texts. Topics include the Anglo-American analytic tradition and its anti-foundationalist convergences with "Continental" philosophy; postmodernist and post-structuralist critiques of modernity; recent rethinking of selfhood and agency;and the question of whether philosophy is at an end. Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment,40. Pillow.

380F Philosophy of Law. Inquiry into the nature of law, the authority of law, the character of judicial reasoning and other selected problems in jurisprudence, with particular attention to the relationship of legality to morality and justifiability of judicial reasoning.Prerequisite, 110 or junior standing. Maximum enrollment,40.Simon.

[410] Seminar in the History of Philosophy:American Philosophy. A philosophical study of nineteenth-century American philosophy, with emphasis on Pragmatist metaphysics and epistemology through the work of Peirce, James and Dewey. Course begins with some work on Emerson and Thoreau's Transcendentalism and examines historical debates over the morality of slavery. (Writing-intensive.) (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment,12.

421F Seminar in Metaphysics: On What There Is. Detailed inquiry into contemporary philosophic debate among realists,pragmatists and anti-realists.Emphasis on issues relating to the relativism of truth,ontology, and facts and values. Investigation of such metaphysical issues as the nature, point and possibility of philosophy. Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment,12. Werner.

425F Mahayana Buddhism. For full description,see Religious Studies 425.

430S Seminar in Epistemology:The Problem of Knowledge. Inquiry into whether it is possible to reject skepticism without resorting to dogmatism. Special emphasis on the connection (or tension) between everyday reflection and philosophical theory. Historical and contemporary readings.(Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, two courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12.Doran.

431F Seminar in the History of Philosophy: Kant's Critical System. Study of the architectonic structure of Kant's philosophical system, emphasizing the elaborate relationships between his epistemology, moral philosophy and aesthetic theory. Readings from Critique of Pure Reason, Critique of Practical Reason and Critique of Judgment. Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment,12.Pillow.

[435] Seminar in Metaphysics: Heidegger. Discussion of Heidegger's classic critique of the dominant conception of human existence.Topics include the formative role of social norms,the ways languages and technologies shape our lives,and how the past and the future condition the present.Readings from Being and Time and secondary sources.(Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment,12.

[444] Seminar in Ethics:The Theory and Practice of Nonviolence. Critical inquiry into the morality of war and peace with emphasis on war realism,just war theory and pacifism. Consideration of the ethics of violence and the alternative of nonviolence both as a tactic and as a way of life. Historical and contemporary readings. Prerequisite, 203,College 120 or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. (Next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment,12.

[450S] Seminar in Ethics: Ethical Theory. An investigation of twentieth-century ethical theory, focusing on theories of the meaning of ethical terms and on theories of justification in ethics. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment,12.

quences for liberty and equality. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 203 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 12. Simon.

463S Seminar in Metaphysics: Nietzsche. A close examination of Nietzsche's philosophical corpus that examines his conception of the good life as it emerges within the context of the critical and positive aspects of his philosophy. Topics include the existential significance of narrative, the nature of knowledge and the philosophical import of Nietzsche's critical condemnations of metaphysics, religion and morality. Prerequisite, two courses in Philosophy or consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 12. Franklin.

500S Senior Seminar in Philosophy. Extensive practice in examination of selected philosophical topics. Preparation, examination and revision of senior projects. The Department.

All enrolled students are required to participate in a physical education program for individual development. This "lifetime carryover" program is based on the theory that it is as important to develop a healthy body and a love of sports as it is to provide scope for the skilled athlete.

There is a five-part requirement that includes:

- 1) A physical fitness test (a course is offered for those who do not pass);
- 2) A swim test (beginning swimming is offered for those who do not pass);
- 3) A lifetime activity class;
- 4) and 5) may be met by completing two units of the following:
proficiency test (one unit only);
intercollegiate athletics (one unit only);
wellness seminar (one unit only);
Adirondack Adventure (one unit only);
lifetime activity class (unlimited).

Lifetime activity classes offered include the following: advanced conditioning, advanced fitness, aerobics, badminton*, bicycling, fitness, golf*, jogging, lifeguard training, racquetball*, skating*, squash*, tennis*, volleyball, and water safety instructor. A proficiency test is available for those marked with a star (*). Duplicate credit will not be awarded (e.g., varsity tennis player and tennis proficiency or varsity volleyball player and volleyball class credit).

Upon passing the physical fitness and swimming tests and successfully completing the three other parts of the requirement, a student shall have completed the physical education requirement. Except under unusual circumstances, it is expected that the requirement will be completed in the first year. All students must complete the requirement by the end of four semesters in residence and may not graduate without completing it. Students with physical disabilities may enter an individual program approved by the College physician.

Physics

Ann J. Silversmith

A concentration in Physics consists of 10 courses: 190, 195, 290, 295, 390, 550 and four other courses chosen in consultation with an advisor who is a member of the Physics faculty. Normally at least one of the electives will be from among Physics courses at the 300-level and above. Students who wish to prepare for graduate school in physics or engineering should choose four electives from Physics courses at the 300-level and above. Students with other interests may, in consultation with their advisor, select electives from other science or math courses. For example, such courses may support interdisciplinary interests or career goals. Normally 390 is taken in the spring semester of the junior year in preparation for the research project undertaken in 550. For Honors in Physics, outstanding work in the senior research project is required.

In the first year, prospective concentrators should take Physics 190 and 195, and Mathematics 113 and 114. If the Mathematics department grants advanced placement, then students may wish to take Linear Algebra followed by Differential Equations (Mathematics 224 and 235). Physics 290 and 295 should be taken in the second year. Other options should be discussed with a member of the Physics faculty. Students who wish to major in Physics but who have taken Physics 100-105, or wish to begin the major belatedly, or who have advanced placement in physics, should consult with the Physics department chair.

A minor in Physics consists of five courses: 190-195 or 100-105, 290 and two other courses chosen in consultation with a member of the Physics faculty. A minor in Astronomy consists of five courses: 190-195 or 100-105, 290, 160 and an independent study in astronomy. A student who majors in Physics may not minor in Astronomy.

Students interested in the 3-2 or 4-2 engineering programs affiliating Hamilton with engineering schools should take 190, 195 and calculus (or linear algebra if mathematics placement so warrants) in their first year. There are many possible options in engineering programs, and because of their complexity beyond the first year, interested students should consult the engineering advisor. This is also the case for those who have taken 100-105 and have then become interested in engineering. The engineering advisor is Professor Ring.

100F-105S Survey of Physics. For pre-med students and other scientists who require a year of basic physics. In the first semester: mechanics, fluids, waves and thermodynamics; in the second semester: electricity and magnetism, optics, atomic physics and nuclear physics. Emphasis on applications of physics in medicine and in other sciences. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Algebra and trigonometry required. 100 is a prerequisite for 105. The Department.

[110S] Nuclear Energy and the Environment. Topics include the energy problem; nuclear physics; the implications of nuclear technology; radioactivity: its uses and its perils; nuclear reactors and reactor safety; nuclear weapons and proliferation; the nuclear waste problem; and alternatives to nuclear fission: solar, fusion, wind, hydro, geothermal, tidal, biomass and fossil fuel.

130S Physics of Architecture. Introduction to why buildings stand up; the physics of materials and of structures. Structures include Greek temples, Roman arches, Gothic cathedrals, buildings of Mies van der Rohe, Le Corbusier and Frank Lloyd Wright, as well as bridges of various kinds. Knowledge of algebra and trigonometry required. Ring.

140S Light and the Laser. Introduction to the fundamental properties of light, including wave behavior, reflection, refraction, color, polarization and the optical processes of absorption and emission. Emphasis on developing an understanding of the laser—how it works and why it is different from conventional light sources. No prerequisite, but familiarity with pre-calculus mathematics recommended. Three hours of class plus some laboratory work. Maximum enrollment, 25. Silversmith.

150S The Physicist's View of Nature. The physics of the twentieth century. The ideas of special and general relativity and cosmology, of quantum physics and elementary particles. A course for students not going on in science. Pearle.

160F Introduction to Astronomy. A description of the universe, starting with the appearance and organization of the solar system and working outward. Development of the heliocentric view. Observational deduction of properties of stars. Stellar evolution and its relation to pulsars and black holes. Galaxies and the structure and history of the universe. Three hours of class and one-and-one-half hours of laboratory. Maximum enrollment, 32. Millet.

190F The Particular Universe. Some of the important ideas of physics associated with the picture that the world is made of particles. Discussion of symmetries and conservation laws, kinematics and dynamics. Introduction to special relativity and general relativity and to Bohr's model of the atom. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, Mathematics 113 (may be taken concurrently). Not open to students who have taken 100-105. Pearle.

195S Waves and Fields. The physics of oscillations, waves and fields. Topics include fluids, simple harmonic motion, sound, electromagnetic fields and radiation, optics and the wave properties of particles. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 190 or 100 and Mathematics 114 (may be taken concurrently). Not open to students who have taken 105. The Department.

230S Electronics. Introduction to electrical engineering, the theoretical and experimental analysis of electronic circuits containing resistors, capacitors, inductors, diodes, transistors and integrated circuits. Both analog and digital circuits discussed in lab and investigated in the laboratory. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken 240. Maximum enrollment, 14. Pearle.

240F Electronics and Computers. Hands-on introduction to the concepts and devices of electronics. Study of analog and digital circuits, computer architecture, assembler programming and computer interfacing. Some experience with programming in a high-level language recommended. Six hours of laboratory. Not open to students who have taken 230. Maximum enrollment, 28. Collett.

290F Quantum Physics. Kinetic theory, wave-particle duality, the nuclear atom, the development of Schrödinger's wave mechanics and the quantum theory of atoms. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 195 or 105 and Mathematics 114. Silversmith.

295S Electromagnetism. Introduction to the mathematical description of the electric and magnetic fields, their sources, and their interactions with matter. Exploration of Maxwell's laws with emphasis on the relationship between the physics and the mathematics needed to describe it. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 290. Collett.

340S Topics in Quantum Physics. Exploration of topics in contemporary physics using the tools of quantum mechanics developed in 290. Topics may include multi-electron atoms, molecules, solid state physics, lasers and quantum optics, nuclear physics, nuclear magnetic resonance, surface physics and particle physics. Prerequisite, 290. The Department.

[350] Classical Mechanics. Principles of classical mechanics, including dynamics of particles, resonance, rotating reference frames, celestial mechanics, rigid body motion and Lagrangian mechanics. Prerequisite, 290 or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2000-01.)

[360S] Scientific Computing in Fortran. Study of the computational methods for solving advanced problems in the physical sciences using Fortran in a Unix environment. Projects may include data fitting, solution of systems of ordinary differential equations and solutions of partial differential equations. Prerequisite, knowledge of a programming language and Mathematics 235 or Physics 295 or consent of the instructor.

370S Thermodynamics and Statistical Physics. Properties of large scale systems in terms of a statistical treatment of the motions, interactions and energy levels of particles. Basic probability concepts and the principles of statistical mechanics. Explanation of thermal equilibrium, heat, work and the laws of thermodynamics. Application to various physical systems. Prerequisite, 290. Millet.

380F Electromagnetic Theory. Intensive study of Maxwell's equations in both differential and integral form. Electrostatics and electro-dynamics. Introduction to electromagnetic waves and dielectric and magnetic materials. Prerequisite, 295. Ring.

390S Research Seminar. A series of research projects stressing the integration of theory and experiment. Emphasis on scientific writing, formal oral presentations, use of the current physics literature. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 295. Silversmith.

550F Senior Seminar. Independent research in collaboration with faculty supervisor. Students will give a series of formal oral presentations about their research and will write a comprehensive thesis. Open to senior concentrators or to others with consent of instructor. The Department.

Program in Teacher Education

Faculty Program Committee

Susan A. Mason, Director (Program in Teacher Education) Special Appointment
Esther S. Kanipe (History) Karen Stearns
Timothy J. Kelly (Mathematics)
David C. Paris (Government)
Mitchell Stevens (Sociology)

Though not a concentration, the Program in Teacher Education is a creative, demanding, distinctly liberal arts-based approach to the education of pre-service teachers. Characterized by an inquiry-oriented, developmental approach to teacher education, course work is integrated into, rather than separated from, the liberal arts curriculum of the College. This course of study is recommended for students who are interested in K-12 private school teaching opportunities, graduate studies leading to New York State initial teaching certification and/or requirements for provisional teaching certification in states outside of New York. (Teaching certification is a state-specified process so students are encouraged to become familiar with applicable regulations as early as possible in their studies at the College. Early and frequent consultation with the director of the Program in Teacher Education is encouraged.) Support from local public school districts allows students to complete upwards of 120 hours of field experience in the elementary, middle and secondary grade-level settings. Credit-bearing field experiences in Education are directed and governed by the Program in Teacher Education faculty.

Due to recent changes in New York State Education Department regulations governing teacher certification, the College will be phasing out studies leading to New York State provisional teacher certification with the last class being 2001. Students in the class of 2001 who intend to seek provisional teacher certification must submit an "Intent Form" to the director no later than Dec. 1, 1999. Applicants will be reviewed for participation in the student teaching practicum during the 2000-01 academic year. Placement in the student teaching experience (376, 377, 378) is contingent upon the supportive recommendation of the student's department of concentration, affirmative recommendations of the Program in Teacher Education program faculty and director, and the student achieving at least an 85% (B) average both in courses related to the area of certification and in overall GPA. These averages must be achieved no later than the semester prior to the student teaching experience.

200F Issues in Education. A formal exploration of the integrated practices of teaching and learning. Study of the role that system-wide assumptions play in establishing overall curricular and instructional goals and the roles that individual teachers and students play in determining how those goals are realized. Consideration of several contemporary educational issues from historical, philosophical, scientific, multicultural and pedagogical perspectives. Includes lecture, discussion and small group interaction. (Writing-intensive.) Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors only. Maximum enrollment, 20. Stearns.

235F Educational Psychology. For full description, see Psychology 235.

275S Public Education: Policy, Politics and Ideology. For full description, see Government 275.

300F,S Junior Year Field Experience. Systematic examination, analysis and evaluation of secondary education within a specific school system. Focus on classroom instruction and management and school structures and decision-making processes. Field experience. One-quarter course credit. Maximum enrollment, 20. Mason.

333F Principles of Instructional Communication. For full description, see Rhetoric and Communication 333.

376F,S Ethnography of Secondary School Teaching. Systematic observation of a specific classroom environment prior to and during the practicum teaching experience (377). Examination of classroom discourse and the development and analysis of curriculum. Assessment of the effect social context and relationships have on the enactment of teaching and learning. Maximum enrollment, 15. Open only to students enrolled in 377. Mason.

377F,S Practicum in Secondary Teaching. Classroom teaching in the secondary school environment being assessed in 376. Supervision of curricular development and instruction by a secondary school mentor and the director of the program. Grading C/NC. Open only to students accepted in the Program in Teacher Education. Maximum enrollment, 15. Mason.

378F,S Instructional Theory and Practice. Seminar addressing topics related to educational theory and practice as experienced in 376 and 377. Curricular planning and instruction with an emphasis on systematic evaluation of effective classroom practices. Seminar will employ weekly lectures/discussions with master teachers from various teaching disciplines. Open only to students enrolled in 377. Mason.

395 Clinical Teaching Intensive Special Needs. Each student is assigned full-time teaching responsibilities, under supervision, in a setting with learners with intensive special needs. Includes extensive practicum experience with a focus on teaching and case management. Papers and attendance at weekly seminars required. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England Center for Children.

The department offers concentrations in General Psychology and Psychobiology, as follows:

General Psychology

A concentration in General Psychology consists of ten courses: 101, 280, one course in each of five areas, two electives and the Senior Project. The five areas are: behavioral neuroscience (205, 232, 242, 330 and 350); cognitive psychology (250, 290, 310, 315 and 324); developmental psychology (211, 212, 221, 324 and 335); social/personality psychology (216, 221, 336, 337 and 420); and applied psychology (223, 235, 249, 380, 445 and 455). A particular course may count towards only one of these areas. Of the courses taken, at least two must be laboratory courses: one selected from 310, 315, 324, 330 and 350; and one from 335, 336, 337 and 380. Departmental honors in Psychology recognize the distinguished achievement of students who excel in their coursework in the concentration, including the Senior Project. A minor in General Psychology consists of five courses: 101; 280; one laboratory course chosen from 310, 315, 324, 330, 335, 336, 337, 350 and 380; and two electives, each from a different area.

Psychobiology

Students may declare a concentration in Psychobiology through the 2001-02 academic year (see concentration in Neuroscience). A concentration in Psychobiology consists of 12 courses: Biology 110 and either 111 or 210; Chemistry 120 and 190; Psychology 101, 205, 280, 330 and 350; one of the following courses in Biology: 222, 225, 331, 333, 336, 337, 421, 444, 445 or 446; one course in Psychology at the 200 level or above; and the Senior Project. Departmental honors in Psychobiology recognize the distinguished achievement of students who excel in their coursework in the concentration, including the Senior Project. Students considering graduate work in neuroscience are advised to take Chemistry 190 and 255, Mathematics 113-114, Computer Science 140, and Physics 101-102.

Senior Project

The curricula in Psychology and Psychobiology are designed to prepare each student to undertake a senior project consisting of extensive research and theoretical inquiry, culminating in a written thesis and an oral presentation. The Senior Project can be completed over a period of either one or two semesters; therefore, concentrators must enroll in 500 and/or 501 during their senior year.

101F,S Introductory Psychology. An introduction to the science of human behavior. Topics include the nervous system, perception, learning, motivation, cognitive and social development, personality, individual differences, social behavior, psychopathology and behavior disorders. Maximum enrollment in each section, 40. The Department.

205F Introduction to Brain and Behavior. Study of the structure and function of the nervous system as it relates to consciousness and behavior. Emphasis on psychological explanations of perception, learning, attention, motivation, emotion and behavior disorders. Prerequisite, 101, or Biology 210, or consent of instructor. (Same as Neuroscience 205.) Gescheider.

[212] Developmental Psychology: Adulthood and Aging. The study of the biological, psychological and sociohistorical processes that influence adult development and aging; research designs for the study of developmental psychology; the optimization of development throughout the adult years; and the distinctions between normal and pathological aging. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 40.

216F Social Psychology and Personality. Study of the influences of social contexts and personality characteristics on social behavior. Readings focus on empirical studies of social and personality processes. Emphasis on such topics as historical trends in approaches to the study of social behavior; assessment of personality and group behavior; and current theoretical and methodological issues in personality and social psychology. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 40. Borton.

[221] Gender Development. Examination of biological and social influences on the development of gender, schemas, gender roles and gender-stereotyped behaviors throughout the lifespan. Relative influences of physiology and socialization on understandings of gender and of the self discussed. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 40.

[223] Abnormal Psychology. Introduction to the study of abnormal behavior. Historical and cultural perspectives. Current understanding of various disorders (such as affective, thought and personality disorders), including classification systems, diagnostic assessment, treatments and assessment of treatment efficacy. Discussion of research concerning etiology and phenomenology. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 40.

232S Human Neuropsychology. Study of human brain function from the standpoint of experimental and clinical research in behavioral and cognitive neuroscience. Survey of research involving animals and humans, addressing presumed neural mechanisms for cognitive, motivational and emotional states. Analysis of aphasia, agnosias, apraxias and disconnection syndromes. Prerequisite, 101. Gescheider.

235F Educational Psychology. The application of psychological theory and research to educational problems. Topics include the cognitive psychology of school learning, academic motivation, measurement of achievement and ability, classroom behavior management and exceptional children. Prerequisite, 101. (Same as Education 235.) Maximum enrollment, 40. Whitmore-Hitt.

[240] Psychology of Music. For full description, see Music 240.

[242] Psychopharmacology. A study of the effects of drugs on animal and human behavior. Topics include neuropharmacology, antipsychotics, analgesics, stimulants, hallucinogens, antidepressants, alcoholism, addiction and the implications of drug effects for neurochemical theories of behavior. Prerequisite, 205 or consent of instructor. (Same as Neuroscience 242.) Maximum enrollment, 40.

[246S] Artificial Intelligence. For full description, see Computer Science 246.

249F Psychology and Law. The application of psychological research to the legal system. Discussion of assumptions in the law that can be informed by empirical research. Topics include jury functioning, eyewitness testimony and the psychology of criminal behavior. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 40. Johnson.

250F Learning and Cognition. The basic principles that govern the interaction of animals and humans with the environment. Topics include Pavlovian and instrumental conditioning, schedules of reinforcement, attention, memory and thinking. Recommended for students who may be considering clinical applications that use applied behavior analysis, such as the New England Center for Children internship program.

(Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and one hour of laboratory. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 20. Vaughn.

280F,S Statistics in Psychological Research. The application and interpretation of descriptive and inferential statistics in the study of psychological processes. Discussion of methodological and research design in the context of statistical techniques. Hypothesis testing using t-tests, analysis of variance, chi-square, regression and nonparametric techniques. Use of statistical computer programs to analyze data. Prerequisite, 101. The Department.

290S Psychology of Reading and Language. Introductory survey of current research on the study of reading and language with an emphasis on cognitive psychological approaches to language comprehension and language production at the word, sentence and discourse levels. Topics include neural substrates of language processing, language disorders, bilingualism and figurative language. Derivation and evaluation of models of language processing in laboratory exercises and demonstrations. Prerequisite, 101. Maximum enrollment, 20. Yee.

310F Attention and Performance. The selection and transformation of information from sensation and memory as they affect perception, learning, cognition and motor performance. Applications selected from reading, decision making, human factors and attentional disorders. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Vaughan.

315S Cognitive Psychology. Theoretical and methodological aspects of basic mental processes in attention, perception, memory, language and problem solving. Emphasis on development of original empirical projects. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Yee.

324S Developmental Psychology. In-depth study of human memory across the life span. Emphasis on an examination of age-related and disease-related processes that influence various facets of memory and on research methodologies used in the study of developmental change. Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. The Department.

330F Principles of Neuroscience. Study of the structure and function of the nervous system, with particular emphasis on neurophysiology and neuropharmacology. Coverage of recent findings in developmental neurobiology and neural plasticity. Laboratory techniques including intracellular and extracellular recording from muscle cells, sensory neurons and motor neurons. Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 205 or Biology 210. (Same as Biology 330 and Neuroscience 330.) Maximum enrollment, 18. Weldon.

[335] Social and Emotional Development. How views of self and the social world are constructed in early childhood and change with maturation and experience. How emotional experience and regulation change with maturation and life experience. Emphasis on social influences on construction of self- and world-views and on emotional experience and expression. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2001-02.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[336] Emotion. Psychological understanding of the expression and experience of emotion throughout the lifespan. Adaptive and maladaptive manifestations of emotional experiences and expression. Historical change in theoretical perspectives discussed. Laboratory component emphasizes research methods for assessing emotional experience and expression. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 203 or 280. (Offered in alternate years; next offered 2000-01.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

337S Advanced Social Psychology and Personality Laboratory. Study of the experimental and assessment methods used to investigate social psychological and personality processes. Focuses on the development of original research projects, often conducted in collaboration. Data collection, statistical analysis, papers based on findings and oral presentations. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 20. Borton.

350S Psychophysics and Sensory Physiology. An investigation of the anatomy, physiology and psychophysics of the senses. Introduction to the basic principles of sensory coding by an examination of visual, auditory, tactile, temperature, pain and chemical senses. (Writing-intensive.) Three hours of class and three hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280. (Same as Neuroscience 350.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Gescheider.

380F Educational and Psychological Assessment. An examination of historical and contemporary contexts of psychological testing. Focuses on the rationale for and uses of psychological testing, the social and ethical implications of testing, technical and methodological concerns and specific tests as they are used in educational, industrial/organizational, clinical and research settings. Three hours of class and two hours of laboratory. Prerequisite, 280 or consent of instructor. Maximum enrollment, 20. Whitmore-Hitt.

[420] Seminar on Family Relationships: Theory and Research. Focus on the roles played by family relationships in personality development, social behavior and personal adjustment. Emphasis on the empirical bases of theoretical formulations regarding the nature of family relationships and the mechanisms by which family relationships influence a variety of outcomes for family members. Statistical and methodological techniques used to explore these issues. Prerequisite, 280. Maximum enrollment, 12.

445S Seminar in Psychotherapy and Behavior Change. A selective study of psychotherapy theories and their application. Foundation work in the process of psychotherapy will include intensive laboratory work in beginning interviewing and counseling skills. A broad range of theories and their application will be covered. Prerequisite, 280 and 223. Recommended to be taken in junior year if field project or internship is planned senior year. Maximum enrollment, 12. Kazin.

455F Field Study in Psychology. Seminar in psychological services combined with eight to ten hours per week of field study in one of several cooperating local agencies and schools. Extensive written project addressing theoretical issues relevant to the population chosen for field work. Discussion topics include methods in provision of psychological, educational and applied services, and methodological and ethical issues in psychotherapy, counseling and educational psychology. Prerequisite, one course in psychopharmacology or in social or developmental psychology, and consent of instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Enrollment limited, depending on space available in cooperating agencies. Brané.

500F, 501S Senior Project. Supervised research on a specific problem in psychology or psychobiology based on proposals submitted to the department by the end of a student's junior year. Open to senior concentrators. The Department.

New England Center for Children

[295N] Analysis of Behavior: Principles and Classroom Applications.

Introduction to behavior modification and operant techniques, including clarification of more commonly used terms, with specific reference to application in the classroom. Overview of procedures and practices that have been successful in schools, communities and work settings. Field work required. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children.

[296N] Programmed Learning. Reviews the history and theoretical and experimental bases of programmed instruction and errorless learning. Emphasizes the detailed analysis of stimulus control—its measurement and ways to produce it. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children.

[297N] Biological Basis of Mental Retardation. Considers the relationship between biological malfunction of the brain in particular and the defective learning ability and other behavioral abnormalities that constitute mental retardation. Aims toward as comprehensive a survey as time permits. Includes actual case presentations as illustrative examples. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children.

348N Community-Based Treatment. An overview of clinical and research studies related to community-based treatment, with an emphasis on the development of criteria for program evaluation. Students will participate in site visits of treatment delivery sites. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children during the spring semester.

396N Systematic Inquiry in Applied Research. Requires each student to collect a comprehensive bibliography on a significant topic in applied behavior research and to complete a thorough review via written and oral presentations. Emphasizes the integration and analysis of experimental findings and theoretical foundations of the research area, the critical evaluation of current research and the identification of potentially fruitful future work. Course available to students enrolled in the cooperative program at the New England School for Children during the fall semester.

Public Policy

Paul Gary Wyckoff, Program Director

The Public Policy Program is administered through the departments of Economics, Government and Philosophy.

A concentration in Public Policy consists of 251, 382 and the Senior Project; Economics 100,110 and 275; Government 116, 230 (or Economics 265) and 338; and courses chosen from the following options:

one of the following three courses:

Philosophy 111 Contemporary Moral Issues
Philosophy 271 Ethics of Professions and Practices
Philosophy 380 Philosophy of Law

one of the following two courses:

Philosophy 450 Seminar in Ethics: Ethical Theory
Philosophy 460 Seminar in Ethics: Contemporary Theories of Justice and one of the following eight "issue areas" courses:

Economics 315 Economics of Gender and Work
Economics 350 Economics of Poverty and Income Distribution
Economics 380 Environmental Economics
Government 275 Public Education: Policy, Politics and Ideology
Government 335 The Criminal Justice System
Sociology 230 Urban Sociology
Sociology 272 Sociology of Poverty
Sociology 315 Seminar on Poverty and Homelessness

The Senior Project may be completed in one semester (500) or two semesters (500-501).

Concentrators must complete the following courses by the end of the junior year: 382; Economics 275; Government 116 and 230; one of the required courses in Philosophy; and one of the "issue areas" courses listed above.

No student may declare a concentration in Public Policy without either completing or being enrolled in 251. Students are strongly encouraged to take Government 230 (or Economics 265) by the end of the sophomore year.

Credit from the Term in Washington Program may be substituted for up to two of the courses required for a concentration, with the approval of the program director. Students interested in pursuing graduate study in policy analysis or public management are encouraged to take additional courses in substantive areas of public policy and in mathematics and statistics.

To qualify for honors in Public Policy, a student must submit a distinguished record in the concentration and perform with distinction in the Senior Project. A complete description of the Senior Project is available in Kirner-Johnson 217.

A minor in Public Policy consists of 251, Economics 110 and 275, Government 230 and Philosophy 111 (222). If the student's concentration is in Economics, Government or Philosophy, these courses cannot count in both the student's concentration and the minor. Instead, courses that are required for both the concentration and the minor will be used to satisfy concentration requirements, and they will be replaced by alternative courses in the minor requirements. These alternative courses will be chosen by the program director in consultation with the chair of the student's concentration department.

In addition to the required courses, there are many other courses in the College curriculum that will be of interest to Public Policy concentrators. Students interested in the concentration should consult as early as possible with Professor Wyckoff.

251S Introduction to Public Policy. Survey of current policies and issues in areas such as welfare, health care, the environment and agriculture. Examination of methods and principles for evaluating policies. Perspectives on policy analysis from economics, philosophy and political science. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, Economics 110. Open to juniors and seniors with consent of instructor. (Same as Economics 251 and Government 251.) Maximum enrollment in each section,20. Wyckoff.

382F Topics in Public Policy. Topic for 1999-2000: Refugee Policy. The application of theories and methods of evaluation, design and implementation in an intensive study of a significant problem of public policy. Emphasis on skills of analysis, writing and problem solving by groups. Coursework may be supplemented by field work as well as participation by scholars and practitioners sponsored by the Arthur Levitt Public Affairs Center. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 251.(Same as Government 382.) Maximum enrollment,20.The Program.

500-501 Senior Project. A one- or two-semester senior project,culminating in a thesis.The Program.

Religious Studies

Stephenson Humphries-Brooks, Chair
James P. Buchanan
Heidi M. Ravven
Richard H. Seager
Jay H. Vest

Jay G. Williams

Russell T. Blackwood III

A concentration in Religious Studies consists of nine courses, including one entry-level course and one 400-level seminar in which the senior project will normally be completed. At the time when the concentration is elected, the concentrator shall propose a carefully developed program of study including, if desired, study abroad, for the approval of the department. Honors are awarded on the basis of a cumulative average of at least B+ (88) achieved in courses approved for the concentration and the completion of 501 with an A- or better. A minor consists of five courses, including at least one course at the 400 level, proposed by the student and approved by the department. Both concentrators and minors should identify themselves to a department member as soon as possible.

105F Origins. An introduction to the study of religion through an analysis of the life, thought and influence of five great figures: Gautama (the Buddha), Lao-tze, Confucius, Jesus and Mohammed. (Writing-intensive.) One lecture and two seminars each week. Open to first- and second-year students only. Maximum enrollment in each section, 20. Williams.

108F Native American Religious Traditions. An introduction to the study of varied religious traditions throughout North America. Emphasis on both historical and contemporary expressions of ritual, ceremony, mythology, spiritual power and shamanism. Maximum enrollment, 40. Vest.

111F Ethics, Prophecy and Wisdom: An Introduction to Judaism. An analysis of major ethical themes in Judaism through the study of selections from the Bible and from Jewish literature. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Ravven.

[123F] Christianity and Culture I: From the Fall of Rome to the Reformations. Introduction to major contours of the early Western Christian tradition. Topics include monasticism, ritualism, the cult of the saints, heresy, mysticism and scholasticism. Attention paid to theological, social and cultural developments. Maximum enrollment, 40.

[125S] The Wonder That Was India. A cultural history of India from earliest times to the arrival of the British. Emphasis placed on religion, the arts and poetry. (Writing-intensive.) Open to first- and second-year students. Three hours of class and two of laboratory. Maximum enrollment, 20.

[130F] Varieties of Christian Experience. Christianity in different settings over the past 2,000 years. Topics may include monasticism, mysticism, pilgrimage and Christian ideas in politics and art. (Writing-intensive.) Maximum enrollment, 20.

[204S] Navajo Religion and Culture. An examination of the religious beliefs and traditions of the Navajo, both historical and contemporary, as manifest within the larger context of culture. Topics will include Navajo history, mythology, ceremonialism, art and witchcraft. Maximum enrollment, 40.

[208F] Social-Scientific Study of Religious Experience. An exploration of the debates regarding the use of scientific and social-scientific models to validate or invalidate spiritual experiences. In examining reports of visions, faith healing, hypnosis, channeling and past-life encounters, among others, discussions will focus on what current scientific and social-scientific models can tell us about spiritual experiences. Maximum enrollment, 40.

210F The World of Greece and the Ancient Mediterranean. For full description, see Greek 210.

216S Indian Thought. An introduction to Indian classical philosophical and religious thought. Emphasis on classical texts from Hindu and Buddhist traditions. Modern thinkers such as Vivekananda and M.K. Gandhi also covered. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies or Philosophy. (Same as Philosophy 216.) (Offered in alternate years.) Maximum enrollment, 20. Williams.

218F The Word and the Spirit. An examination of classical poetry from both Asia and Europe as an expression of the sacred. Among poets to be studied will be: Han Shan, Su Tung Po, Ryokan, Kalidasa, Jaydeva, Kabir, Rumi, Blake and Novalis. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, one course in Religious Studies. (Same as Comparative Literature 218.) Williams.

Romance Languages and Literature

Roberta L. Krueger, Chair

The Department of Romance Languages and Literature offers programs of instruction and concentrations in French and in Spanish. The foreign language is used as much as possible in the introductory courses, while all upper-level classes are conducted entirely in the foreign idiom. Because modern language study is not an abstract learning exercise limited to the classroom, the department strongly recommends study abroad and sponsors its own Junior Year in France and Academic Year in Spain programs.

A concentration in French consists of nine courses numbered 140 or higher, including 200; 211 or 212; 250 or 280; three 300-level courses; and two electives. 211 or 212 must be taken before the senior year. Any history, civilization or culture course offered by another department and concentrating specifically on France or another Franco-phone country satisfies the 250-280 requirement but will not count as one of the nine concentration courses.

During their senior year, concentrators in French must: 1) enroll in at least one 300-level course during both the fall and spring semesters; one of these courses must be 304, 306, 308 or 310; 2) complete a substantial research paper in a 300-level course each semester; 3) participate in an assessment of their oral proficiency in an interview conducted by outside examiners early in the spring semester. Concentrators may not normally fulfill the requirements for the major through the election of a 200-level course during their senior year. A complete description of the Senior Program is available in Christian Johnson 202.

To attain honors in French, students must have an average of A⁻ or better in all coursework in the department, and must, during the spring semester of their senior year, complete a third course (550) with an average of A⁻ or better on both the required paper and the oral defense. During the semester of their thesis, candidates for honors may be exempt from writing a research paper in their required 300-level class; they will fulfill all other requirements of the class.

A minor in French consists of five courses numbered 140 or higher, including at least one literature course and one course at the 300 level.

Students planning to pursue provisional New York State Secondary School Teaching Certification in French must complete all requirements for a concentration in French as well as one semester of study abroad.

Hamilton College Junior Year in France

After a preliminary four-week orientation in Biarritz, students register at the Université de Paris III. In consultation with the director, they select a program of four courses per semester from those offered at Paris III, or at other institutes such as the Institut d'Etudes Politiques, the Institut Catholique and the Ecole du Louvre. In addition, a number of special courses taught by French professors are arranged by Hamilton in Paris.

The Université de Paris and the special institutes announce their courses at the beginning of each academic year. The director makes specific course information available to students as soon as possible. A wide variety of courses in art history, economics, French language and literature, history, music, philosophy, political science, sociology and theater are offered. Students are urged to take at least one semester of a language class, and are encouraged to select a balanced program of courses in different disciplines. A detailed description of selected courses offered in 1999-2000 is contained in the program's catalogue.

All courses taken with the Hamilton College Junior Year count toward the graduation requirement. However, students with concentrations other than French must consult with the appropriate department before departure about transfer of credit for the concentration.

The Hamilton College Junior Year in France is for a full academic year. Since most university courses are annual courses, final evaluation occurs at the end of the second semester. In addition, the department believes that far greater linguistic and cultural benefits are gained from an academic year in France, rather than from a semester. Concentrators and other serious language students are therefore encouraged to participate in the nine-month program.

110F First-Term French. A thorough grounding in speaking, writing, reading and comprehension. Textbook readings and exercises supplemented by short poems and films. Four hours of class, with additional drill and laboratory work. Intended for beginners. First-year students who follow the sequence through 140 may qualify for the Junior Year in France Program, with consent of the director. Davis.

111F Intensive French Review. A fast-paced course for students who have had some French in high school but need a thorough revision of basics before continuing. Grammatical review and intensive oral and written practice. Four hours of class a week; regular lab work and weekly hour of drills with an assistant. Students who complete the class with C or better can enroll in 130 in the spring. Guyot-Bender.

120S Second-Term French. Further work in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. Four hours of class, with additional drill and laboratory work. Prerequisite, 110. Students placed in 111 should select 111F, which is a general review; 120S is a continuation of 110. Charbonneau.

130F,S Third-Term French. Review of grammar and syntax. Reading and vocabulary training. Oral practice. Three hours of class, with additional drill and laboratory work. Prerequisite, 111 or 120. Davis and Lauzel (Fall); Lauzel (Spring).

140F,S Fourth-Term French. Intensive practice in oral and written expression. Reading and discussion of selected texts. Introduction to composition. Three hours of class and one hour of discussion. Charbonneau and Morgan (Fall); Mwantuali (Spring).

200F,S Introduction to French Studies. A "bridge" course between language and content-based courses. Focus on written and oral argumentation; introduction to the analysis of literary and cultural texts; survey of social issues in France. Advanced grammar in context and vocabulary building. (Writing-intensive.) Krueger (Fall); Guyot-Bender (Spring).

211F Introduction to French Literature I. Study of representative works of literature from 1800 to the present within their sociopolitical and intellectual context. Special attention given to literary analysis. Oral participation required. Written and oral reports. Taught in French. Although not a prerequisite, 200 is strongly recommended. Mwantuali.

212S Introduction to French Literature II. Study of representative genres from the Middle Ages to 1800: the epic, romance, the lai, lyric poetry, theatre and prose fiction. Focus on problems and techniques of literary analysis. Class discussion, oral presentations and papers. (Writing-intensive.) Taught in French. Although not a prerequisite, 200 is strongly recommended. Morgan.

250F Exploring Contemporary France. Variety of perspectives on twentieth-century France including geography and history; recent evolution of France within the European and Francophone context; social groups and popular culture. Class material includes documentaries and films. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, 140 required, 200 strongly recommended. Guyot-Bender.

[270] The Art of Translation. Study of the theory and practice of literary translation in French and English. Comparative analysis of translations of different periods and genres. Students prepare their own translations in English of selected poems or short texts. Taught in French and English. Prerequisite, any 200-level course in French or consent of instructor.

275S Phonetics and Conversation. An introduction to the phonetic alphabet and the production of French sounds. General tendencies of spoken French, with concentration on the special problems of Americans. Pronunciation exercises and individual correction will alternate with discussion of current events in France. Prerequisite, 200 or consent of instructor. Departmental consent required for those who have studied in a French-speaking country. Charbonneau.

[277S] French Culture and European Identity, 1940-1999. This course reflects on the role of French culture in the construction of European identity. The interactions developed between France and its neighbors in recent years will be underlined in a historical perspective in light of such concepts as supranationalism, multicultural policies and memory (versus history). Specific issues addressed and reviewed through films include Vichy France, decolonization and reconstruction, steps taken toward (or against) European integration, European stereotypes and lifestyles, May '68 and its sequels, sociological and economic aspects of a "European model" and gender and immigration policies.

[280F] Francophone Cultures. An introduction to cultures of different French-speaking areas outside of France, with an emphasis on the Francophone culture and literature of Quebec. Topics include social organization, colonization, nationalism, politics, literature and language conflicts. Discussion based on readings and audio-visual material. Taught in French. Although not a prerequisite, 200 is strongly recommended. Instructor's consent required for those returning from study in France. (Same as Africana Studies 280.) (Next offered 2000-01.)

295S Advanced Composition and Oral Practice. A practical course, conducted entirely in French, with emphasis on oral and written use of the language. Regular compositions and short oral reports. Discussion of current events as presented in the press and television news and cultural analysis of several carefully selected French films. Particularly intended to prepare students for study abroad. (Writing-intensive.) Prerequisite, any 200-level course in French or consent of instructor. Departmental consent required for those who have studied in a French-speaking country. Maximum enrollment, 18. Davis.

[304S] Saints and Sinners in Old French Narrative. An examination of the construction of questions of conscience in selected saints' lives, correspondence, romances and fabliaux (ribald tales) from twelfth- and thirteenth-century France. Readings include the Vie de Saint Alexis, the letters of Abelard and Heloise, fragments of the legend of Tristan and Iseult, the Lais and selected Fables of Marie de France, Chrétien de Troyes' Lancelot and Perceval, selected fabliaux and the Mort le Roi Artu. Prerequisite, any 200-level course or consent of instructor. (Next offered 2000-01.)

306S Comic Visions in French Literature from the Fabliaux to Figaro. Analysis of comic perspectives on society, language and literature from Old French farce through the early modern period. Works and authors include Aucassin et Nicolette, selected fabliaux, the Farce de Maistre Pathelin, Marguerite de Navarre, Rabelais, Molière and Le Mariage de Figaro. Taught in the original French or in modern French translation when appropriate. Prerequisite, 211 or above or consent of instructor.

[308F] The Moralists and Their Times. Combines an introduction to seventeenth-century French culture and society with an analysis of the period's thinking on manners, morals, methodology, duty, self-love, sociability and animal souls. Authors include Descartes, La Bruyère, La Fontaine, La Rochefoucauld, Mme de Lafayette, Molière and Pascal. Prerequisite, 200.French 211 or 212 highly recommended. (Next offered 2000-01.)

315F Writing the City: Literary Paris. Examination of the ways in which an increasingly modern Paris looms large in the nineteenth-century literary imagination. Topics include money, licit and illicit pleasure, alienation, "flânerie," fashion, urban renewal and decadence. Attention to the historical and social geography of nineteenth-century Paris complements close readings of Balzac, Girardin, Flaubert, Baudelaire, Zola and Verne. Prerequisite, 211 or above or consent of instructor. Morgan.

[325F] Constructing and Deconstructing Romanticism. This course will explore the complexity of French Romanticism as it informs the society's image of itself through six novels and other documents from the period. A comparatist approach will characterize Romantic features in the novels, such as the emergence of Romantic heroes and other types. Particular attention will be devoted to Romantic stereotypes and the way in which elements of French culture are distorted by Romantic representations. All students will also collaborate in a common project to be decided upon as a group early in the semester.

335S Reality as Fragment: Surrealism, the Absurd and Commitment Between the Two Wars. Artistic reactions to World War I and anticipation of World War II. Focus on Surrealist movement and on authors/thinkers who systematically questioned social and political assumptions about coherence and meaning. Dream, idealism, the self and ideology. Readings from Aragon, Breton, Yourcenar, Giraudoux, Michaux and Malraux. Class material includes poetry, narratives and visual art with work on Surrealist painting and cinema and Renoir's La règle du jeu. Prerequisite, 211 or above or consent of instructor. Guyot-Bender.

[345S] War in Twentieth-Century Literature. Exploration of various ways of writing about war, with an emphasis on novel and film. Textual analysis will be used to examine the notion of commitment, parody, the writing of history and the treatment of reality in modern fiction. Introduction to narrative technique and theories of the novel. Authors studied include Cocteau, Duras, Leduc, Gracq and Modiano. Taught in French. Prerequisite, any 200-level course or consent of instructor.

[355S] Studies in Francophone Literature: The African Novel. Critical examination of the novel's evolution from the colonial period through independence and on to post-colonial writing. The search for authenticity and answers to problems of narrative technique, oral and written traditions, audience, African feminism, politics and the role of the writer. Authors include Lomani Tshibamba, Sembene Ousmane, Nafissatou Diallo, Andrée Blouin, Valentine-Yves Mudimbe, Ahmadou Kourouma, Henri Lopes, Calixthe Beyala, Aminata Sow Fall and Mariama Ba. Taught in French. Prerequisite, any 200-level course in French or consent of instructor. (Same as Africana Studies 355.)

370S Special Topics—Taking to the Streets: Revolution, Protest and Resistance in Modern France. Study of selected forms and sites of contentions in France associated with the Revolutions of 1789, 1848, the Commune, the French Resistance, the Algerian War and May, 1968. Attention to various strategies of voicing and representing conflict and resistance. Primary materials include novels, journalism, lithography, photography, graffiti and film. Taught in French. Prerequisite, 211 or above or consent of instructor. Morgan.

550S Honors Project. Independent study program consisting of the preparation and oral defense of a paper for students who qualify as candidates for departmental honors. Only students having an average of A⁻ or better in courses counting toward the concentration at the end of the first semester of the senior year may qualify. In order to earn honors, other requirements must be fulfilled as outlined above. The Department.

French Literature in Translation

[237S] Francophone Literature in Translation: The African Novel. Critical examination of the novel's evolution from the colonial period through independence and on to post-colonial writing. A concentration in Spanish consists of nine courses numbered 140 or higher, including the 400 Senior Seminar (normally for honors candidates), at least five of which must be taken at Hamilton or in the Hamilton College Academic Year in Spain. These must include three courses at the 200-level numbered 210 or higher (or similar courses approved by the department), one of which must be in literature and another in culture; and a minimum of three courses at the 300-level or higher, relating to Peninsular, Latin American or Latino/a literature and culture (or similar courses approved by the department), including at least one in both the Peninsular and Latin American fields, and at least one in both early (before 1800) and modern (after 1800) periods. Any history or culture course offered by another department or College program (such as Africana Studies, Anthropology, Art, Economics, Government, History, Music, Philosophy, Religion, Sociology, Theater and Dance, or Women's Studies) and concentrating specifically on Spain, Latin America or Latino/a United States may satisfy the 200-level requirement but will not count as one of the nine concentration courses. Only one course in translation (from Spanish, Comparative Literature or English) and concentrating specifically on Spain, Latin America, Latino/a United States or literary theory may be counted as one of the nine courses for the concentration or as one of the five required for the minor. Concentrators may not normally fulfill the requirement for the concentration through the election of 200-level courses during the senior year. Concentrators participate in an assessment of their oral proficiency in an interview conducted by outside examiners early in the spring semester.

In order to fulfill the requirements for the major, all concentrators in Spanish are advised to complete the language series or the equivalent by the end of the fall semester (and no later than the spring) of their sophomore year, either through the completion of the regular sequence (110, 120, 130, 140, 200), the intensive sequence (115, 135, 200), or the native speaker offering (201), or by way of a placement waiver.

All concentrators in Spanish are required to complete the Senior Program sequence by completion of a 300-level or higher course in both the fall and spring semesters, and, if not honors candidates, by writing a substantial research paper in one of these courses. The Spanish 400 Senior Seminar, normally required for honors candidates and strongly advised for Spanish concentrators, emphasizes the importance of scholarly research and critical methodology and culminates in an original essay, which itself may lead to the subject matter dealt with in a subsequent Senior Project (Spanish 550).

Honors are awarded on the basis of a concentration cumulative average of at least B+ (88) and the completion of Spanish 550 (in lieu of the 300-level spring requirement) with distinction (a grade of A⁻ or higher).

A minor in Spanish consists of five courses numbered 200 or higher, including at least one literature course and one course (excluding courses in translation) at the 300 level or higher.

Students planning to pursue New York State Secondary School Teaching Certification in Spanish must complete all requirements for a concentration in Spanish as well as one semester of study abroad.

Hamilton College Academic Year in Spain

The Academic Year in Spain was established in 1974 to offer the highest possible academic standards (i.e., distinguished professors, small classes and the speaking of Spanish only), along with careful attention to the intellectual, cultural and social needs of each student.

Directors-in-residence are drawn from Hamilton, Williams and Swarthmore colleges. The program is administered at Hamilton by a general director and by the Programs Abroad Committee of the Department of Romance Languages. Also affiliated with the program are Amherst and Haverford colleges.

All courses are taught entirely in Spanish and encompass a wide variety of linguistic and cultural areas, including advanced language, the art of translation, the history of Spanish art, cinema, analysis of poetic texts, Cervantes, contemporary theater, nineteenth- and twentieth-century narrative, contemporary Spanish and Latin American history, the economy of Spain, anthropology, sociology, contemporary Spanish politics, folklore and music, and the role of Spain within the current European context. The courses are given by members of the Facultad de Filosofía y Letras of the Universidad Complutense de Madrid or by other authorities in the field of letters, history, social science or the arts. Language and civilization classes form part of a fall orientation program in the northern coast village of Comillas, while a similar arrangement for spring students takes place in the town of Nerja on the southern coast. Frequent group excursions to all parts of Spain serve to complement the rich academic and social opportunities of the capital city.

The program is open to sophomores, juniors and first-semester seniors. Although it is in principle a full-year program, application may be made for either the fall or spring sessions. To be eligible, students must normally have completed at least one 200-level Spanish course and have a strong academic average.

110F First-Term Spanish. Thorough grounding in aural comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. Study and concentrated practice of approximately three-fifths of the basic Spanish grammatical structures. Linguistically oriented and conducted according to the intensive oral method. Writing Program

The College is committed to insuring standards of correctness in all written work and to developing effective writing. The Writing Program requires that every student pass at least three courses designated as writing-intensive by the Committee on Academic Policy. Each course must be taken in a different semester, and at least one must be taken in the first year. At least one writing-intensive course must be outside the student's area of concentration. Writing-intensive courses in Mathematics or courses in which assignments are written in a language other than English may total no more than one of the three required courses. The requirement should be completed by the end of the junior year.

Most departments offer writing-intensive courses. In exceptional circumstances, the Committee on Academic Policy will permit a student to earn no more than one writing-intensive credit by completing a suitably constructed independent study.

Students for whom Standard English is not a first or native language may be advised to elect College Writing 101 in the first semester. It is a writing-intensive course especially designed to assist those students in sharpening their writing skills for college-level work in all academic disciplines.

The following courses are designated as writing-intensive:

Federal and State Assistance Programs

Federal Awards

All federal assistance programs are constantly under review. The statements below were accurate as of May 1999, but subsequent legislation may have altered some of the programs. Please contact the Office of Financial Aid if you have any questions.

A candidate's eligibility for the following federal aid programs is based on a formula developed by the Congress of the United States and referred to as the Federal Methodology. The College may amend FM results in the awarding of institutional funds.

Federal Pell Grants

The former Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program was renamed in 1980 after Senator Claiborne Pell in honor of his efforts to help establish the program. Grants for full-time study currently range between $400 and $3,125. Grant amounts may be adjusted annually to reflect amounts authorized and appropriated by the federal government.

The amount of an individual's award is determined by the Office of Financial Aid based on the results of a candidate's Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

In order to continue receiving awards, a student must make satisfactory academic progress, and must not owe any refunds to the Federal Pell Grant or other federal aid programs or be in default on repayment of any student loan.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG)

Supplemental grants range between $100 and $4,000 annually and are awarded to students who demonstrate need, with preference given to recipients of Federal Pell Grants. The College's annual federal allocation of FSEOG funds is adequate to make only about 80 awards. Candidates who demonstrate need continue to be eligible for FSEOG assistance during the period required for the completion of the first undergraduate baccalaureate course of study.

Federal Perkins Loans

All candidates who apply for assistance are considered for Federal Perkins Loans. The number of Perkins Loans awarded annually may vary, depending upon repayments received by Hamilton from past borrowers, as well as federal appropriations. Aggregate maximum Federal Perkins Loan debt is $15,000 through completion of the baccalaureate degree, but not more than $4,000 in any one year. The current interest rate on Federal Perkins Loans is 5 percent on the unpaid balance. Repayment normally begins after graduation. Deferments are possible for several reasons, including military service and work in the Peace Corps or VISTA.

Federal Family Education Loan Program

The Higher Education Amendments of 1992 extended borrowing opportunities to all families, regardless of income or need. Students are eligible to borrow through the Federal Stafford Loan Program, and parents may borrow through a program called Federal Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS). Interest subsidy for Federal Stafford Loans, however, is restricted to those borrowers who demonstrate eligibility as based on the Federal Methodology. All student borrowers must file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to receive Federal Stafford Loan funds. The combined Federal Stafford, PLUS loan and other student aid cannot exceed the cost of attendance. Federal Family Loans are available only to United States citizens or to noncitizens who have permanent resident status. Lending institutions such as banks and credit unions provide funds for both the Federal Stafford and Federal PLUS loans. Hamilton recommends certain lenders for their excellent service and the Office of Financial Aid may be contacted for the names of these lenders.

Robert T. Stafford Federal Student Loan Program

Loans of up to $2,625 for first year, $3,500 for second year, and $5,500 for third- and fourth-year students are available for study at Hamilton through the Federal Stafford Loan Program. Maximum dependent undergraduate indebtedness cannot exceed $23,000. The average indebtedness at Hamilton is much less than the statutory maximum. The interest rate on Federal Stafford Loans is established at the time the first loan is made. The rate for those who borrowed for the first time on or after July 1, 1994, is variable, but cannot exceed 8.25 percent.

Even though the statutory maximum may be borrowed, interest subsidy is available only on that portion for which the borrower has demonstrated need. It is necessary, therefore, for all applicants to file the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). An origination fee of up to 4 percent will be deducted from all loans at the time of disbursement.

Federal PLUS Loans

Federal Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students are available only to creditworthy borrowers who seek assistance in meeting expected family contributions. There is no current maximum loan except that the amount borrowed cannot exceed the cost of education, less other financial assistance received by the student.

The interest rate for a Federal PLUS is variable, but cannot exceed 9 percent. Variable interest rates are set each June. Lenders are charged with the responsibility of notifying borrowers of interest rate changes.

An origination fee of up to 4 percent will be deducted from all loans at the time of disbursement. Federal PLUS borrowers are generally expected to begin repayment within 60 days after the final loan disbursement. Deferments or postponements of payment on the principal are available in limited instances.

Federal Work-Study Program (FWSP)

For students in financial need, Hamilton arranges jobs on-campus or off-campus with public or private non-profit agencies such as hospitals. Application is made through the Office of Financial Aid. Hamilton gives preference to students who have the greatest financial need and who must earn a part of their educational expenses. Class schedule, academic progress and health are also considered in determining eligibility. Wage is determined by the nature of the job and the qualifications of the applicant.

United States Bureau of Indian Affairs Aid to Native Americans

Students who are at least one-fourth Native American Indian, Eskimo or Aleut and are enrolled members of a tribe, band or group recognized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs may qualify for aid under this program. Application forms may be obtained from the Bureau of Indian Affairs Office.

Veterans Administration (VA) Educational Benefits

Persons who served more than 180 days between January 31, 1955, and January 1, 1977, and continue on active duty, were honorably discharged at the end of their tours of duty, or who qualify because of service-connected disabilities are eligible for benefits. Veterans are entitled to benefits for one and one-half months of study for each month of service, up to 45 months.

Children, spouses and survivors of veterans whose deaths or permanent total disabilities were service-connected, or who are listed as missing in action, may be eligible for benefits under the same conditions as veterans.

State Awards

In compliance with the New York State Education Department regulations, eligibility for the continuation of funds awarded through the Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) or Regents Awards for Children of Deceased or Disabled Veterans requires the following minimal levels of academic progress:*

* Legislation passed in July 1981 subjects only those candidates who received any of the above awards for the first time during the 1981-82 year or thereafter to these regulations.

Pursuit of the program of study toward the baccalaureate degree requires the completion of at least two courses during both the fall and spring terms of the first year, and the completion of at least three courses during the fall and spring terms of each succeeding year.

Satisfactory progress toward the completion of the degree requirements must be achieved. Satisfactory progress is not made by students who fail to pass at least half of the courses carried, who accumulate failures in a total of five courses, or who incur a third probation. Satisfactory progress includes the following minimal number of courses passed for the respective semi-annual TAP payments: first payment = 0 units, second payment = 3 units, third payment = 7 units, fourth payment = 10 units, fifth payment = 14 units, sixth payment = 17 units, seventh payment = 21 units, eighth payment = 24 units.

Failure to maintain these minimal standards of academic progress will result in the loss of funds from the TAP program. Any questions regarding this requirement should be addressed to either the registrar or the director of financial aid.

Tuition Assistance Program (TAP)

The Tuition Assistance Program is available to any New York State resident who is enrolled full time in an approved educational program in New York State. The amount of TAP is based on the amount of tuition charged and family net taxable income (income after deductions). Net taxable income (NTB) may be adjusted for additional family members enrolled in college full time, or for child support received from a non-custodial parent.

The maximum net taxable income for TAP eligibility during the academic year is $50,500, but varies depending upon when TAP was first received. Awards will range from $100 to $4,125 per year, depending on the NTB and the year in which the first award was received. After a candidate has received payment for four semesters of study, his or her maximum award is reduced by $200 per year for each subsequent year of study. Undergraduate students generally will be eligible for no more than eight semesters of TAP payments, although students in certain pre-approved programs may be eligible for up to ten semesters.

Applications for TAP must be filed annually with the New York State Higher Education Services Corporation, 99 Washington Avenue, Albany, NY 12255.

Vietnam Veterans Tuition Award Program

The Vietnam Veterans Tuition Award Program provides financial assistance to veterans enrolled in undergraduate degree programs on either a full- or part-time basis. A listing of the institutions having approved degree programs is included in the supplemental application.

To be eligible under this program, the veteran must:

- have served in the armed forces in the United States in Indochina between January 1, 1963, and May 7, 1975;
- have been discharged from the service under other than dishonorable conditions;
- have been a resident of New York State on April 20, 1984, or have been a resident at time of entry into the service and resumed residency by September 1, 1987;
- apply for a Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) award and a Federal Pell Grant if applying as a full-time student or for the Federal Pell Grant only if applying as a part-time student.

Duration: Full-time Study—Awards are available for up to eight semesters for a four year program, or 10 semesters if a degree program is specifically approved as requiring five years. (Programs of remedial study are considered to be programs normally requiring five years.) Part-time Study—Awards are available for students taking 6 to 11 hours (or the equivalent per semester) for up to 16 semesters (eight years), or 20 semesters (ten years) in an approved program which would normally require five years if the study were full-time.

Amount: Full-time awards are $500 per semester or tuition, whichever is less. If the veteran also receives a Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) award, the combination of the two awards cannot exceed tuition. Part-time awards are $250 per semester or tuition, whichever is less. The total of all awards for full- and/or part-time study received cannot exceed $5,000.

Regents Awards for Children of Deceased or Disabled Veterans

An award of $450 per year is available to students who are the children of veterans who have died, have a current disability of 50 percent or more, or had such a disability at the time of death, resulting from United States military service during one of the following periods: April 16, 1917-November 11, 1918; December 7, 1941-December 31, 1946; June 25, 1950-July 27, 1953; or October 1, 1961-March 29, 1973. This award, available to New York State residents, is independent of family income or tuition and is made in addition to other grants or awards to which the applicant may be entitled.

State Aid to Native Americans

Awards of $1,100 per year for a maximum of four years of study are available to members of Native American tribes located on reservations within New York State. Additional information can be obtained by writing to the Native American Education Unit, New York State Education Department, Albany, NY 12234.

Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP)

HEOP awards are given to academically and financially disadvantaged students admitted to the HEOP. Such awards are packaged with other needed assistance.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act Annual Notice

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. They are:

1. The right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days of the day the College receives a request for access. Students should submit to the registrar, dean of students, academic department head or other appropriate official, written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. The College official will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where the records may be inspected. If the records are not maintained by the College official to whom the request was submitted, that official shall advise the student of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.
2. The right to request the amendment of the student's education records that the student believes are inaccurate or misleading. Students may ask the College to amend a record that they believe is inaccurate or misleading. They should write the College official responsible for the record, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate or misleading.

If the College decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the College will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.

3. The right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.
 - a. One exception which permits disclosure without consent is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is a person employed by the College throughout in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person or company with whom the College has contracted (such as an attorney, auditor or collection agent); a person serving on the board of trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks.

A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility. Upon request, the College discloses education records without consent to officials of another school, upon request, in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.
 - b. Another exception that permits disclosure without consent is the disclosure of directory information, which the law and the College define to include the following: a student's name, home and campus address, e-mail address, telephone listing, parents' name and address(es), date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, photograph and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended. This information is generally disclosed only for College purposes, such as news releases and athletic programs, and not to outside vendors.

This exception is subject to the right of the student to object to the designation of any or all of the types of information listed above as directory information in his or her case, by giving notice to the dean of students on or before September 15 of any year. If such an objection is not received, the College will release directory information when appropriate.

4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the College to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, DC 20202-4605

5. Questions regarding FERPA and the procedures followed by the College to comply with the act may be referred to the dean of students or the registrar.
