David de Frutos Ostrander was born in Spain. He started playing the horn at the age of 7 at his local music school in Tafalla, Navarre. At the age of 14 he entered the “Pablo Sarasate” Professional Conservatory of Music, where he studied under the tutelage of Joanna Garwacka. David enrolled at Hamilton College in 2019, where he is majoring in Mathematics with a minor in Japanese. He is currently studying horn with Jon Garland, piano with Sar-Shalom Strong, and euphonium with Heather Buchman. He is also principal horn of the Hamilton College Orchestra, plays euphonium with the Hamilton College Brass Ensemble, and is president of the Hamilton College Wind Ensemble. When he is back in Spain, David plays horn with Tafalla’s municipal band “La Tafallesa.”

Pianist Sar-Shalom Strong is recognized for highly sensitive performances as soloist and collaborative artist. He has performed concerti and orchestral keyboard with the Utica Symphony, Hamilton College Orchestra, and Symphoria, and frequently appears on concert series throughout New York and the northeast. Since 2001, Strong has taught piano at Hamilton College as well as privately, and regularly coaches aspiring musicians. He was recently awarded a Top Teacher Award for 2022 from Steinway & Sons.
